EVANS CALLS SUCCOP IN PROBE

Today

The City of Rochester.
A Great University.
Education by Pictures.
Reflectors for Russia.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 17.

THIS CITY, by voluntary action of its principal employers, has initiated a plan of unemployment insurance that should spread. Rochester, a great manufacturing city, one of the ablest in the country, has fought unemployment with part-time work, and especially by refraining from wage cutting. One man, well paid, can help others.

OF THE CITY'S institutions the University of Rochester, admirably developed under Dean Weld, is the most important. And the most interesting feature of the university is its library, admirably planned.

Absolutely fireproof, with a huge tower built to contain 17 stories and room for 1,000,000 books, the library should be studied and imitated. Mr. Eastman, chief citizen of Rochester, has given $15,000,000 to the university and Mr. Rockefeller has given $5,000,000 to its medical school.

IN MR. EASTMAN'S kodak factory, under the direction of Dr. Finnegan, is a new educational institution that may prove more important in future years than any school now on earth. It is a laboratory for the production of educational moving pictures.

Physics and various other branches of science are made clear to young minds in these pictures that have passed the experimental stage, being regularly shown in hundreds of schools. All the public schools of Pittsburgh have them, proving that city's intelligence.

The greatest teaching genius could not in 10 hours convey to the mind what these pictures can convey in 15 minutes.

MR. EASTMAN, one of the world's greatest manufacturers, has already dedicated his great fortune to public works, reserving only an income for life. All that he has done may in future be accounted less important than his work for education by moving pictures.

As Ruskin testified long ago, photography in itself is the greatest force for education. With motion and color added, it will shorten education as stenography has shortened writing.

IT WOULD interest you to see gigantic machines as big as newspaper presses creating and winding up broad sheets of transparent film to supply cameras and the moving picture industry of the world.

A few years ago when 12 of these machines had been installed, Mr. Eastman, showing them to one of his foreign representatives, said:

"Those machines can supply the whole world with film for the next hundred years."

Since that time Mr. Eastman has discarded the 12 machines as archaic and has installed others with 20 times their capacity. You never can tell how much the world will use of anything, if it is well advertised.

IMPORTANT TO America and its workers is the new Eastman research laboratory, with 350 rooms equipped for 250 scientists that will devote time and knowledge exclusively to development of new ideas and BETTER METHODS, scientific research work carried on by all great American industries in the world's most important war.

It is war for world's markets and industrial scientists will win its battles with their brains.

ROCHESTER'S important institutions include the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company, most important in the world. You see clear white sand transformed into glass that enables human beings to read when they are old and brings planets and the stars closer for men to study.

Among other things you see something magnificent, a beautifully polished parabolic reflector mirror, five feet across, made of finest glass, with silver back of the glass, and copper back of the silver. This powerful reflector is one of 150 ORDERED BY THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT.

With an arc light of 150 amperes, this reflector sends into space a beam of light possessing 1,250,000,000 candle power.

RUSSIA DOES not mean to be taken by surprise. These giant reflectors for coast defense and battleships are intended to "pick up" enemy airplanes for the information of Russian anti-aircraft gunners. With 1,250,000,000 candlepower, airplanes could be found at any depth in the sky.

Recently, visiting the General Electric plant at Schenectady, the writer was shown the greatest hydraulic turbine ever built and was told "That's for Russia." To find here a tremendous battery of reflecting mirrors also for Russia, indicates that Russians are busy no matter what the unemployment and depression may be elsewhere.

ALMOST AS interesting as the great parabolic reflector is a sign posted in the Bausch and Lomb factory reminding the workers that such a day is "teeth cleaning time." Fifteen dental hygienists from the Rochester Dental Dispensary will "clean your teeth and chart any defects."

That service which cost workers nothing is another of George Eastman's ideas. His money established it.

Such tooth service can add years to a worker's life and usefulness, saving him from rheumatism and other crippling diseases that often start from infection at the root of a tooth

BAUSCH AND LOMB attend to the big, and the little, in their line. The factory that

MOORE SUIT TRACES 63 ARTICLES

Removed From Warehouse to Envoy's Niece; Court Scores Transfer Procedure

More of the 121 articles which Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit contends are missing from the estate of her mother, Lillian Russell, today were traced to Mrs. Mildred Martin, niece of Alexander P. Moore, in the hearing of Mrs. Calvit's suit to break the Moore will.

Records of the Union Trust Company, executor of the Moore will, showed that after Moore's death the trust company authorized Haugh & Keenan to release from their warehouse to Mrs. Martin 63 items stored there by Moore in February, 1929.

Mrs. Calvit contends that some of these 63 articles belonged to her mother.

TRANSFER ORDERED

The trust company made such authorization after three persons—Mrs. Sue M. Addy, Moore's sister; Mrs. Lena Chapman, Moore's housemaid, and Jessie Sutherland, Moore's secretary—had signed a certificate attesting that the property belonged to Mrs. Martin.

To this Judge Thomas P. Trimble asserted:

"Somebody rendered a judicial opinion on the certificate of these three women. The whole matter should have been submitted to court."

As the hearing opened today Judge Trimble asked for a copy of the agreement whereby Mrs. Calvit agreed to accept $35 weekly from the estate of her mother when the Union Trust Company

U.S. CITIZENS TOLD TO QUIT NICARAGUA

Stimson's Warning Refuses Protection by Marines Against Raids of Bandits

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson today gave notice to American citizens in Nicaragua that the American government could not undertake general protection of its citizens in that country.

The State Department prefaced its recommendation with the following instructions to the legation at Managua and the Blusfields consulate:

"In view of the outbreak of banditry in portions of Nicaragua hitherto free from such violence you will advise American citizens that this government cannot undertake general protection of Americans throughout that country with American forces.

"To do so would lead to difficulties and commitments which this government does not propose to undertake."

The notification sent through the legation at Managua and the consulate at Bluefields recommended that "all Americans who do not feel secure under the protection afforded them by the Nicaraguan country through the Nicaraguan National Guard withdraw from the country, or at least to the coast towns, whence they can be protected or evacuated in case of necessity." The notice added:

"Those who remain do so at their own risk and must not expect American forces to be sent inland to their aid."

First picture of Queen Victoria and other members of the royal family, one of her sons and one of her daughters, pictured in their car as they crossed the border into France at Hendaye after the fall of the Spanish throne. This is the first time in history that American newspapers have been serviced with triple-transmitted pictures for illustrating a "spot news" story originating thousands of miles away. Telegraphed across France and the Channel, radioed across the ocean and received by telephone simultaneously in seven of the largest American cities, these pictures are brought to Americans by the many Hearst Newspapers.

SEEKS LIGHT ON CITY JOB PROMISES

Contractor's Records on Boulevard Work Gone; Judge Drew Makes Denial

Developments in the public hearing of Attorney Henry Oliver Evans' charges against the Department of Public Works in City Council today were:

1—Evans asked that Bertram L. Succop, deposed director of Department of Supplies, be called to testify concerning conversation with Joseph J. Darney on city contracts.

2—Records of M. O'Herron Contracting Company, showing payments for truck hire for hauling spoil from Boulevard of Allies in 1928, have been destroyed, it was testified.

3—Judge James B. Drew denied that Hom M. Reed, of bureau of engineering, promised razing of his old Sherman Hotel Building in Grant street at the cost of the city.

4—Private detectives, employed by Attorney Evans, are investigating activities and records of city inspectors.

ASKS FOR SUCCOP

Just before adjournment Attorney Evans asked President Herron to subpena Succop to appear at the hearing. Evans said he desired to question the former director of the Supplies Department concerning a conversation he had had with Joseph J. Darney, building wrecker, in which Succop was said to have promised Darney to obtain for him a contract for razing five houses on Independence street.

Continuing his efforts to obtain records of payment for truck hire for spoil haulage from the Boulevard of the Allies improvement in 1928, Attorney Evans was told today that the records and cancelled checks for that year had been destroyed. This was the testimony of Stephen G. Burke, a bookkeeper for the O'Herron company, called after Evans had been assured by Joseph Kissane, Sr.,

Ty Hopes to Dissuade Wife From Divorce

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 17.—(INS.)—Augusta friends of Ty Cobb, retired baseball star, revealed today that Cobb will not contest his wife's suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty, but hopes to effect a reconciliation before the case comes to trial.

Cobb, rushing here from the Pacific Coast, paused last night to telephone a friend and gave this information.

Mary Pickford Plans To Join Fairbanks

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 17.—(AP.)—Mary Pickford, film star, said last night she planned to leave in two weeks for New York and London to join her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, screen star, who has been hunting in India. Fairbanks now is in Europe, Miss Pickford said.

GALA WELCOME TO CITY GUESTS

Pittsburgh today was preparing to extend its Hospitality Day welcome to week-end visitors next Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the air, on the ground and under the ground.

Carnegie Institute of Technology will hold open house Friday night, presenting an exhibition with students at work in shops, laboratories and studios.

It will be a gala occasion next week with merchants, civic organizations and public officials extending the city's greeting to visitors by automobile, airplane, trolley or train. The Better Traffic Committee planned to keep the main arteries of travel open for out-of-town autoists with special attention to the Liberty tubes

SPAIN IGNORES ALFONSO DEFI

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, April 17.—Confident that the monarchy has vanished permanently, the Republican government assumed the task of keeping Spain united in the face of disruptive qualms in some provinces, and today turned its back upon Alfonso's claim that he remains king.

While the newly-established government was grappling with communistic eruptions in various parts of the country and attempting to forestall the threatened Catalonian secession, it received reports that rioteres in Barcelona had released all prisoners from jails while police stood by, despite martial law.

The announcement by Alfonso that he had not abdicated and hoped to be back on the throne soon created little comment.

GOVERNMENT STATEMENT

A government statement disposed of the matter in the following summary:

CONCRETE FORM BREAKS, 4 HURT

Four men were injured, one seriously, when a 24-foot concrete form gave way today on the second floor of the Corliss Creamery Company building under construction at 1230 Reedsdale street, North Side. Three of them, taken to Allegheny General Hospital, are:

Chester Morgan, 29, of 210 West Robinson street, possible fracture of the back, condition is serious; Vincent Rea 21, of 1606 Cliff street, contusions of the back, and Dominic Franciscina, 47, of 6704 Rowan street, East End, contusions of the back.

John Haddock, 51, of 117 Overbeck street, was treated at the hospital for abrasions of the leg and was released.

The men were pouring concrete into forms when the section collapsed, they said. The building is being constructed by the Pittsburgh Brick and Stone Company.

West End Street Collapses, 2 Hurt

Two city workmen were injured today when the foundation of a street collapsed on them as they worked underground at West Carson and South Main streets. They were treated in South Side Hospital.

Edward Magee, bricklayer, of the Eighteenth Ward, was buried under a ton of bricks, concrete and dirt; Oliver Williams, Negro, was cut by a falling brick.

Williams rescued Magee while another workman.

Nixon-Nirdlinger Babies Get Guardian

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP.)—The Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia was named by the Orphans Court as guardian to protect the interests of the two small children of Frederick G. Nixon-Nirdlinger in their father's estate.

Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theater magnate, was shot to death in Nice, France, on March 11, by his wife, the former Charlotte Nash, of St. Louis.

Al Was All Right As Kings Went, And How He Went

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Let's see how Alfonso stands. After leaving Spain he now says he hasn't abdicated. Can 50,000,000 Spaniards be wrong?

He's got about $40,000,000 pasted away in storm-proof banks. That ain't hay.

They have been shooting at Al ever since he has been 3 years old. At least in a republic they wait until you are old enough to shoot back.

The only disadvantage of not being king is that he will have to make his speeches shorter.

He can come to America and start a good monument and marble works with statues of himself.

Our undercover man in the blanket factory told us about Alfonso's 40,000,000. Al salted it away in European banks and said:

"There's one nest egg they will never scramble into a Spanish omelet."

So why waste the bitter tear over Alfonso, when we can cry into our own soup?

We concede he was a good king, as kings went, and we concede he went.

And his future? Well, it's kind of tough to spend the rest of your life counting your money and sorting your jewelry.

Ex-Vet Bureau Head Runs 'Gas' Station

PASADENA, Cal., April 17.—(INS.)—That Col. Charles H. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau under the Harding administration, has been operating a gasoline service station here was revealed today when he disposed of his interest in the station and left for the East.

Convicted of bribery and fraud in connection with the awarding of contracts in his work as head of the Veterans' Bureau, Forbes served two years in a federal prison.

KLINE SLOWLY IMPROVING

Physicians at St. Francis Hospital said today that Mayor Charles H. Kline, recuperating from an operation for a malignant carbuncle, was improving steadily. They said that the mayor probably will remain in the institution for three or four weeks.

Should he continue to gain strength as he has in the past two weeks, Mayor Kline should be permitted to sit up next week, but it was said that it was unlikely that he would be able to receive visitors for several days.

Rumanian Prince Hurt in Air Crash

LONDON, April 17.—(INS.)—Prince George Bibesco, member of an old and aristocratic Rumanian family, and three companions were seriously injured today when their plane crashed between Gaya and Allahabad, Bengal, it was reported in dispatches to London evening newspapers.

The machine caught fire before it plunged to the ground, the messages said. The prince and his companions were flying from Paris to Indo-China.

Court Test on Moore Gift To Queen of Spain Likely

The Courts may be asked to decide if the $100,000 willed by the late Alexander P. Moore to the Queen of Spain, to be used for charitable purposes, is a valid bequest, it was indicated today.

Attorneys John S. Weller and John O. Wicks, of counsel for the Union Trust Company, executors of the Moore will and also the estate, said today that a tangled legal problem is involved, because of recent events. Mr. Weller said:

"If any action is taken, it would have to be started by the residuary beneficiaries. While I would not like to commit myself in an off-hand opinion, the abdication of the throne by King Alfonso may have some effect on the will. The bequest was made to the Queen in her full name as Queen."

Mr. Weller penned the Moore will for the former ambassador to Spain. Asked today how Moore came to make the $100,000 bequest to the Queen of Spain, Mr. Weller said:

"Moore felt that in this country's dealings with Spain, that Spain did not get a square deal and said so. Moore put through a trade treaty between the United States and Spain and became very popular not only with the royal family, but the people in general. For that reason he felt kindly toward the people and the rulers, with the result that he made this gift."

Cut-Rate Theater Ticket King Dies in Gotham

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Joseph Leblang, cut-rate theater ticket king, who rose from immigrant boy to multi-millionaire through an idea, died today.

He was one of those millionaires you could call by his first name. He was "Joe" to everyone on Broadway. And his reduced theater ticket agency in "Gray's Drugstore" at Forty-third street and Broadway was as much an institution to out-of-town visitors as the Statue of Liberty.

Joe came from Budapest when 11 years old. His parents located on the East Side of New York, which has produced its Al Smiths, Irving Berlins and Leblangs.

He began with a tiny cigar store and one day he got his idea. He began buying up the theater passes handed out to stores by press agents in exchange for the privilege of putting show placards in the windows. He would pedal from store to store on his bicycle purchasing the passes. Then he would sell them.

The next step was that Joe began buying up blocks of seats for shows which could stand more customers. He sold them at half-price, quarter-price, almost any price.

That was 1913. Since then, the cut-rate ticket business, of which he managed to keep a virtual monopoly, developed into a million-dollar industry. Leblang bought heavily and profitably into real estate, including many theaters. Incidentally, he turned many stage "flops" into "smash hits."

AINEY, IN WHEEL CHAIR, QUIZZED AT P. S. C. INVESTIGATION

JURISDICTION ON STOCK DENIED

Cites Opinion of Pinchot Legal Chief; Commission 'Under-Manned,' He Says

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Wan and weak from long illness, W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission, today appeared before the House utilities investigating committee in a wheel chair, outlined operation of the commission and discussed its policies and action in individual cases.

It was Ainey's first appearance as a witness in either House or Senate utilities probe. From his wheel chair, the commisssion chairman opened a discussion of action of the commission regarding "writeups" of valuations of utility properties, declaring he opposed them and that the commission always attempted to keep such valuations down to equitable levels.

DENIES JURISDICTION

Ainey also told the committee the commission has no jurisdiction over utility securities under an opinion rendered by the attorney general's office in the first Pinchot administration. The opinion, he said, was forwarded to the Federal Trade Commission during an inquiry into the Conowingo Dam project.

The commission chairman, in response to questioning by Harold Evans, committee counsel, declared the commission has never been properly manned and that it is frequently necessary to change employes from one type of work to another to get it done. The committee counsel dwelt at length on the fact that various former employes of the commission had been hired by public utilities.

Personnel of the commission, Ainey testified, has seldom been sufficient to care for all the work, particularly during the previous Pinchot administration, when the Governor slashed the commission budget so that a 25 per cent personnel reduction was necessary.

The chairman and Evans then went into detailed operations of the commission concerning issuance of certificates of valuation and investigations, particularly regarding the Scranton-Spring Brook Water Company. Ainey said the latter company had been investigated by commission engineers and a 577-page report on it made, which has been the basis for much testimony in connection with the Spring Brook rate case.

$1,000,000 LUNCH

One of the highlights of Ainey's testimony had to do with "a million dollar lunch." He admitted that during a morning meeting of the Public Service Commission the Springbrook Water Company valuation was set at $16,000,000. After a lunch of the commission, it was raised to $17,000,000.

The Rev. James R. Cox interposed:

"Seems like a million dollar lunch, Mr. Ainey."

Meantime, mysterious disappearance of a group of exhibits which were to be presented to the committee in the Scranton-Springbrook case caused a stir among members.

Hurried search of the committee's rooms and of those used by various experts for the committee failed to disclose the missing exhibits, which had been left with other papers last night on a table in the hearing room. Members of the committee and attaches were unable to explain the disappearance of the documents.

Hoover Paintings Due From Germany

NEW YORK, April 17.—(INS.)—Three oil paintings of scenes in the little German village of Ellertadt, where generalogists have traced the ancestors of President Hoover, were to arrive here today on the liner Hamburg, and will be taken to the executive in Washington. The paintings are being sent to the President by Heinrich Lauer, who painted them in the home of the executive's ancestors.

president, that the records would be produced.

ALL RECORDS GONE

Burke was asked:

"Did you destroy the records because of lack of space only?"

He replied:

"No, not necessarily. We destroyed them will all the records of 1928."

Burke testified that the O'Herron Company did approximately $1,000,000 worth of business annually, largely with the city of Pittsburgh.

C. W. Wolfe, secretary of the company, on the stand ahead of Burke, told Attorney Evans that cancelled checks showing the payments had been destroyed, but that a record of the payments had been kept in a ledger. His remark brought forth a demand from Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin that the books for the year in question be produced.

Another parade of city inspectors, called by Attorney Evans, testified during the short session which was featured by the denial by Judge James B. Drew that he had been promised by Engineer Reed that Darney, sub-contractor on the Grant street widening project, would raze his old Sherman Hotel building without charge. Judge Drew said:

"If Darney made such a statement he said what was not true."

SLEUTHS ACTIVE

It was learned today that private detectives, in the employ of Attorney Evans, are looking into the records and activities of inspectors of the Public Works Department. The investigators have been at work for several days. That the inspection service plays an important part in the increased quantities in the final estimates in city contracts is the contention of Mr. Evans, who claims that fraud exists as well as poor business methods.

The charge of Melvin Hartz, a truck driver for the O'Herron company, that he had seen money passed by Joseph Kissane, Jr., to Walter Shafer, a city inspector, was being investigated today by county detectives at the request of Attorney Colvin. Colvin took a transcript of the testimony of Hartz to aid detectives in their quiz.

CLASH OVER WITNESS

Evans asked Beatty why he attacked the story of Melvin Hartz and defended Joseph Kissane, Jr. He said he wanted to know why the attorney for the Department of Public Works should attack a witness and defend a contractor.

Beatty replied:

"If you produce a witness here whose testimony seems to lead to a false inference, I will do everything I can to discredit him."

Evans again asked if the department is ready with any part of its case, and was told it was not. The hearing was then adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Masontown Bank Closes Its Doors

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 17.—Masontown's only bank, the First National, failed to open its doors this morning. Steady withdrawals and an effort to liquidate the affairs of the institution were given as the cause.

The bank is in charge of National Bank Examiner C. E. Underwood. R. B. Hays is president, and Charles Harbison, cashier. The last statement, issued on March 25, showed deposits of $1,713,000, and assets of $2,383,000.

ORDERS BONUS GIVEN MOTHER

Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court today ordered Alex Fishkoska, 36, of 2014 Magnolia street, World War veteran, arrested for drunkenness, to turn over his bonus money to his mother after police testified he had been spending it on liquor.

Fishkoska said he received his money, $432.50, from the government yesterday. After giving Andy Stugan, 34, of 1214 Metropolitan street, $375 to keep for him, Fishkoska said he went out for a good time.

Stugan told the magistrate that Fishkoska's mother, Mrs. Francisca Fishkoska, 86, is in need of money, and that because of this he gave her $200 of Fishkoska's money. Schneider ordered Fishkoska to give his mother the remainder, amounting to $175.

RODGERS GIVEN POST ON AKRON

Lieut. Com. Bertram J. Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, has been assigned to the new dirigible Akron, largest in the world, the Navy Department announced today from Washington.

Rodgers, son of Mrs. Clara Rodgers, of 310 Orchard street, was one of a half dozen lighter-than-air craft experts assigned to help Lieut. Com. Charles E. Rosendahl, first skipper of the dirigible, which is expected to make its initial flight from Akron this summer.

MANAGER BILL BACKERS PLAN QUICK ACTION

Hope to Present Measure In Senate Next Week; See Chance of Passage

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Supporters of the local option city manager bill planned for Pittsburgh alone hoped today to have the measure ready for presentation in the Senate next week.

Excluded from the projected measure will be the appointive controller clause and abolition of the civil service. Salaries of members of Council will be set at $8,000 annually. The provision which appeared in the dead Moore bill embracing third-class cities will be dropped.

The bill is expected to have the support of the Civic Club of Allegheny County, Chamber of Commerce and many other organizations.

PROSPECTS DISCUSSED

What chance it has of passing is being discussed, with arguments by legislators for and against.

Some maintain the defeat of the Moore bill released some votes that cannot be reclaimed because of the political pressure exerted by the Kline group. Others say strength would be gained from third class city representatives who opposed the Moore bill, as well as from Lackawanna and principally Luzerne County, who traded their nay votes on the Moore bill for affirmative ones on the Harvey municipal water bill.

The Harvey bill having passed, these members are released, it was pointed out. One Grundy leader, from a rural section, said the bill would lose some votes because it provides for a practical dictatorship, in spite of the fact that the bill is purely optional.

REWARD ASKED FOR 'EVA ROSE'

"Eva Rose" is safe. Miss Myrtle Altwater, business girl sculptress, whose statue, "Eva Rose," was stolen from the Associated Artists Exhibit in Carnegie Museum, March 7, received an anonymous letter yesterday, offering to return her statue if she made the reward "big enough." She was directed to leave the money on the back porch of a house in Elkwood road near Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

The letter said in part:

"You can have 'Eva Rose' if you send me a reward, but make it big enough. My man ain't worked for a long time. I need money. Don't make trouble if you want it back."

Miss Altwater investigated and learned that the house mentioned in the letter has been vacant for several months.

Fear Mystery SOS Sent by Scientists

MOSCOW, April 17.—(AP.)—Because of mysterious radio messages which have been picked up during the last few days, saying "Help! We are being destroyed by ice," it was announced that a relief expedition may be sent from Erivan to search for the meteorological expedition on Mt. Alagez, Armenia, on the theory that it might be snowbound or in trouble.

AUTHOR LEAVES RECORD ESTATE

LONDON, April 17.—(AP.)—The Herald said today that Arnold Bennett probably made the largest fortune during his life of any modern British writer. The newspaper estimated the value of the estate at more than $500,000.

Bennett's will, which probably will not be filed for several weeks, consists of about 100 words in the author's familiar small handwriting on a single sheet of note paper, the Herald said.

The article recalled that the largest literary fortunes hitherto recorded were those of Stanley Weyman, who left about $497,000; Dickens, about $400,000, and Trollope, about $350,000.

Death of New York Gangster Mystery

NEW YORK, April 17.—(INS.)—While plans were made today to bury Guiseppe Masseria, slain New York racketeer, in a $15,000 solid bronze casket, 40 detectives attempted to solve the mystery of his death.

Police refused to accept reports that henchmen of Al Capone killed Masseria. They said they did not know anything about reports "Joe, the boss" had recently quarreled with the gang chieftain.

makes giant reflectors for protection against enemies in the air, also makes the tiniest of reflectors to be used in microscopic exploration.

These little reflectors, hemispheres of highly polished glass one and one-half millimeters in diameter, are correct to within one one-millionth part of an inch. And made of melted sand, they are worth, after science has applied its genius, more than if they were made of diamonds.

MR. B. FORMAN, one of the most successful Rochester merchants, just back from his fifth visit to California, says something that will interest that long strip of optimism, fertility and fine weather.

Mr. Forman is convinced that in time California will be the center of the needle trades, now the biggest individual industry in New York state. The needle trades, infinite in their variety, that employ tens of thousands of skilled workers, with products worth billions a year, will migrate inevitably to California, according to Mr. Forman. He says:

"In California there is no problem of light or heat. The state undoubtedly will develop and provide cheap power and unlimited water. It possesses the style atmosphere necessary to the needle trades."

BAN ON FREE PARKING STAYS

City Will Continue Charge Of 10 Cents at Wharf Site Formerly Open to Cars

Police were to continue today their newly inaugurated policy of increasing the city's wharf parking revenue by charging motorists the regular 10 cent fee on wharf property heretofore on the free list.

Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey, who ordered officers assigned to the Monongahela River wharf from Short stret to Liberty avenue yesterday to collect 10 cents from each motorist parking there, said the same plan would be continued indefinitely to increase the city's revenue.

ADDITIONAL REVENUE

Between 200 and 300 cars can be parked on the property formerly on the free list, Dorsey declared, bringing an additional revenue of $20 to $30 daily.

Parking heretofore has been free on this site as well as on the wharf on the Monongahela bank at the foot of Market street, just west of the old farmers' shelter. The shore is not in good condition there, Dorsey said, and for that reason parkers were not charged.

It is likely the market will be dismantled in the near future, according to Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, because of its deplorable state. Many additional cars may be parked there as the result, he said.

Wharf-parking facilities, widening of Fifth avenue, a traffic officers' school and traffic regulations were discussed by the Better Traffic Committee yesterday. A special sub-committee, consisting of Anthony W. Smith, Jr., Leo Lehman, L. J. Kiefer and City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre, was appointed to discuss the organization of the traffic officers' school with Mayor Charles H. Kline, and the increasing of the motorcycle squad to 100 with Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

SUB-COMMITTEE

Another sub-committee was appointed to meet with the other agencies and civic groups which have been developing plans for the improvement of the city wharves. This sub-committee consists of John M. Rice, consulting engineer; Edward B. Lee, architect; Frederick Bigger, town planner for the Citizens' Committee on City Plan; John F. Casey, of William Swindell & Bros. Company; Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company; Winters Haydock, director department of city transit; E. T. Whiter, vice president Pennsylvania Railroad; E. N. Hunting, of Hunting, Davis & Dunnells; Oliver Kaufmann, of Kaufmann Department Stores; C. H. Lehman, McCann's; M. J. Morris and Frank Bozic.

Rankin Man Walks Into River, Drowns

Leaving his wife and three children, John Dugan, of 103 Kenmawr avenue, Rankin, ended his life yesterday by walking into the Monongahela River near Rankin, according to a coroner's report. After a three-hour search, Rankin police recovered the body. No cause for the action could be learned.

Brill, Song Author, Sued for Divorce

RENO, Nev., April 17.—(AP.)—Leighton K. Brill, author of the musical comedy "Sweet Adeline" and a partner of Oscar Hammerstein in theatrical enterprises, was sued for divorce here by Alma Brill, on grounds of mental cruelty. They married in Lamar, Col., in 1922 and have no children.

Dog World's Aristocracy On Display at Show

Primped and prettied, manicured and marcelled, and inspired, possibly, by the last-minute admonitions of owners and trainers to look their best, 700 aristocrats of the canine world sat proudly on their benches in Motor Square Garden today.

It was the opening of the two-day bench show of the Fort Pitt Kennel Club—the first major dog show to be held in Pittsburgh in four years.

Dogs of nearly every known breed and description were on view. They came from nearly every state in the union, from Canada, and some from across the sea. There were novices that never before had gazed back at a bench show audience, and there were national and international champions.

In size there was a wide range, from tiny Chihuahuas (hairless Mexicans) weighing one and one-half pounds, to St. Bernards weighing 250 pounds, and Great Danes standing five feet in height.

The dogs appearing in the show are valued, in the aggregate, by their owners at approximately a million dollars. Many, their owners declare, could not be purchased at any price. The figures set on others range far into the thousands of dollars.

The doors of the garden were thrown open a little before 10 o'clock, and at that time the judging started. Two rings were in operation. The judging will continue throughout the day and tonight without interruption, and all day tomorrow. The high spot of the show will be reached at 9 p. m. tomorrow, when the best dog of the show will be picked by Walter H. Reeves, of Belleville, Ontario, Canada, an international expert.

In a dog show it is the coveted blue ribbon, rather than a trophy or cash award, that a dog owner hopes to win. Ribbons mean prestige. Trophies to be awarded are valued at more than $2,000 and more than $2,500 in cash awards will be distributed.

Officers of the kennel club directing activities at the show are Robert Maloney, president; Fred Seebick, vice president; Mrs. Lloyd Smith, secretary, and Charles Lange, treasurer.

Coolidge Lauds King's Courage in Abdicating

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 17.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The power and right of the people to choose their own form of government has just been exemplified in Spain. Almost as automatically as a prime minister resigns on the adverse vote of a parliament, the King of Spain has abdicated because an election showed that the people wanted a republic.

Mr. Coolidge

It took a great deal of moral courage and a great deal of patriotism for a royal family peaceably to surrender the throne and voluntarily to relinquish an inherited privilege to be the head of the government. Such a conception of the kingly office is decidedly modern. No doubt civil war for the present has been averted. If it comes later the King will not be directly responsible for it.

Republics do not come into being ready made. When the holiday celebration is over the people will find that self-government of itself does not solve economic problems. It will be fortunate if the people do not turn on their new public officers as they turned on the King. Meantime nearly everyone will admire the King for his self-sacrifice in obeying the popular mandate and will hope that the Spanish people may be given leadership and wisdom commensurate with their grave situation.

DEMPSEY'S LOVE OF FIGHT GAME HELPED WRECK ROMANCE

RING FRIENDS SCORNED BY ESTELLE

Ex-Champ's Love for Pals Won No Response From Beautiful Film Actress

Herewith is the first of a series of three articles on the shattered romance of Estelle Taylor and Jack Dempsey. The writer, Louella O. Parsons, motion picture editor of Universal Service, long has been recognized as the leading chronicler of filmdom's celebrities, thus being particularly qualified to disclose the inside story of the famous couple. This she does in the article presented today and in those to follow.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 17.—Two people as widely separated in thoughts, ideas and ideals as Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor could not fail eventually to part.

Estelle had absolutely no interest in prize fighting. Jack's heart and soul were in the fight game. Estelle cared nothing for the cronies and friends that Jack had and who would have given up their lives for their hero. Jack was loyal to his pals and it hurt him when he couldn't invite them into his home.

Estelle is ambitious almost to the point of fanaticism. Nothing matters as much to her as her career. She told several people that success on the screen meant more to her than anything else in the world.

Not that Estelle in the beginning ever let Jack realize the heartburning and the bitterness she felt when she did not get the parts in motion pictures she craved. Estelle is too clever for that.

PLAYS SHREWD GAME

I have known many screen stars, few of them as well as Estelle Taylor, and I have never yet met any woman who is as shrewd, as calculating, and who plays the game to her own ends as thoroughly. Newspaper folk counted in her game. If she could get publicity it would bring her to the attention of the producers.

She made friends of the movie writers, she entertained them at her beautiful home on Los Feliz boulevard. She flattered the magazine writers. She created for them an Estelle Taylor who didn't really exist.

JACK 'BIG KID'

A fascinating woman, Estelle Taylor, and one who has as many complex sides to her nature as a geometrical problem has angles. Jack Dempsey is a big kid. He is a man who likes most people but who is innately shy.

He adored Estelle. He worshiped her beauty. He stood in awe of her superior intellect. Estelle did not hesitate to point out Jack's faults to her friends, but she did it so cunningly that she was never in the position of really criticizing him. She was just sorry that Jack did not improve his mind. She wanted to make a gentleman of him.

One thing Estelle never realized, and that is that Jack Dempsey has always been a gentleman. He is gentle, sweet, kind and like a child when it comes to being naive. It is that simplicity that has endeared him to millions.

HIS FAME IRKS WIFE

Estelle was always a little annoyed at the adulation the masses have given Jack. I should not like to say she was actually jealous, but I have seen her frown and

BULLETS FLY IN POLICE PURSUIT

Abductors Escape, Leaving Victim Safe; Ransom of $50,000 Hinted Delivered

International News Service.

STREATOR, Ill., April 17.—Following a wild night, during which Chicago detectives and state troopers were fired upon by two automobile loads of gangsters equipped with machine guns, Fred J. Blumer, Monroe (Wis.) brewer of near beer, kidnaped and held for $150,000 ransom eight days ago, was found today on the main street of Wenona, Ill., 16 miles west of here.

The brewer, whose disappearance had started a frantic and widespread search, was found by his brother, Jacob, of Chicago, who early this morning received a telephone call at the Streator Hotel where he was staying instructing him to be in Wenona at 9 a. m. There he found his brother sitting in an automobile.

A possibility that the ransom was paid was seen in the fact that Jacob Blumer handed a package to three men who were sitting in the automobile with his brother. What the package contained was not divulged. The kidnapers originally asked for $150,000, but later scaled their demand down to $50,000.

The brewer was released scarcely an hour after Police Lieut. William Cusack, of Chicago, and the state troopers had engaged in the battle with gangsters. The authorities believed they had located the place where Blumer was held captive and had started in automobiles for Collinsville, where they learned Blumer was being held.

As the squad was nearing the place, it came upon the gang of kidnapers, riding in two automobiles. The gangsters opened fire with their machine guns, and Lieut. Cusack and the troopers got their revolvers into play. The abductors gave up the battle and sped away. The police lost their trail.

BEAVER KILLER SLAIN BY POLICE

BOWLING GREEN, O., April 17.—(AP.)—Willis (Billy the Killer) Miller, known to police of many middle western cities as an all around bad man, was dead, two of his girl companions were under arrest and a second gunman was hunted today as the aftermath of a gun fight with police.

Miller was identified by fingerprints as the man slain when he lived up to his boast that he would never be captured alive, and shot it out with Police Chief Carl Galliher and Patrolman Ralph Castner yesterday. His companion escaped after critically wounding Castner.

Since killing his brother, Joseph, at Beaver, Pa., in 1925, Miller steadily had accumulated a police record. He was acquitted of slaying his brother on a plea of self-defense, but was wanted for a number of holdups in the Middle West. Kansas City police said he was suspected in bank robberies at North Kansas City and Oklahoma City.

REVEAL STORMY MARITAL LIFE

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—(INS.)—In a deposition prepared for filing, further details of the matrimonial affairs of John T. Milliken, Jr., son of the late millionaire chemical manufacturer, and his wife, the former Mildred McCloy, of Pittsburgh, were revealed yesterday.

While Mrs. Milliken is seeking a divorce from her husband, Milliken is asking $350,000 damages from his wife's relatives. Milliken charges the relatives caused her to become estranged from him.

A deposition taken by an attorney for Milliken quotes the young millionaire as saying he once punched the nose of a man because the latter was sitting with Mrs. Milliken in an automobile in Miami, Fla.

Beauty Bootlegger Begins Jail Term

TOWANDA, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—Irene Knight, of Tonawanda, N. Y., "Miss Buffalo" in the 1925 Atlantic City beauty pageant, last night began her 18 months' sentence in Bradford County Jail. She was sentenced 10 days ago after she pleaded guilty to bootlegging.

ETNA DEBT SUIT BOOMERANGS

David Olitzky, 6524 Northumberland street, who, a week ago, sought to have an Etna confectioner sold out at a constable's sale for a punchboard candy debt, found his own household goods advertised for sale by a constable today.

Olitzky was held for court yesterday by Alderman George J. Anderson on a charge of maintaining a lottery.

Mrs. Theresa Solaris, who owns the Etna confectionery, testified she purchased a punchboard and candy from Olitzky, and it was for this debt he sought a judgment.

The judgment against Olitzky was obtained by the Hein Company, candy manufacturers, of 34 Isabella street, North Side. The amount of the judgment is $63.75.

AUSTRO-BERLIN TREATY HALTED

VIENNA, April 17.—(INS.)—(INS.)—Negotiations for a customs agreement between Germany and Austria were suspended today with official announcement by the government here that Austria "will await the decision of the League of Nations council" regarding the proposal. The suspension was in accordance with a request made by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, of Britain.

It was pointed out, however, that "internal technical preparations" would continue in both countries.

BUDAPEST, April 17.—(INS.)—An agrarian bloc of five countries was proposed by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France, today to counteract the Austro-German customs agreement now awaiting scrutiny by the League of Nations council. In a communication to Premier Bethlen, of Hungary, Briand proposed that Hungary, Rumania, Jugoslavia, Poland and Bulgaria form an economic union.

TRADE REVIVING, BABSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(INS.)—Business has rounded the curve and "now is definitely on the upgrade," Roger W. Babson, the statistician, declared after visiting President Hoover at the White House.

He even asserted the country "might face a shortage of labor in some lines" before the year ends, but explained this was no indication that there would not be a slump in employment again next year.

Babson said he based his belief that a business recovery now is taking place by the increase in car loadings, the Labor Department's increase in employment and the larger earnings of the chain stores.

Many industries, he told Mr. Hoover, showed gains in March over February and many of these increases were greater than those noted in March a year ago.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure that appeared on the map yesterday morning has been diminished in area covered and in intensity. There is now a weak crest over the Central Plains, and one off the Middle Atlantic Coast. Low pressure is centered over Eastern Ontario, south of Florida, the far Southwest, and over Alberta. The eastern disturbances are causing light showers over the Lake Region, the Ohio Valley States, and southwestward over the southern plains to Arizona, and over Florida. The western disturbances are causing general cloudiness over that section, but as yet, no rainfall. There was little change in temperature since yesterday morning.

Questioners Balked By Mrs. McCormick

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick returned yesterday from a vacation in the Southwest and continued to have "nothing to say" on politics, matrimony or any other controversial subject.

She told newspepermen with a disarming smile:

"I don't mean to be rude, but I simply have nothing to say. I had a delightful vacation. I'm going to visit here a short while. Then I may go to Washington."

GANDHI TO MEET NEW VICEROY

BOMBAY, India, April 17.—(AP.)—Earl Willingdon, the new viceroy, and the Countess Willingdon reached India today, disembarking here at dawn as the guns of Bombay fortifications thundered a 31-gun salute. Elaborate precautions were taken by police to prevent any hostile acts.

Before Lord Willingdon assumes office Saturday afternoon he will have an opportunity of meeting Lord Irwin, who leaves Bombay Saturday morning, thus breaking for the first time the time-honored precedent which has forbidden the outgoing and incoming viceroys to see each other.

The new viceroy also will meet Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Indian Nationalists. Lord Willingdon comes here from Canada, where he was governor general.

SIAMESE KING IN CANADA

VICTORIA, B. C., April 17.—(AP.)—Accompanied by his queen and retinue, King Prajadhipok, of Siam, arrived here from the Orient last night aboard the liner Empress of Japan en route to New York, where the King will undergo an eye operation.

Owing to an indisposition, the King was obliged to cancel all official engagements and remained aboard ship. The liner proceeded to Vancouver after a brief stop here. The royal party will leave for New York at midnight tonight from Vancouver on a special train, which will enter the United States at Portal, N. D., early Monday. The royal party will be welcomed by American officials at Portal.

Helen Twelvetrees May Remarry Mate

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—Ira Uhr, business representative for Helen Twelvetrees, screen actress, said last night there was a possibility the actress would remarry Frank Woody, real estate agent here.

Miss Twelvetrees and Woody were married in Reno, Nev., March 21. It was revealed later the actress' divorce from Clark Twelvetrees did not become final until it was signed by Superior Judge Dudley Valentine, here, March 31.

pointed out that the estate's income was not sufficient to supply the $50 figure specified by Miss Russell in her will.

EVIDENCE OF FRAUD

Attorney Herman Pollack, of New York, chief counsel for Mrs. Calvit, told Judge Trimble towards the close of yesterday's hearing that it is difficult to establish the value of many articles missing as Mrs. Calvit, probably the only person able to give testimony of their value, is barred by law from being a witness in this connection. Judge Trimble said:

"We ought to know the value of these estates. I recognize your difficulties. You have been met with hurdles from the time you started. We are going to get at the truth, no matter how long it takes."

Judge Trimble previously declared that much evidence of fraud had been presented, scoring the purchase by Moore for $1,000 of a necklace of 68 pearls with ruby and diamond clasp from Mrs. Moore's estate after he had obtained an appraisal of $8,500 for it.

Pollack stated after the hearing that his search for one missing item had been cleared up by his discovery that the three-quarter length portrait of Lillian Russell painted by the famous artist, Howard Chandler Christy, is in possession of the Union Trust Company as a part of the estate of Moore. This painting, according to the evidence, was given to Mrs. Moore by Christy after a bill of $3,000 was unpaid by Moore. The painting would cost $5,000 today and may be worth $10,000, according to Christy's deposition.

Nils Asther Fined $15 for Speeding

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—(AP.)—Nils Asther, Swedish film actor, yesterday was fined $15 for speeding in Hollywood. Counsel for Asther entered a plea of guilty to driving at 45 miles an hour in a 15-mile zone.

PLAN RETIRES FARRELL IN '33

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—Stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation will vote Monday on a revised pension plan which would retire their president, James A. Farrell, in February, 1933. Executives of a number of subsidiaries also would be retired in a comparatively few years.

The plan, prepared by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, calls for compulsory retirement at the age of 70. Officers may retire voluntarily or at the request of their superiors at 65.

Officers of subsidiaries who would be affected most quickly by the program are:

E. J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel Company, March 14, 1933.

Joshua A. Hatfield, president of the American Bridge Company, June 11, 1933.

Ward B. Perley, president of the Canadian Steel Corporation, Ltd., December 7, 1933.

J. S. Keefe, president of the American Steel and Wire Company, January 24, 1934.

E. W. Pargny, president of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, June 5, 1936.

worthy of comment by the Republican cabinet. We prefer to let the country be the judge. We would be unfair to the monarchical reaction, because the people are supporting the republic."

Reports that the provisional Republican government might place Alfonso on trial before a high tribunal were emphatically denied by Foreign Minister Miguel Maura, who asserted:

"We haven't thought of any such thing. We wouldn't waste the time attempting to try him. It would be like trying the moon."

The wild rejoicing which lasted for two days on proclamation of a republic has about dissipated itself, although it flared briefly again when Maj. Franco arrived here from exile in Paris.

Greeted at the station by a great crowd, which remembered his spectacular attempt to start a revolution from the local airfield, he was carried in triumph to the streets. The government appointed him chief of the Republican air service.

SOLUTION SOUGHT

A solution for the Catalonian situation is still being sought by Provisional President Alcala Zamora. The province declared its own republic on the day the monarchy was overthrown, and established its own government. In some quarters the fear persisted that the separatist movement might spread, and thus prevent a peaceful formation of the United Republic of Spain.

A number of important decrees were promulgated by the Madrid administration. They included a declaration of religious liberty, separating the church from the state.

The government, in its decree, informed the Papal representative residing in Madrid the Catholic Church will lose its privileged position.

The immensely valuable properties of the royal family will be carefully disposed of. Personal belongings of the exiled royalty will be returned to them, but the seven palaces of the monarchy probably will revert to the state.

BIG PARIS WELCOME

PARIS, April 17.—(AP.)—Alfonso de Bourbon, deposed king of Spain and Victoria, his English queen, today faced together in France an exile which Alfonso is confident will end in his recall to the throne at Madrid.

To both Victoria and Alfonso, and the five of their six children who are with them, the people of Paris extended a welcome which was more like that of conquering heroes than refugees.

Alfonso was visibly startled to see the huge crowd awaiting him as he stepped from his train. At his hotel, police had to make a way for him through a throng which stood outside, and finally, upon their insistent demands, he appeared with Victoria upon a balcony opening on their rooms. Both, struggling to master their emotions, smiled and bowed and withdrew, but the shouting continued and they had to appear again.

QUEEN MARIE CALLS

Today the King and Queen received the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania in their suite. At the same time the Duke of Miranda, spokesman for Alfonso, told a group of 75 French and foreign newspapermen that the wish of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria now is to efface themselves from public life and to live quietly as private citizens in France, pending the result of an expression of the Spanish people.

Bettis Airport announced a special spring opening program in the air for the Hospitality Day visitors. Air tours over the city with a two-day aerial circus were promised by Halsey R. Bagley, manager of the port, who emphasized a reduction from $5 to $3 for the regular aerial trip over the city.

Two downtown service clubs added their endorsement of Hospitality Day—the Aero Club of Pittsburgh and Maj. John Baird Atwood Post No. 285, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Civic Club of Allegheny County will discuss the Hospitality Day program at its luncheon board meeting today.

EXCURSIONS LISTED

Generally, the city is aiming to lay itself out in regal manner for the weekend guests with railroads and bus lines offering excursion rates and special sightseeing buses planning excursions to all parts of the city.

Radio broadcasting stations are extending the city's invitation daily, the first broadcast being scheduled for tonight over KDKA. WCAE, WJAS and KQV also are planning special programs for the coming week.

5 New Cars Ready When King Recovers

LONDON, April 17.—(INS.)—When his physicians give him permission to go out, King George, who is recovering from a bronchial attack, will have a choice of five brand new cars in which to ride. The machines were delivered at Windsor Castle yesterday. One limousine is equipped with a special ventilating cowl to prevent draughts.

Burke Indicted in Valentine Massacre

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP.)—Fred Burke, held at St. Joseph, Mich., for the slaying of a policeman, was named yesterday as defendant in three murder charges growing out of the St. Valentine Day massacre of seven of the gang of George (Bugs) Moran. The cases were continued in Felony Court until May 14 pending the outcome of the Michigan charge.

DEMPSEY TRUE TO PALS WHOM WIFE SCORNED

Ex-Champ's Love of Fight Game Wins No Response From Beautiful Estelle

look unhappy when newsboys tugged at his coat tail.

I do not mean to make a "heavy" of Estelle Taylor. In many ways she is the most interesting woman I have ever known. From the time she left Wilmington, Del., to go to New York, until she married the heavyweight champion of the world, Estelle Taylor has worked hard.

She is one of the most intelligent women I know, and one of the finest actresses. She has a keen sense of humor, and she is so beautiful that men turn and look at her on the street.

AN EXOTIC BEAUTY

Hers is an exotic beauty and she knows how to dress to bring out the somber darkness of her big eyes and the jet blackness of her silky head. Estelle loves colors. She once said:

"I suppose my love of red is a barbaric strain."

Yet she wore simple black tailored frocks often because she was wise enough to know that these plain clothes only enhanced her loveliness.

I really and honestly think Estelle Taylor in the beginning tried hard to be a good wife. Estelle loves gaiety, life and people. Yet after she married Jack Dempsey and during the first years of their married life she lived quietly. She was never seen in public cafes. Night after night she would stay at home, reading or having a massage, waiting to talk to Jack on the long distance telephone.

ESTELLE'S WAYS CHANGE

Then, suddenly, she changed. She quarreled with some of her best friends. She sought new companions and she was seen more frequently in the Ambassador, at the Embassy, at the Roosevelt, dancing, laughing and happy.

I will say for her she was discreet. She was always well chaperoned and in her party were married friends. But Estelle changed her friends often. The old loyal coterie who would have died for her suddenly left her. A few remained grateful for some kindness that Estelle had done in the past.

Estelle is generous. I know of a hundred fine things she has done. She suffered so much from poverty during her early days that she has now a horror of poverty. I do not believe Estelle is extravagant. She always seemed to me a keen business woman, but she has a sincere feeling of sympathy for those who are in need.

FAILS TO UNDERSTAND JACK

I know that Estelle Taylor has been the soul of generosity to her sister, Helen, and to her niece, Frances. I have been with her when she purchased clothes for her grandmother and her mother. I have seen her send money home to Delaware and I have heard her worry over some illness of her grandparents. Yet Estelle never seemed really to understand and sympathize with Jack Dempsey.

Her first husband, Kenneth Nelson Peacock, had been a disappointment to her. She had run away from him and gone to New York to study dramatic art at the Sargent School. Jack was different. He suggested protection. He was strong. He worshipped her. He could support her.

I never felt Estelle was as much in love with Jack as he was with her. He often told me of seeing her the first time on Hollywood boulevard, looking at some pictures. He said:

"She wore brown, and I thought I had never seen anything so beautiful. I tried to speak to her, but she snubbed me. She would have nothing to do with me until I was properly introduced."

ALOOFNESS WINS HIM

This aloofness of Estelle fascinated the heavyweight champion of the world. He had had women at his feet, crazy about him, and that one girl was indifferent intrigued him. He was finally introduced to Estelle and their romance started.

Jack wanted to buy everything for Estelle, but she wouldn't have it. He wanted to hang diamonds on her. Estelle never cared for jewels. I have see diamond bracelets, necklaces and rings that Jack had purchased for her, in her safe. They have seldom been worn in public.

Jack Demsey was different from any man Estelle Taylor had ever known. She told me that when she first met him she thought he was the ugliest man she had ever seen.

TAUGHT HIM TO DRESS

She persuaded him to have his nose rebuilt. She taught him how to dress. He wore terrible clothes, she deemed. Estelle recalls:

"The first time he came to call on me he wore the loudest clothes I had ever seen outside of a funny page."

Estelle, as I said, tried to make a gentleman of Jack. She taught him to stand when a lady entered the room. She taught him all the niceties, but she didn't give him the innate qualities of fineness he was born with.

Only God gave him that, and Estelle Taylor has never taken that away from him, although there have been times when she has put him through terrible tests.

Romance Wrecked, Actress Ends Life

CHICAGO, April 17.—(INS.)—The fact that her recent marriage had ended unhappily, added to her unemployment as an actress, today was advanced as the reason that Ruth S. Gordon, 23, a pretty blonde, last night hurled herself to death from the twenty-first floor of a Michigan avenue hotel.

One Chicago Co-ed Aspires to Be Home-maker

CHICAGO, April 17.—(INS.)—Only one girl in a group of 672 freshmen at the University of Chicago wants to be a "home-maker," it was revealed today with announcement of answers to a questionnaire.

Only one man in the group desires to be a farmer, it was disclosed, and only three said they want to be ministers.

Man, 2 Women Hurt In Bellevue Collision

A man was seriously injured in a collision of automobile trucks today at Ohio River boulevard and Sheridan avenue, Bellevue.

Algon Haller, 30, of 56 Grant avenue, Bellevue, driver for the Duquesne Dye Works, was taken to Suburban General Hospital suffering from a probable skull fracture. His mother, Mrs. A. Haller, and a sister, Miss Ruth Haller, of 150 North Riverview avenue, Bellevue, passengers, were slightly injured. Michael Gruder, of McKee place, Pittsburgh, driver of a Kingan Packing Company truck, was arrested.

RETRIAL WON ON HUGE FEE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Philadelphia, reversed the judgement of the Federal District Court and ordered a new trial in an action of Emmett Queen, of New York, against the Commonwealth Real Estate Company and the Commonwealth Trust Company, seeking to recover $250,000 as commissions on the sale of the North Penn Coal Company and the Western Allegheny Railroad properties.

One Dead, 4 Hurt In Auto Accident

EBENSBURG, Pa., April 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Anna Ryalt, 62, of Mocanaqua, Luzerne County, was killed and four other persons were injured in an automobile accident on the Benjamin Franklin highway west of Ebensburg today. The injured, all residents of Mocanaqua, are: Bert Matysik, Sr., owner of the car; Bert Matysik, Jr., 13; Elsie Matysik, 16, and Augustine Halupka, driver.

4 ROBBERS GET LONG TERMS

"You attempted to live a life of ease off the public and planned your robberies like an army captain."

So declared Judge A. B. Reid, in imposing heavy sentences on four bandits, convicted or who had pleaded guilty to participation in two holdups.

They were sentenced as follows: Frank Mazza, 19, of 1320 Vickroy street, 6 to 12 years in the workhouse; Abe Slain, 19, of 563 Allequippa street, 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Ralph Martorelli, 24, of 152 Mayflower street, 8 to 16 years in the penitentiary, and James DeSantis, 22, of 57 Lenora street, from 5 to 10 years in the workhouse.

All were accused of participating in the $2,039 holdup of the Corliss Creamery Company, West Carson street, last November, and Mazza and Slain were convicted of holding up the Brighton laundry for $200 last September. The latter two pleaded guilty.

125 suits from our much higher priced suit lines—good-looking, well-cut suits of imported and domestic woolens in tweeds, herringbones, and diagonals—in medium and dark tans, browns, and grays. All have two pairs of full, roomy knickers. Sizes 8 to 18 years.

Lovely Frocks, $2.95

This adorable little petticoat dress (that follows the charming grown-up fashion) is just one of a gay new group of the loveliest cotton frocks that girls will want for almost every occasion in spring and summer. Petticoat dresses in dainty flowered lawns, with lace-trimmed ruffled petticoats, come in sizes 7 to 10 years. Perky plaid ginghams for school, sheer cottons pretty enough for dress-up, piques for sports—in sizes 7 to 16 years—all at this moderate price of $2.95.

TOY GUN BANDIT GETS 10 TO 40

Paul Billings, 47, of 6926 Frankstown avenue, who used a toy pistol to hold up several gas stations in the East End during February and March, today began serving 10 to 40 years in the Western Penitentiary.

He pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge George V. Moore, in Criminal Court. Nicholas Caracciolo, 20, of 39 Whittier street, who said he waited in a car while Billings held up the stations, also pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve five to 40 years.

FIREMEN FIND OLD DOCUMENT

An 1882 marriage license pasted in the back of an old picture was discovered when members of the East Pittsburgh Volunteer Fire Department held their annual house cleaning yesterday.

The old document was found by Robert O'Neill, of 124 Grandview avenue, East Pittsburgh. It was dated May 17, 1882, and was issued to John Davis, of Bethlehem, Pa., and Bessie Bemford, of Turtle Creek, Pa. The firemen are making efforts to find relatives of the pair.

NO. 167.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to execute a contract of lease to the West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company for use in conducting the business of a public wharf on a portion of River Avenue (formerly Bank Lane), west of the Sixteenth Street Bridge, and fixing the rental and other terms and conditions of said lease.

WHEREAS, the West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company has made an application to the Governor for a charter as a corporation for the purpose of constructing and maintaining a public and private wharf on the north bank of the Allegheny River west of the Sixteenth Street Bridge, which application has been granted by the Public Service Commission; and

WHEREAS, it is for the best interests of the City of Pittsburgh and its citizens that the West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company does erect, construct and maintain a public wharf on the property hereinafter described; therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and empowered, on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, to execute a contract of lease with the West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company, for the purpose of erecting, constructing, maintaining and operating by the said company of a public wharf on all those certain lots or pieces of ground situate in the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being a portion of River avenue (formerly Bank lane), and lying between the right-of-way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and the Allegheny River, as shown on the accompanying survey, more particularly bounded and described as follows, to wit:

(a) BEGINNING at a point on the south line of the right-of-way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at a point distant two hundred and seventy (270) feet eastwardly from the easterly line of Warfield street produced; thence eastwardly along the right-of-way line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, a distance of three hundred and seventy (370) feet to the west line of the Sixteenth Street Bridge, and extending a distance of forty (40) feet, more or less, southwardly from the said right-of-way line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to the low water line of the Allegheny River, preserving the widths of approximately three hundred and seventy (370) feet throughout.

(b) BEGINNING on the south curb line of River avenue at a point distant one hundred and thirty-seven (137) feet eastwardly from the east line of Warfield street produced; thence in an easterly direction along the south curb line of River avenue, a distance of one hundred (100) feet; thence extending southwardly therefrom, and preserving an even width of one hundred (100) feet throughout, a distance of sixteen (16) feet to the right-of-way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

SECTION 2. Said lease shall be for the term of ten (10) years and two (2) months, commencing March 1, 1931, and expiring April 30, 1941, and shall provide for the payment to the City Treasurer of the total rental of Thirty Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, payable in the manner following: At the rate of Three Thousand Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance during the term of this lease.

SECTION 3. The said West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company shall have the right to use the land described in Section one of this Ordinance for the erection, construction, maintenance and operation of a public wharf, and shall have the right to erect, construct, maintain and operate the necessary hoists, derricks, bins, tracks, scales, scale house, approaches, driveways, and all other equipment and appurtenances as are or may be necessary to the maintenance and operation of such public wharf, and the right to remove or cause to be removed from time to time, and upon the termination of this lease for any cause, any and all hoists, derricks, bins, scales, scale houses, tracks and other property which may be installed upon said premises under said lease, it being the intent and purpose of this Ordinance that the law of fixtures shall not apply to any such property so installed.

SECTION 4. The said lease, hereby authorized, shall also contain such other provisions, terms and conditions as the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works may deem proper and necessary to protect the City's rights and to carry out the purposes of said lease.

SECTION 5. After the said lease shall have been in force for a period of five (5) years, the City of Pittsburgh shall have the right, upon Resolution of Council setting forth that the City requires the leased premises for any municipal or public use, to cancel the said lease upon six months' notice in writing to the Lessee, and at the end of the period mentioned in said notice the Lessee shall thereupon give up quiet and peaceable possession of the said leased premises to the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 6. This Ordinance shall be null and void unless the Public Service Commission shall issue a certificate of public convenience to the West Penn Sand and Gravel Wharf Company, for the purpose of conducting a public and private wharf and the Governor shall issue a charter for said corporation.

SECTION 7. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Passed in Council March 31, 1931.

Pittsburgh, April 13, 1931.

I do hereby certify that the foregoing Ordinance, duly engrossed and certified, was delivered by me to the Mayor for his approval or disapproval on April 1, 1931, and that the Mayor failed to approve or disapprove the same, or to return the same to Council within ten (10) days from said date, whereupon it became a law without his approval, under the provisions of the Act of Assembly in such cases made and provided.

WOMAN ROBBED IN HOME; 2 HELD

Dragged from her bed by two Negro burglars, Mrs. Jewel Dutrivelle, of 176 Devilliers street, was robbed of $12 and a watch valued at $25, in her bedroom early today. Police are holding two suspects, who, they say, have been identified by Mrs. Dutrivelle as the men who staged the robbery.

The suspects were arrested a short time later in the Hill district. They said they were George Murphy, 21, or 2361 Webster avenue, and Harmon Wheat, 21, of 2233 Fonville street.

A quantity of groceries stolen, police say, from the store of L. Gross, 2422 Wylie avenue, was recovered early today by police who detected two Negroes walking in Wylie avenue, carrying the groceries. The men fled, dropping the groceries on the street.

A holdup of the Ford Pharmacy, Lincoln and Rowan street, was averted last night when the clerk, Paul Walters, confronted by the revolvers of two highwaymen, dodged behind the counter and screamed for help. The would-be holdup men fled.

COURT PRAISES PROSECUTOR

Judge George V. Moore praised the work of District Attorney Andrew T. Park when he dismissed jurors from further service today. He said that during this week 155 jury trials had been reported by the grand jury only last week. Next week's jury trial list lists 135 cases, which came from the grand jury this week.

Judge Moore said the courts practically are up to date as a result of the activity of the court officers.

Girl, 14, Kills Self To Avert Whipping

SANFORD, Fla., April 17.—(AP.)—Threatened with a whipping, Virginia Ferris Weekly, 14-year-old high school girl, fired a bullet through her heart yesterday. H. E. Weekly, her father, told the coroner's jury that the girl had been warned about certain company she was keeping. The whipping was decreed by her mother. While Weekly went to cut a switch the girl retired to her room and shot herself.

Carol Will Ignore Politics in Cabinet

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 17.—(AP.)—King Carol, thwarted in efforts to obtain a normal constitutional cabinet, returned today to his original plan to constitute a non-political government to replace that of Premier Mironescu, which resigned. The cabinet as now projected, will contain men chosen by the monarch himself and not by politicians.

Fall From Bridge Fatal to Painter

Mike Mazulakis, 50, of Warren, O., painter employed by the Fort Pitt Bridge Company, died last night in St. John's Hospital from injuries suffered when he fell 75 feet from the railing of the new Termon Avenue Bridge on the new Ohio River boulevard. A coroner's report said he was painting the railing when he lost his balance.

Ex-Congressman's Divorce Case Set

DEFIANCE, O., April 17.—(AP.)—The divorce case of former Congressman Charles J. Thompson, of Defiance, against Mrs. Katherine A. Howe Thompson, of Washington, was assigned by Probate Judge E. W. Costello for hearing April 29.

The former congressman charged his wife was cruel and attempted to induce him to disinherit his children by his first wife and to bequeath his property to her.

Woman Art Patron Leaves $3,900,000

CLEVELAND, O., April 17.—(AP.)—Disposing of an estate estimated at more than $3,900,000, the will of Mrs. Stevenson Burke, 89, Cleveland art patron, who died April 3, was filed here.

A niece, Mary Ella Altemus, of Hartford, Conn., is bequeathed $1,000,000, and the Cleveland School of Art, $975,000. Trust funds are set up for numerous relatives, and churches and philanthropies are given sums.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Clothes of our quality, when sold elsewhere, are usually described in this manner:

"$60 and $75 values, specially priced for today and tomorrow only .. .. at $47.50"

That's not our way of doing business. We never mark them up in order to mark them down, to make them look cheap.

No matter when you buy at Richman Brothers, you get honest value for your dollar... and then some ...

We can afford to give you more quality, more style and more value ... not because we are philanthropists ... but because we buy more; we sell more; make our clothes, in our own tailoring shops; and sell them without middlemen's profits.

PLANE WRECKS AT BETTIS PORT

P. H. Moore, of Philadelphia, was shaken up and slightly injured late yesterday when a private plane which he was piloting was wrecked when it went over the edge of Bettis Airport. Moore was attempting to land the ship. He was on his way to Philadelphia from Detroit. The plane was almost a total wreck.

Moore left it on the hillside and took a passenger plane on to Philadelphia.

North Side Boy Injured in Fall

Falling over a hillsitle near his home while at play, Arthur Korb, 8, of 22 Ley street, North Side, suffered serious injuries last night. He is in a serious condition in Allegheny General Hospital suffering concussion of the brain, a fractured skull and body bruises.

Male Chorus Will Present Program

An entertainment will be given Thursday night in Calvary Presbyterian Church, Hill street, Wilkinsburg, by the Braddock Male Chorus.

JOB BUREAUS URGED HERE

Dr. A. M. Northrup, state secretary of labor and industry, favors the establishment of two "scientific and business-like employment bureaus" for Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, which would merge with state employment agencies already in operation, he disclosed here yesterday.

Dr. Northrup said he would like to see the bureaus directed by advisory committees consisting of two members appointed by the citizens groups and one member appointed by his office.

All in a Day's Play

What's a little fall to most youngsters? Nothing very serious . . . Even though the fall happens to be in a pool of mud . . . It's all in a day's play . . . And though Mother and Father don't take it quite as lightly as Junior, a tub-full of good, clean hot water will erase the incident from their minds in a hurry and make Junior as bright and clean as ever (for some little while at least)—But it requires a good, modern automatic water heater to furnish the "hot water" for such emergencies.

$10 For Your Old Water Heater

Trade in your old water heater now on either the Equitable Automatic or Kompak, and know what it is to have real, efficient "hot water" service . . . Service that never fails no matter how much you tax its supply . . . And "hot water" that is always clean and free from rust because of the all-copper construction.

MEET TO FIGHT FOR CAR LINE

Plans for a formal protest against the proposal to discontinue operation of the Butler Short Line were to be made by residents of the communities served by the interurban line at a meeting tonight in Mars. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Mars Chamber of Commerce. The representatives of the various communities probably will select an attorney to represent them at the Federal Court hearing Monday.

Maurice R. Scharff, receiver for the Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler Railways Company, petitioned Federal Court for permissian to abandon the operation of the line immediately on the grounds that the cost of restoring the line to safe condition was not warranted by the revenue.

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker denied the petition and issued a rule returnable Monday to give both the receiver and residents along the line an opportunity to present their arguments. J. Roy Gilleland, of the Mars Chamber of Commerce, immediately called the mass meeting. He is assisted in arranging for the meeting by M. K. Jordan and R. J. McKelvey.

HANDWRITING EXPERT TO TALK

An illustrated talk on handwriting and disputed documents will be given by Attorney Maurice A. Nernberg before the John B. Bair Atwood Post No. 285, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the post's luncheon Tuesday in Hotel Henry.

Mr. Nernberg

Nernberg is frequently consulted on handwriting and has given radio talks as well on the subject. He will recount many experiences, illustrating with actual samples and slides.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Janet Davis To Marry In West

Life is just one lovely wedding after another one might be tempted to think this spring when so many notable weddings are taking place or are to be outstanding events of the days to come.

And added to this list of bridal events is the wedding of a Sewickley girl and a California man, to take place in the West. Janet Walker Davis, daughter of Mrs. Charles Wiley Davis, of Woodland road, Sewickley, will wed Francis Graham Hollister, son of the Harold A. Hollisters, of Santa Barbara, Cal., on May 9 in the Davis California home in Montecito.

And Rosamound Fitch, daughter of Mrs. Chester Marsh Van Kleeck, will attend the ceremony.

I know of a new debut date this morning that will interest many Pittsburgh folks. The John J. Kennedys, of Shady avenue, will present their daughter, Betty E. Kennedy, at a tea dance in the Twentieth Century Club on December 19. And the Kennedys are planning a second party in honor of Betty to take place later in the Christmas season.

Debut Date Set

Betty has been a student at the Brilliantmont School in Lausanne, Switzerland, this year. Her mother sails for Europe on the Ile de France on Saturday, April 25, to join her daughter, and both will be joined by John J. Kennedy, Jr., who is a student at Yale, in June, and they will tour England together and return to Pittsburgh in September.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reynolds, of Washington avenue, Bellevue, will celebrate their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary on Sunday, at a dinner given in their honor by their son, Warren Reynolds, at his home in Etna.

Gwens, sophomore women's honorary fraternity of Carnegie Tech, will entertain the Pitt Chapter of the organization at a bridge tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the recreation hall of the Margaret Morrison College. Miss Gloria Kloos is president of the Carnegie Chapter.

* * *

Miss Alice Foster Wooldridge will return to Simmons College, Boston, next week after spending three weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. V. Wooldridge.

The annual luncheon and card party of the Oliver Club will be held at the Fort Pitt Hotel on April 25.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Pennsylvania Chiropractors' Association will meet in regular session at luncheon tomorrow in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Next Friday afternoon the association will have a benefit card party in the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium.

50 of Outlook Alliance's 'Other Halves' Show How Husbands Can Sing

If all club husbands can sing as well as the Outlook Alliance "other halves"—well, it's just too bad there aren't more evening club meetings. Last night about 50 of these partners, in the best of humor and, seemingly without any coercion, accompanied their wives to the Congress of Clubs, where the Alliance was having its annual dinner.

The guests apparently enjoyed their well served meal, there was a great deal of laughter and talk, they applauded the accordeon solos of Mario Basetti, they certainly registered amusement at long-legged Charlotte Greenwood in the movie, "Love Your Neighbor," and many stayed for bridge later.

Of course all these things may —just may—have been merely indications of the unusual good nature of Outlook Alliance husbands. But nobody could be mistaken about that singing. It was real. Those men wanted to sing and they did it well. Aden L. Fillmore, who knows how to make assembly singing more than a mere piping, directed. He's a club husband himself.

N. D. Stark, husband of the president, was there, sitting between his wife and Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Congress president, whose husband was also a guest. E. B. Heyser and his wife who is the Alliance president-elect, were at the same table.

The club is to have something new in the wild flower hunt which Marion Foster Smith will conduct on Wednesday. The party will leave the clubhouse at about 10:30 for parts not yet decided upon.

Novelty dances will be presented by Norma McAdams, Nancy Arnold and Mary Louise McPeak at the annual revue being given this evening in the Washington School under auspices of the music department of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club. The affair will be given with an original setting designed to represent a television studio. Solo roles will be "broadcast" by Lillian Gardner, Eda Kreiling, Margaret Estep, Ruth Hubbard, Margaret Lysle, Agnes Hansen and Margaret Krebs. Helen Hunt Allen will offer violin solos and also obligatos for the choral under Lucille Miller Werner's direction.

Costumes and settings have been designed by Ruth Allen, who will appear in one of the humorous sketches.

Military training in schools was strongly advocated by Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, of Douglas, Ariz., national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, in the talk which she gave at luncheon in the William Penn Hotel yesterday under auspices of the Allegheny County Auxiliary. Mrs. Hoyal discussed at length the various phases of auxiliary work. Mrs. Thomas P. Meany, Jr., of Philadelphia, state president, shared honors with the national head and other special guests were Judge Sara Soffel, Judge W. H. McNaugher, Judge Paulson Foster, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, president of the Congress of Clubs; Edward Crump, Jr., and J. B. Nicklas, Jr., county legion commander.

Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter sang, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Ziel and Mrs. Robert Vroom offered piano solos. After the luncheon meeting Mrs. Hoyal and Mrs. Meany were escorted to the United States Veterans Hospital for tea, were guests of Mrs. Edward Crump, Jr., at dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and in the evening were entertained by East Liberty Post No. 5 in the East Liberty Presbyterian Church.

CHIC SUITS DELECTABLE FOR REGULAR DAILY WALK

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 17.—If you want to be smart you must foot the bill by getting in your regular daily walk of a couple of miles or so. And you will be aided and abetted in your noble resolve to walk the way to health, good complexion and figure by the very delightful walking suits and ensembles presented at most of the leading houses. A plain coat and skirt is all very well in its utilitarian purpose, but a jaunty, dashing little suit that makes one feel younger and blither directly as one steps into it, can and does do all sorts of interesting things to the morale. It gives one such a trim appearance that one wants to go walking and show oneself to an admiring world. And the way is then easy.

THE SUITS SHOWN this season steer a very clever path between the perfectly plain suit and the more fussy article. Which means that all kinds of clever, appropriate touches and details are introduced in suits of jersey or, better still, jersey tweed. Skirts are of a sensible length and width for walking and jackets are neat and nice. Scarves are much used, generally to tone with the colors in the material mixture, brown and beige or brown and white being great favorites.

PREMET HAS BEEN showing some delightful little sports and walking suits. The one here sketched is in beige and brown jersey and just breathes of the open air. There is a scarf collar of beige jersey, edged with the jersey tweed appliqued in points. Narrow godets set on a pointed yoke flare somewhat as they descend to form the skirt. The narrow belt is of brown suede.

* * *

LOVELY AND MOST wearable is the coat, which is a model from Bruyere, a designer eminently successful in the coat field. It is of bright blue repella with important sleeves and collar stitched in matching silk. The belt, too, is stitched. There is a long vertical panel set-in at the center-back. The wide stitched collar descends in shawl fashion to the belt in front.

Read this before you take a substitute for Kotex

STOP and think before accepting a so-called substitute for Kotex! Who made it? Where? Under what conditions? How do you know it's fit for this intimate hygienic purpose?

Surface resemblance to Kotex is not enough. Demand the purity of Kotex. Accept nothing less. Your health is involved. You can't afford to risk health for the few pennies you may save by accepting a questionable substitute of whose makers you know nothing.

Kotex is a hospital product. Hospitals used more than 10 million pads last year. Kotex is scientifically made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding.

In addition, Kotex offers every comfort. It is skilfully shaped. Treated to deodorize. Amazingly soft—and the softness lasts.

YOUR CHILDREN'S NEEDS and

URE DRUGGIST

This symbol in red and white says:
"Here is Your Druggist"

YOUR children are the most important thing in your life. Ure Druggist knows this. And he serves you best in all their Drug Store needs because he is more interested in your and their welfare than perhaps you realize.

For Ure Druggist marks the coming and going of every family in his neighborhood. He notes the arrival of every new baby. He watches its miraculously rapid growth and development. He is ready to serve, day or night, its ever changing needs. He knows at first hand, about the experience of hundreds of mothers and physicians. He often acts in emergencies until the doctor comes, and is always a source of aid and confidence for many harassed mothers who have such great responsibility. Permanently located as your fellow citizen and neighbor, Ure Druggist will be the same friend in serving you tomorrow as he is today and as he was yesterday.

You may easily know which is Ure Druggist . . . look for the red and white Ure Druggist symbol prominently displayed on his front windows. This now famous emblem tells you among other things, that here is, financially, a really independent druggist who successfully conducts a serious and important business with rigid standards that point for you the difference between drug stores.

As your children grow up you trust them on errands to his Drug Store. And Ure Druggist is glad, because he knows that public confidence, good service and fair dealing make and keep him a strong independent druggist.

Always have your prescriptions filled by Ure Druggist. Make it your policy to buy all your drug store needs from him with safety. You will receive full value for your money plus a service that makes your trading there a pleasure.

All In A Day
By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, April 17.

ONE DAY I was about to send my column to the composing room and retire for the day, when a special delivery letter arrived. I opened it, read it, and put the other column aside.

The letter was written by a former newspaperman now engaged in the publicizing of an aviation concern. The subject was a pal of his—named Jack—who had just been killed in a plane crash.

I know little or nothing about aviation. The men and women who fly planes are heroic people in my eyes. I sigh at the irony of a game wherein a man like Wilmer Stultz winged his way safely across the Atlantic Ocean a few years ago only to fall to his death in a little flight over Roosevelt Field a short time afterward. I admire the courage of flying folks much more than mere words can express.

As a tribute to a friend who has gone out of the picture, I think that this letter is the finest I have ever read. I am happy to be able to publish it here . . .

"DEAR MARK," it reads. "You've missed an unsung hero.

"He played the highway on a bleak winter day at noon almost five years ago. He shot his airplane down into your canyon and wrestled with the stick while an acrobat danced over the wings, dived into your stone-lined valley, Mark, where a missing motor meant curtains.

"You must have seen him at one time or another . . . he loved life, Broadway, Main Street . . . anywhere . . .

"He was regular. Three months after he left your big swirl he set his ship down at Daytona Beach with the rest of the flying circus. His boss signed a contract that called for four planes over a certain spot at a certain time . . . all or nothing.

"Three motors balked . . . and the fourth balked. Because he was 6 feet 2, they howled for him . . .

"He cranked the fourth all right . . . but she backfired and broke his arm. He crawled into his own cockpit and shoved his throttle forward. For an hour he led the gang as he looped, rolled and dived over the appointed place. He landed on the beach, cut his throttle—and passed out . . . cold as yesterday's newspaper.

"He knew the gang had to eat, Mark. He was that kind of a guy.

"Jack was the best in the business, Mark . . . until he ran out of gas the other morning. Wouldn't quit, and plunged through the fog. He wrote himself off—broke everything. The gas tank and the motor and the motor mount. You know what I mean.

"Two years ago airplanes got his best pal and his brother. They were throwing exhibition bombs over Macon, Ga. You read about it. One went off too soon . . .

"Jack played the sticks, Mark. He did his stuff over Jallopi and Oshkosh and Pawtuxet. They loved him out there. He drifted back here again....for greater fame.

"And then, in a gray morning fog he got the works. . .

"Now he has come back to Broadway, Mark. They brought him back in his grease-stained uniform. They'd never seen him in anything else. They couldn't find a blue suit in his outfit. . .

"A pastor who didn't know Jack poured platitudes at him and the words didn't fit. A jazz band drove along the street during the ceremonies. . . and sounded a lot more like him. Anyway, he was back on Broadway.

The mechanics and the 'greaseballs' clicked at the funeral. The cards on the flowers, which smothered the coffin, told the story. . . 'From the gang at Teterboro' . . . 'From the boys at Holmes' . . .

"You see, he was so fine and so clean and so regular, Mark, that the young fellows wanted to grow up and be like him. . . like Big Jack.

"Jack talked about a home in Kansas . . . Some small town out there.

"'Some day,' he said, 'I'm going back . . . I've got a home out there . . . with flowers around it . . . and the folks inside.'

"He was big, Mark . . . big as the skies he roamed. A head taller than the canyon he dived into five years ago to give you and me a thrill. His life was the sky and the sun . . . and the stars.

"Jack's gone home.

"And if aviators have any hereafter, his pal and his brother reached down at dawn Friday and plucked that strong spirit from a broken body.

"The newspapers called him a 'professional aviator,' Mark. Tell the folks he was more than that. So very much more than that . . ."

NO. 173.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the repair of Ross pumping station building and appurtenances, and providing for the setting aside of the sum of Eighteen Hundred ($1,800.00) Dollars from Code Account No. 1758 Repairs, for the cost and expense thereof and authorizing and providing for the letting of a contract or contracts therefor.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh shall be and are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for proposals and to award a contract or contracts to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the repair of Ross pumping station building and appurtenances. Said contract or contracts to be awarded for a sum total not to exceed Eighteen Hundred ($1,800.00) Dollars.

SECTION 2. That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract or contracts with the successful bidder or bidders for the performance of the work, in accordance with the laws and Ordinances governing said city.

SECTION 3. That the sum of Eighteen Hundred ($1,800.00) Dollars or so much of the sum as may be necessary is hereby set apart and appropriated from Code Account No. 1758-E Repairs, for the payment or payments required for the performance of the above mentioned work.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Passed in Council March 31, 1931.

Pittsburgh, April 13, 1931.

I do hereby certify that the foregoing Ordinance, duly engrossed and certified, was delivered by me to the Mayor for his approval or disapproval on April 1, 1931, and that the Mayor failed to approve or disapprove the same, or to return the same to Council within ten (10) days from said date, whereupon it became a law without his approval, under the provisions of the Act of Assembly in such cases made and provided. ROBT. CLARK, Clerk of Council.

Recorded in Ordinance Book, Volume 43, page 566.

Official—Miscellaneous 113

18 WIN HIGHEST HONOR AT PITT

Eighteen students of the 3,800 in the undergraduate schools of the University of Pittsburgh, have perfect scholastic records for this year, according to Registrar J. Gilbert Quick. Robert McEwan, a graduate of Arnold High School, has 20 credits or five more than the average schedule. Edward Burchard and Thomas J. Carroll, Jr., have 18.

Others who had perfect scholastic records are William Billock, Oliver High School graduate; Evan Davis, South Fork; Samuel Goldstein, South High School; Elizabeth Heiss, Altoona; Harry Hinkes, Fifth Avenue High School; Margaret Hodgkiss, South Hills High School; Edward Kalberer, Carrick High; Saul Kaplan, Fifth Avenue; Eugene Koch, Pittsburgh Academy; Elmer M. Roth, Comm Academy, Hungary; Mary Julia Shelton, Swissvale; Frances Stewart, Braddock High; Jacob Stone, Fifth Avenue High; Leonard Volkin, Oliver High, and Wilbert Walker, Norwin Union High.

One per cent of all undergraduate students had "high honor," or almost perfect records, and 8.54 per cent were on the honor roll.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS BIG JOB

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has received two orders, totaling nearly $1,250,000, by the Public Service Electric and Gas Company of Newark, N. J., for two units, one a 75,000 kw., 60-cycle, single-cylinder turbine-generator, and the other, an 18,000 kw., high pressure, 60-cycle turbine unit.

The first unit will be installed as the company's No. 6 steam unit at the Kearny generating station, bringing the station's capacity in steam units up to about 290,000 kw. The other will be installed in their Burlington generating station to be operated in connection with new boiler equipment on 650 pounds, making the station capable of developing about 55,000 kw.

COUGHING IS TABOO ON THE AIR!

Rolf Alexis Sanderson

RADIO people can't afford to cough. "I should feel disgraced if I coughed while on the air," Rolf Sanderson, WGBS program director and singer says. And Barbara Maurel, contralto with the Columbia Broadcasting System, declares, "Many of us have learned to rely on the quick relief Pertussin gives."

Barbara Maurel

Broadcasting studios use Pertussin because it relieves coughs quickly and clears the air passages. Doctors have prescribed it for years—for both young and old.

"We always keep this quick remedy right beside the microphone"

George Beuchler

says George Beuchler, Station WABC Columbia Broadcasting System. Why don't you try the remedy radio people rely on? This is coughing weather. Watch out! Get Pertussin. Every druggist has it.

POWER THIEF IN GASOLINE

Gum sticks valves

Gum clogs feed lines

Gum binds carbon

Gum steals power

Gum distorts piston rings

...but TYDOL Gasolines are 99 98/100 % Gum-Free

GUM is a black, brutal thief of power. GUM upsets performance. Pulls down efficiency. Raises operating costs. Clips miles off your speed.

Many serious motor troubles can be traced to gummy gasolines.

And you may find them anywhere today . . . hastily or improperly refined.

But Hi-test TYDOL is 99 98/100% gum-free.

Super-refined for purity by the most modern equipment. Clarified and purified in enormous new stills and towers costing millions of dollars.

Packed with speed and power Balanced for the long pull or the traffic light dash.

Super-performance and anti-knock . . . but no extra cost. And a clean, gum-free motor. Try it today.

"Gum-Tapped"

Refining equipment costing millions creates these pure, sparkling gum-free gasolines. In this huge, modern, bubble tower, the gum-carrying gasolines are removed for re-distillation.

Why TYDOL Gasolines are 99 98/100% Gum-Free

1. SELECTED CRUDES

Crudes selected for their cleanliness are "multi-fractionated" by super-refining equipment costing millions. Each crude gets the exact degree of refining it requires.

2. "GUM-TAPPED"

In towering fractionation stills of the most advanced type, Hi-test TYDOL is refined to gum-free purity. The gum-carrying gasoline is drawn off for re-distillation long before the refining process is completed.

3. GUM-FREE BLENDING

Tide Water's exclusive, secret blend of gum-free gasolines creates the super-power, high-test, anti-knock qualities of Hi-test TYDOL.

CO-EDS IN SHOW AT DUQUESNE

Novelty dances by co-eds of the university will be part of the entertainment offered during the fourth annual "Pharmacy Night" program of the Duquesne University School of Pharmacy tonight.

The exhibition of the work of the pharmacists opens at 7:30 p. m. and closes at 10. In addition to the dancing there will be a concert by the university symphonic jazz orchestra and a one-act play, "The Mayor and the Manicure." The show is open to the public. Displays will be in Canevin Hall and the chemistry building and entertainment in the Campus Theater.

Real Estate

A six-room brick house in Atlanta drive, Mt. Lebanon, on lot 50x135 feet, has been sold by the Fourth and Grant Realty Company to George Stacey for $11,500. The purchaser will occupy the property as a home, according to Thomas W. Stevenson, South Hills broker who closed the deal. Stevenson also reports that an English type home of seven rooms and garage on a lot measuring 45x120 feet, in Ashland avenue, Mt. Lebanon, has been sold by Rudolph Berg, Jr., builder, to Charles S. Richardson, for $13,500. Another transfer through Stevenson's office was the sale by J. A. Fitz to William A. Clark, of a brick house of eight rooms, three baths and a two-car garage in Overbrook drive, Virginia Manor plan. The lot measures 50x125 feet. A seven-room brick residence and garage on lot 50x135 feet, at 306 Broadmoor avenue, Mt. Lebanon, has been sold, according to Stevenson, by Herman Kamin, builder, to H. Newbold, for $10,000.

The weekly mortgage report of C. C. C. Stotler, secretary of the Title Guaranty Company, released today shows that a total of 329 mortgages, valued at $1,346,720.81, were placed on record from April 9 to and including April 15. Thirty-three of these, amounting to $165,447.33, were purchase money mortgages. The remaining 296, valued at $1,181,273.48, were straight mortgages. The majority of the straight mortgages, according to the report, were given to building and loan associations. The others went to individuals and corporations.

A long-term lease on the property at 4822-30 Baum boulevard has been acquired by the Wagner Electric Company from Edward G. Hartje, through the office of C. C. McKallip & Co., downtown brokers. Hartje is erecting a building on the property. The total amount of the lease is approximately $100,000, according to the brokers. The same brokers have been named renting and managing agents by R. M., C. C. and K. J. Kaufman for the Kaufman estate properties. The properties include the Americus Club Building, Smithfield street, and the Kaufman Building, Fourth avenue, near Smithfield street. Several new leases on these properties will be announced shortly.

OBITUARY

Estep Funeral.

Funeral services for F. A. Estep, 82, former chairman of the board of the R. D. Nuttall Company, who died in St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday, will be held at Samson's funeral home, Neville street, at 2 p. m. tomorrow. He was born in old Allegheny, and attended the public schools and the Western University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh. In 1892 he was employed by the Philadelphia Company, of which the late George Westinghouse was then president. A year later when the Allegheny Heating Company acquired controling interest in the R. D. Nuttall Company, Mr. Estep was elected president and treasurer, which position he held until 1925, when he was elected chairman of the board, retiring in 1928. He was a member of Petrolia Lodge, F. & A. M., of Oil City, the Duquesne Club of Pittsburg, and the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Besides his widow he leaves a son, L. J. Estep, and a daughter, Mrs. E. G. Hays, both of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Harry E. Weiss.

Mrs. Ella Weiss, wife of Harry E. Weiss, of 1918 Buena Vista street, died yesterday in the Passavant Hospital. She was a member of St. Paul's Evangelical Church, Golden Rule Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, P. O. of A. and the German Beneficial Union. Besides her husband, she leaves a daughter, Ruth; her mother, Mrs. Dora Beresford; a sister, Mrs. Bernice Graham, and two brothers, James and Harry Beresford. Interment will be made Sunday afternoon in the United Cemetery.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

Songs? . . . They don't write 'em the same today . . . Now it's all about moon and June and kisses and misses and cigaret ladies. . . . But in your father's time it was "Harrigan" and "Give My Regards to Broadway" and "Can't Yo' Heah Me Callin', Caroline? . . . Ond "In the Good Old Summertime" and "Everybody Works But Father" and "Goodbye Dolly Gray" and that song inspired by Harry Thaw's trial, "Why Don't They Set Him Free?" as Mark Sullivan points in "Our Times" . . .

And May Irwin singing "I Ain't Gwine Ter Work No Mo'" and Nora Bayes waltzing around to "Down Where the Wurzburger Flows," or that song of suspicion, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" . . . Aw, well, we still have "Yes, We Have no Bananas" . . . Instead of Bert Williams who, when he wasn't playing his pantomime poker, was gloomily talking the words to "Somebody Else, Not Me" . . .

And we still have graphophones . . . And that story about the fellow who, when asked if he had musical talent, replied: "Sure, I play the graphophone" . . . And that's Malcolm Gerlach's reply from now on . . . He's a musician besides, but at the last symphony concert, when they were playing that Respighi symphonic poem, "The Pines of Rome," they had to have nightingale music . . . And there were no nightingales around, so they decided to use a recording. And it was Gerlach who played the record. . . . And if you're young and ambitious there's a good field for you—professional nightingale imitator . . .

Speaking of lucky people (and what if we weren't), there's Frank Kalmeyer, of the Tarentum Kalmeyers . . . He had his car parked in front of his home . . . He took off the cylinder-head to put on a new gasket . . . He had to leave his car for a few minutes and when he returned it was gone, stolen . . . He found it at the bottom of the hill, where the thieves left it when they discovered it wouldn't run . . . And Kermit McFarlane, the reporter . . . He was sitting downstairs in Duquesne Garden trying futilely to light his lighter for a cigaret while watching a hockey game . . . A fellow in the balcony dropped him a match finally and without a word . . . And the young fellow from Bellevue who heroically stopped the runaway horse and was bawled out when the driver reached the scene . . . They were garbage horses, trained to move from house to house . . . Evidence of economic depression: Only half of the girls who were invited to join the sororities at Pitt (invitations usually fought for) accepted this year . . .

Oh, and here's the payoff . . . A politician who knows bootleggers told us about it and we believed it . . . A Pittsburgh bootlegger in the beer racket shipped 10,000 (ten thousand) cases of the stuff to Miama (of all places!) with the Regal sign on it, advertised it as Canada beer, and sold it easily at $1 per bottle . . . And Miami's a town that knows no prohibition! . . . The same fellow told us that all of the whisky being sold in tincans as Canada stuff is phoney, that the Canadian government doesn't pack any of its brands in cans . . . And Pittsburghers have been paying fancy prices for these cans for two years . . . To say nothing of the cuts and bruises they've been responsible for . . .

JOB RELIEF FUND LACKS $1,939,850

MORE JUVENILE PRIVILEGES FAVORED

Social Workers' Institute Hears Pleas for Young Orphans and Delinquents

Children in orphan asylums and other juvenile institutions should be allowed to have pets; should be permitted to sit where they please in church instead of all in the same pew; should have parties where boys and girls could mingle as in a parental home; should have individual cubicles for their beds instead of dormitories; never should be dressed in uniforms, and should be encouraged to express their individuality.

Such are the modern trends in institutional care of children, as expressed yesterday and today at an institute for social workers in Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The Institute opened Thursday morning with an address on "The Child's Regime" by Miss Ethel Verry, director of the Chicago Orphan Asylum. In the afternoon Miss Margaret Steel Moss, of the Bureau of Children, Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, continued the topic.

This morning Miss Helen Meyer, instructor in case work, department of social work at Tech, addressed the institute on "The Child—His Past and Future."

Dr. O. D. Markey, consulting psychiatrist to several children's institutions in Cleveland and connected with the Bellefair Orphan Asylum there, was scheduled to close the two-day institute this afternoon with a recitation of his experience with and treatment for behavior problems in child institutions.

Representatives from these child institutions in and near Allegheny County attended the conference: Thornhill Boy's Reformatory, Gumbert School for Girls, the Juvenile Detention Home, D. T. Watson Home for Crippled Children, Zoar Home, Roselia Asylum, Home for Colored Children, Coleman and Curtis homes, Holy Family and St. Paul's Orphan asylums, Salvation Army Home and Hospital, Indiana Training School for Girls, Venango County Home, Children's Home and Beaver County Home.

Foch Marshals Last Reserves to Bar Foe Sweeping on Paris

In yesterday's instalment Marshal Foch told of his plans for meeting renewed German drives on the Western Front late in the spring of 1918 and of the serious situation that loomed as a result of a break in the Allied line on the Aisne. Today he tells of the heavy drives of the Germans toward Paris and his steps to halt them.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies During the Closing Phases of the World War.

Translated from the French by Col. T. Bentley Mott.

CHAPTER XX

During the afternoon of May 27, 1918, Gen. Petain informed me of the measures he had taken to urgently meet the grave situation in the Chemin des Dames region. Headquarters of the 5th Army, six infantry divisions, the 1st Cavalry Corps, composed of three divisions, four regiments of horse-drawn 75s, three regiments and six groups of tractor-drawn heavy artillery, as well as a group of air forces, were already on the move. One-half of the infantry divisions and two of the cavalry divisions would be thrown into the battle the following morning.

On May twenty-eighth, the enemy brushed aside the few elements opposing him in the vicinity of Fismes, crossed the Vesle on a wide front and established himself on the high ground south of the river, without, however, seeking to push further forward.

Marshal Foch

Moreover, taking advantage of the breach in the center, he combined frontal attacks with attacks in reserve, and thus overcame the resistance encountered on the two wings.

On the east, advancing rapidly along the valleys of the Vesle and the Ardre, he forced the British 1st Corps back upon the heights of Chateau-Thierry and Savigny. On the west he captured from our 11th Corps the high ground commanding Soissons from the north-east, and at nightfall even penetrated into that town.

It was in vain that the General commanding the French 6th Army had flung in front of the German battalions as they entrained. Four infantry divisions and two cavalry divisions brought into action in this way on the twenty-eighth were powerless to fill a breach which was hourly growing wider.

It was urgently necessary to bring up other forces, and Gen. Petain informed me on the twenty-eighth at Provins that, in addition to the reserves whose departure he had reported to me the previous day, he had given orders to direct upon the Army group of the North, 10 infantry divisions, four regiments of heavy artillery and three regiments of horse-drawn 75s.

British Reserve Formed

He had also instructed Gen. Fayolle to withdraw four infantry divisions from his front and to send the 2nd Cavalry Corps towards Creil and Chantilly.

In fact, nearly every available French organization was set in motion towards the battle.

The decision thus made by Gen. Petain corresponded to the first necessities facing him, and, at the outset, I could only give it my approval. But, from a general point of view, it induced consequences which had to be provided against at once and as fully as possible.

For example, the whole of the French 5th Army, with its staff and its four divisions, had been sent south of the Oise; consequently there disappeared one of the two French groups consisting o. the general reserve in the British zone.

As a result of this, Field Marshal Haig, being now obliged to rely almost wholly upon his own forces to parry a possible German offensive, had to form a British general reserve capable of being thrown in at any time and place it might be required. This I requested of him to do in a letter dated May 28.

I also instructed the commander of the French 10th Army to make preparations to the end that, in case of need, the four divisions to which his army was now reduced could intervene on any part of the British front.

After deliberately halting on May 28 on the high ground south of the Vesle, instead of further

JAIL PRISONERS REPAIR FARM BUILDING

100 Men Enjoy Fresh Air At Parkview After Shift From Cramped Quarters

Enjoying the open air and sunshine of Allegheny County's new jail farm at Parkview, 100 or more short term prisoners today set to work on a wing of the abandoned poor farm building, making it fit for occupancy, and getting the farm and garden under way. The prisoners were transferred from the overcrowded county jail in Ross street.

Walter Teats, newly appointed superintendent of the farm, is in charge of the work under the supervision of Warden John McNeil. Only short term men, first offenders and men who have earned trusty honors, are taken to the farm.

The prisoners sleep in light, airy dormitories. Their work keeps them in the open, a considerable change from the cramped jail quarters in Ross street.

ATTORNEY NOT SUSPENDED

It was erroneously reported in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph that Attorney Frank J. Zappala had been suspended from practice in Criminal Court. The statement was reported in connection with a news account of the parole application of Philip Fazio, who is serving a workhouse term for a prohibition law violation.

Attorney Zappala was criticized in court for his method of handling a case, but has not been suspended from practice.

Our Dreams of Happiness

Some are rough, some are smooth.

Poor Ruth, So Easily Made Happy.

THIS quaint picture from an old illustrated Bible shows beautiful Ruth, daughter-in-law of Naomi, a good girl that would not leave her mother-in-law under any circumstances.

Keats speaks of "the sad heart of Ruth, when sick for home, she stood in tears amid the alien corn."

We like to think of her as the practical girl that went out to glean an ear of wheat, rye or barley here and there, to keep her mother from starving.

ABOVE we see her kneeling at the feet of old Boaz, owner of the field. She was a smart girl for those days. She slept on the threshing barn floor and kept the feet of old Boaz warm at night, holding them to her breast. He told his servants to let her glean all she wanted to, finally married her, and SHE owned the field when he died. It took little to make her happy.

SOME demand a great deal, e. g., the young gentleman described in verses by Donald Mack, printed in the middle of his editorial page by Cyrus H. K. Curtis:

A PRAYER

Let me live!
I would stand alone, upon a mountain top at dawn;
Or cling to the tiller of some sailboat
While Hell breaks o'er the seas!
Give me a 'plane, that I may be alone in Space,
With God—
Let me wander over all the world;
Fill my youth with the joy of freedom,
Teach me to play the game square—
Make me a man, and one day
Give me the girl I'll love!

Donald Mack.

He might satisfy part of his cravings by joining the Marines first, then the air force, buying a small sailboat between. But he asks for things that even the Army and Navy couldn't supply. He wants youth filled with the joy of freedom, and somebody to teach him to play the game square. You have to learn that for yourself.

As for "give me the girl I'll love," that's unreasonable. He must pick her out.

THIS poem and picture lead up to the prosaic fact that tastes differ. The young man in the poem really needs a job that will make him work. Clinging to a rudder "with hell breaking o'er the seas," wouldn't do him any good.

He needs a job, a load to pull, that will make him go to bed gladly at the end of an honest day's work. If he gets that job or business and attends to it the "girl I'll love" will think more of him.

THAT being the case, turn to the right, read carefully the classified advertisements in this newspaper, the opportunities for entering business, for purchase of real estate, the offers of desirable employment. Study them all and you'll find them more interesting than being up in a plane "alone in space."

Grotto Sponsor Of Smoker at 'Y'

Islam Grotto will sponsor a neighborhood smoker and entertainment at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. tonight. Prophets and their Masonic friends from East Liberty and Squirrel Hill districts have been invited.

Islam's officers, Walter F. Weberg, monarch; J. Clifford Franz, chief justice; Ralph H. Axthelm, master of ceremonies, and Fred C. Hopton, veiled prophet, will be present.

3 DAYS LEFT TO REACH GOAL

Campaign Forces Face Huge Task to Complete Quotas Within Alloted Period

Workers in the Allegheny County Emergency Association's drive for $3,000,000 today faced the task of raising $1,939,850.24, the amount as yet unsubscribed, in the three days remaining of the two-week campaign. Today's total was $11,294.29.

The fund rose yesterday when an individual contribution of $25,000 was received from a prominent Pittsburgh woman. Yesterday's collection totaled $43,506.

Of this amount Division A, the group under Walter C. Carroll, was credited with $31,213.47. Division B, the chamber unit under T. P. Gaylord, reported $12,293.02. Of the individual units of the two large divisions, the team under Mrs. Charles Longnecker reported the largest sum, with 21 subscriptions calling for $2,170.

Meetings scheduled today for the purpose of outlining the association's work of unemployment relief, were to be at the following places: Hollander Lewis, 1316 Forbes street; C. A. Verner Company, 249 Fifth avenue, and the Pittsburgh Steel Company, Union Trust Building.

Masons to Install Officers Tomorrow

Installation of officers will be held by Lincoln Commandery No. 91, Knights Templar, at a meeting in the Masonic Temple, Wilkinsburg, tomorrow night. The officers are: Commander, Paul D. Murrin; generalissimo, Robert W. Ramsey; captain general, Thomas Maxwell, Jr.; senior warden, O. V. Stewart; junior warden, Franklin A. Megehan; recorder, Dan V. Miller, and treasurer, Paul W. Keim.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

IN THE TROPICS, April 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

You have read of the San Blas Indians (not Sam Dash, but San Blas). Well, all morning we flew low over their beautiful coral islands. You can get leave and visit them, but you must get away before night. The old chief won't let you stop after dark.

Coast of Colombia is beautiful, also Cartagena, with its old Spanish ports. Nearing Venezuela, stop for the night at Maracaibo. That's where all the foreign oil is coming from that put our independent companies out of business.

I was told not to drink water in these tropical countries. I had never tried their beer with ham and eggs in the morning, but am managing to gulp it down. I have heard of worse hardships.

Yours, WILL.

BEN AVON FIRE FIGHTER RESCUES AGED MOTHER

PAIR TRAPPED IN HOME BY FLAMES

Youth Carries Woman to Safety as Home Burns; Neighbor Saves Father

An aged mother was led to safety by her fireman son and a father, severely burned, was rescued from the second floor by a neighbor as fire destroyed the home of John W. White, 73, of 307 Forest avenue, Ben Avon, early today.

The fire was discovered by Roscoe McKee, of 314 Breading street, a neighbor, who turned in the alarm at the fire station nearby. John W. White, Jr., 26, was playing bridge with several other firemen when McKee arrived. John sped home and rushed into the house.

The mother, Mrs. Louise White, 66, was helped from the smoke-filled bedroom by her son, while McKee rescued the father, who was groping helplessly in the suffocating atmosphere. He was badly burned about the face and hands. After being treated by Dr. E. H. Sloan he was removed to Suburban General Hospital. Mrs. White was taken to the home of a neighbor.

When it became apparent that efforts to save the White dwelling were useless, firemen turned their attention to preventing spreading of flames to adjoining residences.

Loss to the home and furnishings was estimated at $15,000.

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark said today he will have 29 radio-equipped cars in operation Monday, working in co-operation with the new police broadcasting station.

He said the automobiles are the dealer's garage now, and Mayor's signature to the re tion is all that is needed them into service.

CRIME BLAMED ON POLITICS

Seventy-five per cent of Pittsburgh's crime and vice could be eliminated if the police department were divorced from politics, Judge James H. Gray told the Greentree Advancement Association at a meeting in the Greentree Municipal Building last night.

Judge Gray quoted Maj. Lynn Adams, superintendent of the state police, as his authority.

Judge Gray charged that Republican ward chairmen had control of the police department. He added:

"What a price we pay for political crime in Pittsburgh! What we need is a police department put in the hands of experts without political strings of any kind."

12 Police Shifted By Walsh's Order

GERMAN PRINTS EXHIBITED AT INSTITUTE

Showing Reveals Marked Change in Motifs; Show Cross-Section in Art

By PENELOPE REDD

The Carnegie Institute presents in an exhibition of 72 prints, a more truly representative cross-section of today's art in Germany than it is possible to show in painting.

Reviewing these prints in memory with the exhibition of British prints where exquisite craftsmanship and polite restraint were the dominating motifs, and with the exhibition of 50 American prints where the unique subject was the desire to be attained at all costs, one is troubled.

The German prints reveal a world that is equally unconcerned with attaining the nth in technic or with catching a subject that the other fellow has not apprehended.

The doyen of German artists, Max Liebermann, now 84 years old, who seems hopelessly outmoded in the annual exhibitions of paintings, appears with the grace and zest of youth in his etching "Polo."

Max Slevogt, approaching the dull in painting too frequently, in an auto-portrait and one of Dr. Swarzenski, states succintly and with power two great characters. After all, it is exactly what Rembrandt did.

Once one has accepted the fact that these Germans make prints on much larger plates than the English, French or Americans, we are capable of acclimating the eyes and seeing without prejudice.

One might say that an air of sensitivity dominated the exhibition.

This sense ranges from the simple lyric lithograph, "Mother and Children" of Kate Kollwitz to the haunting tragedy of Kokoschka.

Oscar Kokoschka, we discover through examination of his prints, loses his power when he is hampered by the complexities of paint. Regard his portrait head or his "The Artist's Mother," both lithographs, and see all of the struggle of life sensitively captured in tragic black and white. Then one understands why Europe calls him "great."

Otto Dix in "Profile Study," a lithograph of a weird woman with Medusa-like locks, strongly suggests the tone of certain Wassermann novels.

Less of menace, but entrancingly Edgar Allen Poe-ish, is Hugo Steiner-Prag with his "Serenade" and "E. T. A. Hoffman."

A contemporary Meryon-like city subject is R. O. Voight's "Parktor," with elongated houses and absorbed passersby.

We were frankly amused at having that bugaboo, Wassily Kandinsky, make his debut in Pittsburgh, in a most innocuous abstraction, "Composition," a colored lithograph.

The prints from which we derived pleasure without unpleasant neurotical overtones were Renee Sintenis' droll studies of colts, Karl Walser's Arcadian folk who were a trifle reminiscent of Greek folklore, and Karl Hofer's youths and maidens.

We decided that the majority of Germans must have outrageous color plans in their paintings, since their ideas were incomparably more lucid and expressive in the direct medium of black and white.

Dr. Wilhelm R. Valentiner, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, was instrumental in presenting this splendid exhibition to the American public.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin — Genuine

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

WHEN SAN FRANCISCO BURNED

Stock Fire Insurance Met Its Supreme Test

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO San Francisco was in flames. The fourth day of the fire revealed 28,188 ruined buildings, covering 520 city blocks.

Thousands were left homeless! Property destruction reached the enormous total of 350 million dollars.

This one fire swept away all underwriting profit earned by the Stock Fire Insurance companies since 1860 and 80 million dollars in addition.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies paid more than 200 million dollars into the stricken city, and San Francisco stands today as a magnificent example of the restorative power of sound insurance and the courage and resourcefulness of its citizens.

Through succeeding years the Stock Fire Insurance companies comprising the National Board of Fire Underwriters have increased their efforts to make cities safer—protect life and property in all communities—reduce the possibility of San Francisco's experience being repeated anywhere.

Did we hear some radio artist bragging about expensive instruments? Pardon us if we remind you that Victor Saudek's Little Symphony fiddled on $350,000 worth of Strads and de Salos over KDKA in February, 1926. The cheapest instrument, a violin, cost $20,000 and the most expensive, a 'cello, had a $75,000 tone. The concert was announced by Louis Kaufman direct from Carnegie Museum and the instruments used were of the Rudolf Wurlitzer collection.

DON'T TAKE our word for it, switch to Camels for just one day then quit them if you can. The moment you open the package you'll note the difference between fresh humidor packed Camels and dry-as-dust cigarettes. Camels are supple, yet firm to the touch. Stale, dried-out cigarettes crumble and crackle when pressed. But the real convincer is to smoke Camels. Every puff is a sheer delight of cool, mellow mildness; the Camel blend of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos, kept in prime condition by moisture-proof Cellophane sealed air-tight.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, April 17.—It took Japanese royalty to bring the voice of James J. Walker again to the eardrums of the nation. It has been silent these many months, ever since, in fact, the last election.

In extending the greetings of the town James Joseph Walker is always at his best, one of the most facile of broadcasters. Never stumped for a graceful word, an agile wisecrack. Had he seized an opportunity while basking on the desert to greet by radio his investigators he would have scored a master stroke.

The first day in New York of Prince and Princess Takamatsu was just a succession of microphones. The hold of radio upon the American people must have impressed them. The broadcasters made them welcome. Greeted them with salaams, with red carpets stretched across a Fifth avenue sidewalk—it was the first time a carpet was ever laid down on a sidewalk for visitors to NBC—with a special musical program, with various kinds of pomp and ceremony.

And what was the most brilliant show of pomp and ceremony? Why, of course, page boys decked out in new uniforms, drilled in military precision. Drilled not by West Point officers but by—is Peter Arno in the house?—the usher masters of the cinema cathedrals. The studios were, in a word, agog.

The entire plant was turned over to the bidding of the royal couple. They could merely have spoken and an army of crooners would have been theirs. They could have asked for and received 45 minutes of concentrated Harlem jazz or 45 minutes of concentrated Stephen Foster or even 45 minutes of Broadway ballads. They chose classical music.

The red carpet has been stowed away for future use. Optimistic folk, the broadcasters. The next royal visitors might insist on purple.

Comes to the workbench of this department a large cylindrical can from Ted Lewis, jazz king. Can it be a miniature clarinet? Or a wax figure of a man in dinner jacket, holding aloft a battered top hat and captioned "Is everybody happy?" No. Merely a can of red enamel and a paint brush. Symbols, perhaps, of the spirit of modern jazz.

It fell to the lot of Bryan Untiedt, the 13-year-old hero of the Colorado school bus tragedy, to provide one of the most appealing of human interest broadcasts. Without attempting to dramatize his experience in the fatal 36-hour blizzard, he gave one of the most graphic tales yet heard on the air; told his story simply, straightforwardly, in short words and short sentences. No one listening could have left the loudspeaker.

A copy of Bryan's remarks might to advantage be placed in front of every broadcaster who seeks to describe a startling pieces of news. They are a model of dramatic terseness.

Canned Fruits Retain Beneficial Qualities

Dr. Copeland declares that the best canned peaches are often superior to fruit in natural state although fresh article has qualities that make desirable this cellulose-carrying food.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City
United States Senator From New York

We are blessed in this generation because the commercial canners have made it easy to get the choicest of fruits at every season of the year. They studied the methods long used in the home kitchens and developed methods that guarantee a dependable canned product.

The best of the fruit is utilized for the highest grade quality. Since the canneries are near to orchards, only the ripe and most excellent fruit is used. I believe I am entirely correct in saying the best of the canned goods is actually superior to the average of the raw fruit we buy in the markets.

There are qualities in the best of fruit in its natural state that make it desirable, of course. But so perishable an article as the peach, for instance, can be kept even in cold storage for only a comparatively short time. In the tins or cans of preserves it can be kept indefinitely.

ORIGIN DISPUTED

Romance attaches to the origin of the peach. It has been traced to Persia by several students interested in plant life. If it was first cultivated in an ancient Persian garden, who can doubt that maids and lads of that period enjoyed it as our young folks do today.

But as regards every other debatable subject, there is dispute over the origin of the peach. Some students trace it in China. In any event it is grown now on every continent.

HEALTH PROMOTER

The peach carries a quantity of cellulose, the valuable roughage. There are appetite-stimulating acids, delicious in flavor.

In addition, there is a very considerable percentage of sugar. As a matter of fact about one-tenth of the substance of a peach is sugar.

The high sugar content renders the peach particularly suited to canning, preserving and drying. When perfectly carried out, the canning process insures keeping qualities.

Peaches and cream, or canned peaches, make a splendid dessert. It is good practice to use them occasionally as the dessert.

I need not remind you of the shortcake, salad, cake fillings and other ways in which peaches are served. No matter how we get them, this fruit is good for us. It is a promoter of health and energy.

TIRED people...

SO MANY WOMEN, so many men can barely finish out the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them tired . . . listless.

What a difference if they only realized the importance of correct diet. Diet which contains enough "bulk" to rid the system of poisons that sap strength and lead to serious disease!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk" to millions of happy, energetic people. It is the largest-selling all-bran cereal on the market. It prevents and relieves both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it—and notice the difference in the way you feel. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—three times daily in severe cases. Relief is guaranteed. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

What are PRUNES

YOU know prunes in their dried form as they come from the store. But have you ever seen them plump and purple in the orchards at harvest?

What a new idea of prunes you would get!

They're one of the most delicious fruits that grow. One of the most healthful, too!

Of course, prunes vary in quality the same as any fruit.

When they're dried, however, good prunes and poor ones all look much alike. So to distinguish California's finest prunes and to make your buying sure and safe, we association growers select the cream of our crop each season, pack it under the SUNSWEET label and offer it to you with our grower guarantee of top quality.

Sealed in 1- and 2-lb. cartons to keep them fresh and clean.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

GRANDMOTHER'S APPLE-CROW'S NEST—Four medium-sized tart apples, ¼ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup milk.

Slice apples into well-greased pie plate and dot over with bits of butter. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Sift dry ingredients together twice. Cut in shortening with a knife. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Spread this over the apples. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F) 25 minutes (or until apples are tender). Turn upside down on plate with apples up. Mix together ½ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Stir this into the apples with a fork. Serve hot with whipped cream. Dust over top a little cinnamon and a few chopped nuts.

CHINESE CHICKEN—One crushed pineapple (drained); 4 tablespoons butter; 6 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons seasoning sauce, 1½ cups chicken soup, 3 cups sliced chicken, salt and pepper.

Melt butter, add drained pineapple, cook for 3 minutes, add flour and blend thoroughly. Add chicken stock and seasoning. Cook until thick, add chicken. Serve hot on toast, sprinkle with chopped and salted almonds. Serves six.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD WITH NUTS—¼ cup cold water, ½ cup boiling water, 1 cup grapefruit juice, ¼ tablespoon gelatin, ½ cup celery, diced; ½ cup stuffed olives, sliced; 12 pecan nut meats, whole.

Soak gelatin in cold water about five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar and grapefruit juice. Pour a little in the bottom of wet, individual molds. When remaining jelly has stiffened somewhat, stir in the rest of the olives and celery and fill the molds. Chill, turn out on lettuce leaves, garnishing each salad with mayonnaise and a whole nut meat.

POT OF GOLD DESSERT—One-half cup sugar, ½ cup cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup milk (evaporated milk may be used); 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons butter.

Mix dry ingredients, add milk and orange juice and cook in double boiler until thickened. Add butter. Pour into individual molds. Cool. Serve with milk or cream. Serves four.

HUNGARIAN SPECIALTY—Place a pound of sauerkraut and a raw carrot in a casserole with 1 bay leaf, 1 onion stuck with cloves, ½ pint white wine cooking flavoring, 1 pint chicken broth, salt and boil for 4 hours. When half done start the stew by simmering 2 pounds pork cut in 1½-inch squares, ½ pound veal cut likewise, and 2 cups chopped onions in another casserole for 15 minutes. Add ½ cup paprika, very little basil herb and 1 cup flour, and simmer in the oven another 15 minutes. Add 1 pint chicken stock, salt and pepper, and boil until done, or for about 1½ hours. Add 1 pint of cream and the sauerkraut. Gently mix all together and serve in a deep dish.

SPARTNELS—Two cups flour, 5 fresh eggs, ½ pint milk, pepper, salt, nutmeg.

Mix well to a thick batter and work it through a sieve or colander—with holes about ¼ inch—into boiling salted water. Boil about 10 minutes; strain; cool with cold water. Sauté in brown butter.

CHICKEN SALAD—One chicken, sliced in cubes of similar shapes (the canned chicken does beautifully in this salad for I've tried it); 1 pint asparagus

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the grading to a width of 50 feet, paving and curbing of Black Street, from North Euclid Avenue to North Beatty Street, including, as may be necessary, the grading of approaches on streets affected thereby and sinking of exploratory test holes; letting a contract or contracts therefor, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby, and providing further, for the payment of the City's share thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That Black street, from North Euclid avenue to North Beatty street, be graded to a width of 50 feet, paved and curbed, and that as may be necessary, approaches be graded on streets affected thereby and exploratory test holes be sunk.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the Ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading, paving and curbing of said street between said points, including, as may be necessary, the grading of said approaches and sinking of exploratory test holes; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said Acts of Assembly and Ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of $10,500.00, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the City's share thereof shall be chargeable to and payable from Bond Fund No. 293, Street Bonds, 1928.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Serious Girls Often Scare Boy Friends Away

She has told him that she "still cares for him—"

And "is willing to go out with him whenever he has the time to spare—"

Can you give her a tip about why he "changes the subject," and stays as far away from her as possible?

She just can't figure it out, herself. And she's looking for help.

"Dear Sally:

"I read your little items every day in the paper, and I am sure that you can help me, because you have helped so many people who had troubles. So here I am with my story.

"I am 19 years old and considered a nice looking girl. I am not saying that to be conceited, but just to give you something to go on. I have been going out until recently with a young man. We went together about five months. But now he seems to keep away from me, and I just can't figure it out. I know that I haven't done anything to hurt his feelings, and I haven't done anything wrong either.

Lies to Her

"I love him dearly and, whenever I happen to see him, he talks nicely to me even if he doesn't visit me any more. In fact, he has told men that he likes me a whole lot.

"When I don't see him for some time, he always asks me what I have been doing while he stayed away from me. Well, I tell him about the places I have been, and what I have done, and that I still care for him, and am willing to go out with him whenever he has the time to spare. But when I do that, he always changes the subject. He lies to me, too.

"When I ask him to a party, or to come over to the house, he always says he can't because he works for a dairy company and must start work at 12 o'clock midnight. And when I said, 'Ed, don't fib to me about it,' he said he wasn't—that he had just got the job lately. So I believed him, until I met the son of the proprietor of the milk company, who is a friend of his, and asked him if it was true that Ed worked for the company and he said no, that he worked for a printing concern.

Probably Scared Away

"And then he broke the whole story for me. He says that Ed is going steady with another girl, named Helen, now, and and that they seem to be happy together.

"I did see Ed with her myself, too, in his neighborhood, and also in my own. But I managed to keep out of their way so he doesn't know that I know he is going with her. But why doesn't he tell me about it? Is that a sign that he is still interested in me?

"He is 22 years old, and a very nice looking chap. Everybody likes him. I know that you will help me because I love him, and I am sure that your advice will put me on the right track. Why does he keep away like that? JUST ELEANOR."

Why does he keep away, Eleanor?

Well, of course, I don't know for sure. There are scores of reasons why Romeo may lose interest in Juliet. He may have met the other girl and liked her better. Or he may have just decided he'd like some fresh scenery. But I suspect he went . . . and is staying . . . because you scared him off by getting too serious and trying to do all the courting.

Men don't usually fall in a big way for gals who tumble right into their arms the first time they give 'em the glad eye, little sister, or gals who wear their hearts on their sleeves, the way you're wearing yours.

They fall for girls who thrill, stimulate and interest them—who keep them on their toes and make them work for a smile. And what possible thrill or interest could there be for Ed in a young woman who told him she "still cared for him" in spite of his lies and his neglect . . . or who informed him meekly that she was "willing to go out with him whenever he could spare the time?"

Needs New "Line"

Snap out of it, honey! Learn to put a little pep, independence and elusiveness into your "line." You'll never land Ed—or any other man—by your present one. Be friendly and gay and sympathetic, but a little hard to impress. Then, when you finally do tell your man that you love him, he'll feel big, clever and important . . . that he's put over a hard job . . . and he'll be proud of himself—and incidentally, of you!

It's quite likely too late to make an impression on Ed now—but if it is, don't go around glooming about it, my dear. Because, if you do, you'll be wasting your time and your chance for real happiness. Put on your prettiest smile and your sassiest dress and find some one else. You may not believe it now, but there is a great big, real love waiting for you somewhere just around the corner if you'll look for it . . . and play your cards right.

Prejudice in Marriage Mostly Just an Old Family Custom, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Some young persons have found it more advisable to elope before introducing their choice to the family.

This is because they have observed that in so many cases the family does not approve, no matter how worthy may be the object of their affections.

Families have a way of finding fault with that one who is about to snatch away one of the contributors to the family budget.

On the other hand, when the family finds that they have already married and there is really nothing to be done about it, they have more readily adjusted themselves to the new member of the family. The marriage has often turned out very happy and successful.

Prejudice is mostly just an old family custom.

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Prepares for a Secret Journey

I had no compunctions in telephoning Mrs. Cosgrove, at this hour, for she had told me one hour of the 24 meant no more to her than another.

"I am just as likely to be asleep at 2 in the afternoon as at 2 in the morning, and I am equally irregular about my waking hours," she had said. "The telephone is where Robert cannot possibly hear it, and Mr. Cosgrove is just sufficiently deaf to be undisturbed by it. And don't hesitate about waking me up. I have the happy faculty of going back to sleep again immediately when I have attended to whatever has wakened me."

She had thus urged me when we had agreed that any news of Robert Savarin was to be sent to me, not to Lillian. I had been tensely waiting for the end of Robert Savarin's life chapter, which it seemed must close at any moment, but no message had come, and I remembered with relief the nurse's dictum that if Lillian's visit didn't kill him, it probably would give him strength to live for several days, even weeks to come.

"Mrs. Graham!" Mrs. Cosgrove's voice came low and guarded, but distinct over the wire. "You must be psychic. I was going to call you in the morning. No," as I involuntarily caught my breath, "Robert is no worse. Instead, he is stronger than he has been for a long time. His physician says that while there is absolutely no hope of his getting well, he may be spared to us for weeks, perhaps a month or two. But that is not why I meant to telephone you. Do you remember of what we were talking just before you left?

"Perfectly," I answered with a vivid memory of my protest against the plan of dying Robert Savarin to leave me a sum of money in his will that I might keep it in trust for Lillian.

"Well! I've arranged things," she said competently. "Robert saw reason when I talked to him, and I had everything fixed up yesterday and the day before. I know how terribly busy you are, but if you could possibly come up just for a few hours, everything could be settled and Robert's mind would be at rest. If it weren't for that, you wouldn't need to come, but—"

"Of course I will come," I said. "Will tomorrow morning—or, rather, this morning, be all right?"

"Yes, indeed. Can you stay all night?"

"No, I must get back on the first train possible. I'm not driving this time."

"You must get the very first train then," she said. "There are only two a day up here."

"But there are plenty of West Shore trains to Kingston, and New York Central to Rhinecliff across the ferry," I told her. "I'm going to take the earliest West Shore train to Kingston and then the bus or a taxi up to your home."

"That is a good scheme, but I can better the bus idea. Mr. Train in Kingston likes nothing better than to make a trip up here. He's more reasonable than a taxi, a better driver, and will get you here much more quickly than the bus can. He can stay here for dinner, also, and drive you back again to Kingston in time for the afternoon train down."

I had vivid memories of Mr. Train's efficiency.

"Thank you, I should like that, only it is putting you to—"

"You haven't time for that at so many cents a minute," she told me practically. What time does your train reach Kingston?"

"Seven o'clock."

"Then you'll be eating breakfast with me at eight," she said hospitably. "Goodbye."

I caught my breath as if I had been running as I hung up the receiver. I had not realized how great had been my anxiety that Robert Savarin should will me that large sum of money, with in the inevitable publicity following such a bequest, until now that I was possessed of Mrs. Cosgrove's assurance that she had "arranged everything," I had had visions of Dicky's face when he should read of Robert Savarin's bequest to me, with the newspaper comment which always followed any activity of the famous artist. Now I need dread that particular thing no longer, but I could not help speculating upon the solution which Mrs. Cosgrove had found.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, April 18

The sidereal operations for this day indicate very important and lively transactions, especially in the direction of entirely fresh undertakings or new projects, but there is a sign of turmoil or strife, with much to disturb or annoy. This applies in personal as well as business contacts.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a very important year, with new projects and undertakings claiming decisive initiative. Employment also promises recognition of preferment, but all affairs have the menace of conflicting situations, with open hostility and much provocation to quarrels and tempest. With calm deliberation and firm self-control affairs may prosper.

A child born on this day should have splendid talents and initiative and should win position and favors, but it should be disciplined in self-control and amiability.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEEKMAN

Selecting the Matron Of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in June to a man who has an only unmarried sister, of whom he is exceedingly fond. I am an only child and wanted my school chum as maid of honor, or rather, matron of honor as she is now married. Should I have his sister instead? I've only just met her, but she will be at home for the wedding. Would it be enough to include her as a bridesmaid, or need she be included in the wedding party at all? E.

There isn't any reason, under the circumstances that you set forth, for you to have the sister of your fiance as your maid of honor, and I am sure that she will not expect to be asked to fill this important place.

Have your school friend, whom you have always planned to have as your attendant, as your matron of honor. Then it would be the expected gesture for you to invite your fiance's sister to be a bridesmaid. She would quite naturally expect this honor. It isn't absolutely necessary for you to extend this honor to her, but it would be best to do so if you can arrange it, and apparently you can.

The Gallant Youth Will Ask The Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Do you think it is correct for a boy to kiss you the first time you have been in his company, if he intends to go with you steadily?

2. Is it a girl's place to ask the boy to her home, or is it his place to ask if he may come?

ANXIOUS.

1. I'm as "anxious" as your nature that you do not be so [illegible] in self-respect. Aren't [illegible] ng a bit for granted . . . How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Milk Is Perfect Food for Baby

It has long been recognized that milk is an essential food for infants and growing children. Indeed, it is the most perfect food known. It is almost the only substitute for mother's milk.

Dr. Copeland

The amount of fat in cow's milk is about the same as that found in human milk. Cow's milk contains less sugar and has a harder curd. It is for this reason that in the feeding of infants water is added to thin the curd. Since the addition of water dilutes the fat, it is usually necessary to add top-milk or cream to enrich the mixture.

The baby requires more milk sugar than is found in cow's milk. The percentage of sugar is lessened, too, by this addition of water. For these reasons some kind of sugar must be added to the mixture.

These proportions, or "formulas," as they are called, vary at different ages and with different children. No one mixture will suit every child or every age.

One must never assume that a baby cannot take cow's milk. If the feedings do not agree with the infant, it is not because it is cow's milk, but because the proportions of the additions to the milk are wrong. It may be necessary to diminish the amount of fat, sugar or curd; or it may have to be increased. It may require more of one substance and less of another. This can be ascertained only by watching the progress of the child.

The baby should be weighed every week. If the baby is losing weight, or has stopped gaining, its weight should be taken every day.

In addition, voiding should be watched closely; the mother should be able to report it accurately to the doctor or public health nurse. These observations enable the adjustment of the formula, so that the child may derive proper nourishment from its feedings.

Milk is the most valuable food the infant can have. It is absolutely necessary that cleanliness be observed in the handling of milk. This is important for everybody, but of particular importance as regards the infant's supply of milk.

Milk must always be kept cold. Germs multiply by millions in warm milk. When serving, the milk may be warmed for a second or so. This removes the chill from the milk and makes it most tempting to the baby.

Fortunately, most communities are supplied with pasteurized milk. Unless it is known absolutely to be pure, no raw cow's milk should be given the infant. Contrary to a common belief, pasteurization does not reduce the nourishing value of milk. It does safeguard the infant in that it removes all possible contamination by germs.

Whatever properties are damaged by pasteurization may be restored by giving orange, tomato or prune juice.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1931 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain: relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

Here's the cream that brought new skin beauty to 4,000,000 women

BLEMISHES

Heals away skin blemishes in half the usual time.

COARSE PORES

Reduces large pores to an exquisite smallness.

SCALY SKIN

Ends flaking and peeling—makes skin satin-smooth.

Clears, softens, refines the skin OVERNIGHT

THE FAME of this cream has spread far and wide. Across the continent. Up and down the Atlantic coast. To practically every home in this city. You've heard about it. But you've been told it was "marvelously soothing for sunburn"—"wonderfully healing for chapped hands." Now listen. Over 4,000,000 women have found it just as soothing and just as healing for poor complexions.

Some of these women had badly blemished complexions. Some had only one or two skin faults—roughness, an occasional blemish. But in every case, the very first application of Noxzema Cream made the complexion decidedly smoother and clearer. And its regular use kept it youthfully fresh—exquisitely flawless—all the time.

If Noxzema has so wonderfully improved the complexions of 4,000,000 other women—surely it can make yours lovelier. Try it and see for yourself. Simply smooth it on at night. You feel its healing action start the second it touches your skin. Next morning you see the actual results—new beauty that charms and attracts.

Noxzema corrects three skin faults. Its bland oils soften rough, dry, scaly skin. Its mild astringents reduce enlarged pores. Its healing medication clears up unsightly blemishes. And its action—so wonderfully effective, is yet so gentle that Noxzema can be used every night.

tips, 1 pint mayonnaise, 1 cup celery in cubes, 1 cup cubed apples, 1 head lettuce, 1 hard boiled egg, a few olives and a red pepper.

Season chicken with a little salt, pepper and lemon juice, then add celery, apple and mix with half of the mayonnaise. Place on a bed of lettuce. Use rest of mayonnaise to cover the salad. Decorate with red pepper and olives. Cut eggs in four and place a leaf of lettuce, on which serve a few asparagus tips seasoned with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper.

BAKED RAREBIT—Sprinkle the bottom of a buttered baking dish with ½ cup stale bread crumbs. Cover with a layer of ¼ pound soft, mild cheese, and season with ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of paprika. Repeat the layers of bread crumbs, cheese and seasoning until you have four layers. Cover with ½ cup bread crumbs. Beat 3 eggs slightly, add 1½ cups milk and pour over the mixture. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve at once.

CHEESE AND ONION SANDWICHES—One cup cream cheese, 1¼ cup chopped Bermuda onion, lettuce leaves, 1¼ cup mayonnaise.

Mix the cheese with the onion. Use with mayonnaise and a crisp lettuce leaf between slices of buttered bread.

HAM LOAF — One pound smoked ham, 1 pound fresh, lean pork, 2 cups sweet milk, 10 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Grind ham and pork, to which add the remaining ingredients. Put in loaf pan, and bake slowly. Serve with horse-radish sauce made as follows: Whip ½ cup sweet cream and add 2 tablespoons prepared horse radish to which has been added a little salt.

DATE-PECAN PIE—One cup dates, ½ cup pecan meats, ⅔ cup sugar, 1 cup sweet milk, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Beat sugar with yolks, add dates and nuts (both cut fine), and cinnamon, then the beaten egg whites. Mix all together well and pour into unbaked crust. Bake in a slow oven until custard is firm. When cold, serve with whipped cream. These proportions are sufficient to make two pies.

COFFEE SOUFFLE—Mix 1½ cups coffee infusion with ½ cup milk, ½ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine and heat in a double boiler. Add to a second mixture containing ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and the yolks of 3 eggs, slightly beaten; cook together until the mixture coats the spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from the stove, add the whites of the 3 eggs, beaten stiff, and flavor with ½ teaspoon vanilla. Chill thoroughly in a mold. Serve with cream.

LAMB CHOPS WITH MUSHROOM STUFFING — Have the lamb chops cut almost two inches thick. Split the lean meat in half, cutting to the bone. Stuff with a mixture of ½ cup bread crumbs, ½ cup muhrooms cut in pieces, 3 tablespoons melted butter and salt and pepper. Press the openings together lightly and dip each chop in bread crumbs, beaten egg, and crumbs again. Bake 30 to 45 minutes in a hot oven, turning once during the cooking.

CREAMED EGGS AND CELERY—Cook 6 eggs hard. Remove shell and cut eggs in slices. Heat in 1½ cups medium white sauce. Add ½ cup celery cut fine. Heat and serve on toast which has been spread with anchovy butter.

DATE SCOTTIES — 1½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1¾ cups rolled oats, 1 cup (½ package) sliced dates, ½ cup chopped nuts, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk.

Sift flour, measure and sift with salt, baking powder and spices. Lightly mix in the rolled oats, sliced dates and chopped nuts. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then the beaten egg. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Drop with a teaspoon on well greased baking sheets. Bake in a 400-degree oven about 10 minutes.

JUST WRITE LIST OF 15 BEST BAB-O USES

The BAB-O $5,000 Cash Prize Contest is open to all. It is easy to win and everybody has an equal chance. Just write a list of 15 best BAB-O uses. Be sure to read carefully the "Suggested Uses" for BAB-O at the right of this column. Each paragraph in the "Suggested Uses" listed will be accepted as one use. You can substitute new uses if you desire, but send in only 15 uses.

Prizes will not be awarded on hand-writing or spelling. You can use pencil, pen or typewriter, but write on one side of paper only.

YOU CAN WIN

Time is no essence in this Contest. The last list sent in stands just as good a chance to win a prize as the first list. Artistic, fancy or uniquely arranged lists stand no better chance than your plain, simple list.

The Judges are impartial household economic authorities. No one connected with B. T. Babbitt, Inc., makers of BAB-O, or members of his or her family can enter this Contest.

The $5,000 Cash Prizes will be given to those who submit the list of 15 best uses for BAB-O in the opinion of the Judges, whose decision will be final.

To win a cash prize you do not have to be a user of BAB-O, the wonderful magic powder for enamel, porcelain, etc.

If two or more contestants tie for any prize, each of those tying will be given the full cash amount of that prize. The Contest will end June 15, 1931.

ENTER THE CONTEST NOW!

Be sure to write plainly your name, street address, city and state at the head of your list. We cannot undertake to return any entries or enter into correspondence concerning them.

Send your list of 15 best BAB-O uses without delay to: BAB-O Contest Dept. 95, 386—4th Ave., New York City.

By JAMES J. LONG

Tide Turns for Bucs. • Notre Dame Coaching.

GRANTHAM'S BRACE HELP TO PIRATES

GEORGE GRANTHAM surely went far toward making up for lost time in the batting department yesterday when he broke his early slump with a home run smash that turned threatened defeat into the Pirate's first victory of the season. He could not have picked a timelier spot for his initial hit of the campaign. It was only a question of time until Grantham would be heard from in some such fashion, for normally he is one of the greatest spring hitters in baseball and has always been the dread of pitchers opposing the Bucs in the early stages of a pennant race.

George Grantham

If yesterday's four-base wallop signaled the permanent passing of Grantham's slump it is going to mean a whole lot more to the Bucs than the winning of that one game, for the same formidable bat may be expected to increase the Rovers' chances for victory daily in the games to come. Ever since George became a Pirate in 1925 his spring hitting has been a big asset to the Pittsburgh club, and it's going to help a lot if he has found his stride.

GRANTHAM'S PUNCH IS needed all the more urgently this spring because of the failure of some of the other regulars to hit up to their customary marks. The Pirate attack is clearly off color when the figures show a combined total of only four hits in three games by such usually dependable stickers as Grantham, Pie Traynor and Paul Waner.

Like Grantham, Traynor did not make his first hit of the year until yesterday, and the elder Waner has made only two. Comorosky also has batted safely but twice, and Hemsley only once. Even in winning the third game of the string, the Bucs hit only .200 and the club average up to date is only .181. Gus Suhr leads the crew with an average of .400, followed by Lloyd Waner with .300.

AT THAT THE Buccaneers fared better than Brooklyn's pennant aspirants in the first three games, and as well as the A's or the Tigers in the American League.

The big league start has been a notable one in the respect that not a game out of the 24 scheduled was postponed during the first three days. That spells unusually favorable weather. It has been a long time since both leagues got past the second or third day of a season without a postponement. The American League takes a day off today and only two games are carded in the National.

THOSE ROBINS ARE apt to become dizzy looking at enemy left-handers this year. The Braves used Tom Zachary and Bill Sherdel against them in the first game and Eddie Brandt yesterday, and other clubs will have southpaw flingers primed for them as the season goes along. As Joe McCarthy says, "When the Brooklyns are hitting they'll hit anybody, but a manager would be a sucker not to send a left-hander against a batting order of that kind if he had a southpaw ready. It's just percentage."

Danny Taylor

WHEN SPRING TRAINING was just getting under way and the Cubs had a flock of outfielders in camp, it was rumored that Danny Taylor, West Newton citizen, who broke into yesterday's game at Chicago as a pinch runner, might find it a difficult matter to hang on to his job. Danny has survived the spring test, however, while Clifton Heathcote and other extra gardeners have been dropped.

Manager Hornsby wants it understood that he rates Taylor among his most valuable reserves and that Danny is going to stay on the Chicago club. "That boy is looking great this year and I'll not be surprised if he breaks up a lot of games for us during the season," Rogers says. "What I like about him is that he's hustling all the time, and he has lots of ability besides."

ED THORP, football official, connected with a sporting goods company, says his firm made tests with a baseball 10 years old, taken from a trophy case, and a modern pellet, and found that they were just the same as far as liveliness was concerned. A machine was used that struck the two baseballs with equal force.

In a test of footballs with the same machine it was found that an unlined football would travel from five to six yards farther than one that was lined.

WLADEK ZBYSZKO, veteran wrestler, flew from New York to Pittsburgh to take part in the mat show at Motor Square Garden on Wednesday night, but the experience of Cammy Griffith, Richmond (Va.) boxer, in a similar stunt is not likely to make the flying practice popular among athletes. Because his girl friend was unable to get away in time to make the trip from Richmond by boat or rail when Griffith was scheduled to box eight rounds with Speedy Meyers, of Baltimore, at Salisbury, Md., Cammy hired an airplane for himself and the young woman. When he was paid off after fighting an eight-round draw with Meyers he discovered that the airplane trip had cost him just $20 more than he received for his bout.

NEITHER NOTRE DAME nor Purdue has confirmed the rumor that the latter would release Frank Carideo from his contract as assistant football coach in order that he might return to South Bend next fall and aid Hunk Anderson and Jack Chevigny in coaching the Irish. Those two coaches were given a boost in Los Angeles the other day by Tom Lieb, who acted for Knute Rockne when the latter was ill in 1929.

"I thought you would be named to succeed Rockne," said Elmer Henderson, former Southern California coach, to Lieb. "I didn't," replied Lieb. "I'm tied up to a contract at Loyola, and the selection of Anderson and Chevigny to carry on for Rock was the only natural one. Those boys did good work for Rock last fall, and there isn't a smarter backfield coach in the country than Chevigny. But what a suicide schedule they are up against next season. Even Rockne—and I find it hard to believe he is gone—would have had hard sledding."

IT COST HIM the first of the three games lost in Boston to find it out, but Wilbert Robinson is now about convinced that the ancient Jack Quinn will be able to help the Robins only in the role for which he was first signed, that of a relief pitcher.

Pitching to the first 12 Boston batters on the opening day, Quinn allowed only one hit and did not give a walk. But before he could retire the next seven batters he had turned a four-run lead into a two-run deficit. He will hardly do any more starting for some time.

Primo Carnera

SEEMINGLY, THE STANDING of a fighter in New York all depends on how badly he is needed for a big show there. Max Schmeling's first suspension was lifted as soon as a profitable title match between him and Jack Sharkey was found possible. Primo Carnera had been under the ban for a long time on account of one of the suspicious affairs in which he was involved in California, but he was reinstated and whitewashed yesterday because a chance had developed to use him in a match with Sharkey in Brooklyn on June 10 to rival the Schmeling-Stribling card booked for July 3 or 4 in Cleveland. A suspension in New York lasts only as long as they can't use the fighter to advantage. It would be bad enough to approve such a dollar-grabbing circus affair as the one-sided Sharkey-Carnera match, even if both men were already in good standing, to say nothing of resorting to suspension-lifting to make it possible.

PITT NAMES CAPTAINS AT DINNER

By JESS CARVER

The long-awaited triangular basketball series between Pitt, Tech and the Dukes is in the bag. Next year each of the three local institutions of learning will shoot their court varsities against one another, thus making it possible to declare one of the three honest-to-goodness city champion.

E. Utterback

All this became assured last night as Athletic Director W. Don Harrison gave out a tentative schedule for the Pitt cage team, which will be the most intensive and difficult ever undertaken by an American college or university squad. The Dukes are listed for a game at the Pitt Stadium January 13, after the Panthers return from their cross-continent swing, which will carry the Golden Cats from here to the Pacific.

Carnegie Tech and the Dukes announced a home-and-home series for next year some weeks past.

UTTERBACK HONORED

Harrison's announcement came as the feature of the annual sports dinner tendered by the athletic council to the varsity and freshmen basketballers, tennis players, boxers, swimmers, cross-country hikers, golfers, marksmen and trackmen at Webster Hall. At the affair, letters and numerals were awarded and captains for coming campaigns named.

Among those honored with varsity captaincies were Everett Utterback, Negro track star, who will lead the Pitt track and field squad this spring. Utterback is the national intercollegiate indoor broad jump champion and record holder, and becomes the first Negro athlete to captain a Pitt team.

Tim Lawry and Willie Kowallis were named co-captains of Dr. H. C. Carlson's basketball squad for 1931-32. Eddie Jacobs, the southpaw netter, who ranks No. 10 nationally, was named captain of the net squad and George Schmeiler and Jim Patton co-captains of the swimming team.

SCHEDULE TOUGH

The basketball schedule, as it stands now, subject to a correction or two and a bit of date shifting, follows:

BELIEVE IT OR NOT (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By RIPLEY

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: FRED METCALF HAS TRAVELED MORE THAN 1,800,000 MILES—Starting his railroad career as a fireman on an early-day, balloon-stack, wood-burning locomotive, Fred Metcalf, 70, completed 52 years 4 months of continuous service in a locomotive cab on the Northern Pacific Railway, October 1, 1930, at which time he was retired under the pension rules. Since 1887, he has lived at East Grand Forks, Minn., and his regular run was between East Grand Forks and Pembina, N. D., and Winnipeg, Manitoba. His record of 1,800,000 miles of travel in an engine cab is verified by the Northern Pacific, St. Paul. THE SECRETARY-BIRD—The secretary-bird, a very singular African bird, was first made accurately known to the world in 1769 in a treatise by A. Vosmaer, who had been told that at the Cape of Good Hope this bird was known as the "Sagittarius," or Archer, from its striding gait, resembling a bowman advancing to shoot, but this name has been corrupted into that of "Secretarius." Earlier writers mentioned the bird under its local name of "Snake-eater." It seems to possess a strange partiality for the destruction of snakes, and successfully attacks the most venomous species. As a foe to reptiles, it is held in high esteem. (Reference: Encyclopedia Britannica.) GEORGE KERNEN REDUCED 146 POUNDS IN 10 MONTHS—Kernen, who lives at 7804 Elm avenue, Hyndwood, Pa., likes to keep his weight down to about 200 pounds, but on May 15, 1929, found he weighed an even 346 pounds. From that day until March 15, 1930, he reduced to 200 pounds—146 pounds in 10 months. He finds it necessary to watch his weight very closely, as in one week, December, 1930, he gained 12 pounds.

BOWLERS SET NEW MARKS

New leaders were established in the singles, doubles and five-men events as the first annual duckpin tournament of the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association completed its fourth day of bowling on the Haus Alleys, North Side, yesterday. Today, a full schedule is on tap, with pin scattering booked from 11:45 a. m. to 3:45 a. m. tomorrow.

Yesterday, in the singles, G. Marsden took the lead with a score of 604, the count being one pin better than the previous high set Wednesday by Ollie Hughes. In the doubles, McClesky and Burkett rode into first place with 1081. Trazza and Meir tied for second place at 1061, with the previous high duo, J. Pucalik and Hutuett.

The Mier squad, of Monessen, with a 2476, set a high mark for five-men teams.

Sport Vignettes

Photo inserted herewith depicts Max Schmeling, the heavyweight champion, registering "surprise" when officially informed at a conference in South Bend, Ind., that it is indeed true, as the papers have had it for several weeks, that his "title" fight with Young Stribling will be held in Cleveland on Friday, July 3 . . . . It was quite a shock to Maxie, but late reports are that he stood up well under the strain . . . . "Spanish King Resigns," screams a headline . . . . Take out the first "s" in the last word, and what have you? . . . In other words, with the baseball season getting under way, the Spaniards have asked waivers on their chief . . . . And this is peanut vendors' time at the baseball parks . . . . Buzz Arlett, the new outfield slugger of the Phillies, looks like Hack Wilson in build, only more so, and the sports photographers are taking group pictures of him. . . . He's quite an eyeful.

Max Schmeling

There was a suspicion that Helene Madison would break a record or two in the women's national swimming championships that got under way in New York yesterday, to be continued through Sunday . . . . And there is a chance that Jack Dempsey will referee the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling bout to give the customers an excuse for attending . . . . Al Mamaux, former Dormont Sheik, who first blossomed as a pitcher with the Pirates, hopes to land his Newark Bears up near the top in the International League pennant race . . . . This is his second season as pilot, and he finished in fifth place last year, with Rochester winning the pennant and Baltimore finishing second, Montreal third and Toronto fourth.

Now that right has triumphed and the welterweight crown is back on the kinky head of Young Jack Thompson, by reason of the fact that Tommy Freeman quit in his corner at the end of the eleventh round of his third meeting with the Negro star, in Cleveland, Tuesday night, it might be a good thing for the National Boxing Association and the various state boxing commissions to lay down the law and order the dissolution of the so-called welterweight championship trust . . . . Thompson, Freeman, Jackie Fields and Pete Suskey belong to a group of managers who have been passing the title back and forth and keeping it in the family, while Young Corbett and Jimmy McLarnin, two deserving "outsiders," have been given plenty of air and exercise in the form of the old run-around.

The winner of the annual full-distance marathon race in Boston next Monday will receive a laurel wreath from Athens and a medal commemorating the origin of the marathon race . . . . The wreath and medal will be an annual award hereafter, and the medal will bear the cry of Pheidippides, "Nenikhkamen" (We Are Victorious), as he bore the news of

WOMEN SWIM STARS VICTORS

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP.)—Helene Madison, Seattle's aquatic marvel, was not quite up to record-cracking form last night in the opening events of the women's national A. A. U. swimming championships, but she managed to win her chosen event with ease, nevertheless.

The tall young leader of the Washington Athletic Club team defeated a crack field in the 100-yard free style race with yards to spare over her closest rival, Josephine McKim, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Never extended, the 17-year-old coast star sped the century in the fast time of 1:03.2.

Led by Eleanor Holm, the Women's Swimming Association, of New York, took a monopoly on the 300-yard medley event, winning the first three places. Miss Holm, who has held the medley title for the last four years, finished far ahead of the field in 4:22.1, considerably over her record of 4:16 for the event. She took a lead in the breast stroke, increased it in the backstroke, and was a pool length ahead of her nearest pursuer, Constance Hanf, when she took to free style. Miss Hanf, also of New York, took second place, and Lisa Lindstrom, of New York was third.

CHICAGO, April 17.—A breathless throw by P. Waner, a dramatic homer by Boots Grantham and some Walter Johnson sharpshooting on the part of Glen Spencer were the baseball ingredients which today had transformed the tone of the Pirates from a point below zero to the blood-heat degrees at the top of the thermometer.

The combinations of the three scintillating events took the Pirates out of the valley of defeat yesterday, combining to give the Buccos their first victory of the season. Just when it seemed the Freebooters were due for a third straight reverse at the hands of the Bruins, the Pittsburghers rose to achieve a 4-to-3 triumph, so everything is different this morning.

WOOD TO HURL

The series will come to a close this afternoon. Manager Ens has just about decided to send his kid southpaw, Charley Wood, to the mound. Ens also considers Andy Bednar, but the strikeout lefthander has the inside track. Manager Hornsby has selected Ed Baecht, one of his best recruits, for the slab task.

The Buccos will move to Cincinnati tonight.

The Pirates may go along all year and not see any bigger thrills than these packed into the late rounds of yesterday's contest. Just move into the ninth please and get a slant on the picture. Manager Hornsby was due to lead off in the round and his favorite ball club had to have a run to stay in the ball game.

Hornsby elected to play a waiting game and drew a free trip. Thus was the tieing tally on the runways. Wilson came up with blood in his eye. Spencer made Wilson hit in self-defense and Hack all but socked a grounder into a double play. Wilson just beat the first-base end of the argument.

PLAY BACK-FIRES

The smart Hornsby called time to play a percentage bet. He called for Dan Taylor, of Lash and West Newton, a sturdy boy who can run like a scared jackrabbit.

If Hack had been left on first

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—I see Burleigh Grimes is pitching shutout ball already. It goes to prove spit on the end of a cigar may be dangerous, but on the tip of Burleigh's finger it's just what the doctor ordered. The Phillies management doesn't know whether to be glad or sore the way Chuck Klein is hitting homers. The club no sooner agrees to pay Chuck a nice salary when he starts slamming $1.50 balls over the fence. He should use a little economical discretion and just thump out three-baggers.

Nick Altrock

Brooklyn certainly got a swell start. This year's brood of Robins are playing like they were hatched with salt on their tails.

DAVIES PILOT AT BEECHVIEW

BIG SCHEDULE PLANNED FOR SOUTH HILLS

By TOM BIRKS

Beechview again is to be represented in local baseball circles. The Beechview Baseball Association has been organized with the following officers seated: President, James Harkins; vice president, C. W. Ladlay; treasurer, John A. Johns; secretary and manager, David J. Davies.

For years Beechview, as represented by the Broadway Club, was prominently identified with local amateur baseball, but for the past three years has had no team. Now, however, a strong outfit is in prospect and games will be arranged with the strongest teams in this vicinity. Already arrangements are under way for a meeting with the Homestead Grays, the date to be announced later.

PLAY TWICE A WEEK

Games will be played Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Joe Cagni, Jim Huddard and other South Hills stars will be seen in the lineup. Games are desired with teams in amateur circles. Opportunity will be offered several good players to try for the team. Information can be obtained by communicating with Manager Davies, 2335 Candace street, or call Lehigh 9560-J.

The newest entrant into the Commercial and Industrial League, the Pittsburgh Coal Company team, expects to give the other outfits quite a chase for title honors.

The Coal aggregation will play its home games at Library and Business Manager Munson expects to build up quite a big independent schedule.

HURLERS CAPABLE

Pang Hale and Brandis are two capable pitchers who will make the hurling department rank on a par with any in the district. And to back up the pitching, a number of sluggers, including Hodgson, Jones, Blackmore, McClymont, Mathias and McClure have been signed.

Kayoes Feature Y. M. H. A. Bouts

A quartet of technical knockouts featured the amateur boxing show staged in the Y. M. H. A. last night. There were eight bouts on the card. The summary:

112-pound class—Pete Fisher, Y. M. H. A., won by a technical knockout over Stan Kelly, Boys' Club, first round.

118-pound class—Miles Beaux, Willow Club, won by a technical knockout over Joe Kravitz, second round.

126-pound class—George Martzo, Willow Club, defeated Jim Dawson, Boys' Club, 4 rounds.

147-pound class—Walter Zack, Y. M. H. A., defeated Mike Foley, Boys' Club, 3 rounds.

160-pound class — Dave Mullins, Willow Club, defeated Jack Snyder, Y. M. H. A., 4 rounds; Moon Higgins, Boys' Club, won by a technical knockout over Walter Geis, Y. M. H. A., second round.

1930 Game With Tech Puts End to Rockne's Fear of Loss of Grip

ROCKNE'S LIFE STORY—SIXTEENTH INSTALMENT

By WARREN BROWN

(Copyright, 1931, Chicago Herald and Examiner. Distributed by Universal Service.)

The offensive system that Rockne had devised, and which his illness of 1929 prevented him from putting into operation in its entirety, was launched from the outset of the 1930 season.

This team, led by Capt. Tom Conley, was Rockne's greatest, which is, I suppose, as it should be, since it was his last.

Marchmont Schwartz

It featured perfect co-ordination between the backs and the line, each man doing what was cut out for him, and in the 1930 exposition of Rockne's football, plenty was cut out for each component part of the smoothest working football team of all time.

That Rockne appreciated the football ability of his boys is obvious. What he liked best, I think, was their spirit. Often he spoke of the friendships that existed between these boys. There were no factions—and there had been on some of his other teams, one of which won a national championship.

He had material, in 1930, but much of it was material that had been molded in his own hands, and might have been ordinary, elsewhere. Whether some of its individuals became great, because of their own efforts, or because of the complete co-operation of their teammates, is a question open for lengthy discussion.

The fact remains, that this Notre Dame team seemed able, time after time, to make any one of its individuals an outstanding star. I am thinking now of the return of Marty Brill to his old home town, Philadelphia, for the game with Penn.

SCHWARTZ MODEST

Marchmont Schwartz, the left half, could do most anything with a football. He was undoubtedly the best all-round player in the backfield that went beyond the limits reached by the famous "Four Horsemen." And when it came time to select his all-America team, Rockne left Schwartz off, though nearly everyone else selected him.

"I'd have gone no place, without Carideo and Brill, and none of us would have gone any place without the line," said Schwartz, "so Rock was right."

Bert Metzger, the smallest guard ever to attain national fame, smaller than Wiebel and Kizer of the great 1924 team, was called on for a speech at the Monogram dinner.

"A lot of people have said that I was a good guard," he said. "What they meant was that I looked good. Who wouldn't, if they had fellows beside them, and Brill coming up ahead of them, to make them look good? I wasn't good. I was just lucky in being on a team like this."

This team then, assembled for a season, should have brought nothing, from the start, but satisfaction to the coach.

Nevertheless, on the night before the Carnegie Tech game, Rockne sat with me for hours, worrying.

He felt that he had lost his grip, that the things he was trying to put across, were missing their objective.

Rockne, up until the time of his leg ailment, had been a coach who not only told his men what to do, but went out on the field and demonstrated. He didn't tell how to block, he blocked.

FEARS DISPELLED

His trouble, whose effects lingered on, kept him from this close contact with his players, in 1930. He did most of his coaching from a sort of turret that had been constructed on the practice field.

"They've been out now, for four weeks," he said, "and they're doing things that they shouldn't be doing. They're commiting faults that should have been cleared up long ago.

"I'm just not getting across with them.

"They are not fooling me. I know how they feel. They are sorry for me. They're trying to make it easy for me, and they are failing in the things that are essential."

I tried to reason with him that there were other successful coaches abroad who had long since abandoned the bodily contact method of coaching. Jess Harper, Rockne's old coach, argued with him. Jess, I think, went beyond that and spoke to some of the members of the team, though, if he did, it marked the first and last time that he had ever interfered with the Notre Dame program from the time that he turned it over to Rockne.

Right up to the game, Rockne was worried about its outcome.

He felt that his whole coaching future depended on it. Perhaps he said as much to his boys.

The fact remains that they were at their best on that afternoon against Carnegie Tech, winning, 21 to 6.

Rockne never again referred to the possible loss of his grip. Later on he mentioned the Pennsylvania game as the one in which his team reached perfection. Indeed, its execution of plays on that day was a masterpiece, and the 60 points it scored represented the highest total ever amassed by a Rockne team against major competition.

It was in this season that Rockne abandoned at times his practice of starting the "shock troops," or the second team.

In many of the games his regulars took the field at the start of the game, and in the Southern California and Northwestern games they remained in it almost continuously.

CONSERVES ENERGY

At Southern California, the workings of the Rockne football mind were displayed in another direction.

His 1924 team, which had gone to the coast to play Stanford, fought it out with the Cardinals, and won, though at the point of exhaustion. Year by year, as his teams went to the coast, Rockne learned more about conserving the strength of his players.

In the last game, played under that well advertised Los Angeles sun, Rockne started his regulars, and aimed to keep them in until the game was decided.

Against Southern California, the close followers of the Notre Dame team were amazed to see Rockne's men gather in a huddle, before putting the ball into play. But they soon noticed, too, that after the huddle, the team lined up, as in other games, and Carideo went through the calling of signals.

The huddle then was used not so much for conference purposes as for a time-killer. And the moments that were used up that day were many. Rockne accomplished his main object, the conservation of the strength and energy of his team, and down to the last minute of a game that had less plays than ordinarily crop up in three-fourths of a football game, Notre Dame men were going places and doing things to the Trojans.

Rockne always maintained that the name "shock troops" was a misnomer. And it probably was, since I gave it to them.

"I don't start that gang to wear down the opposition," he said. "I start them so that my regulars, and particularly my quarterback, can have a chance to study the formations of the opponents, and spot their strengths, and especially their weaknesses.

"We find this knowledge very helpful."

he would not have attempted a dash to third on Riggs Stephenson's single to right. But Dashing Dan was away like a Panther and it looked like curtains for the Buccos as the speeder whirled around second. But Paul Waner's left arm is stronger and more accurate than it has been for a long time.

Brother Paul came up cleanly with the ball and then he proceeded to bounce a perfect shot straight into the hands of Traynor. Taylor hit Pie like Savoldi cracking the line, but Dan was out, and instead of runners being on third and first with one out there was but a runner on first and two out.

The other member of the Waner family had a silent part in the drama of the eighth round. Lloyd coaxed a pass out of Sheriff Fred Blake to start the eighth.

BOOTS SOCKS HOMER

Up came Grantham, who had yet to make his first hit of the season. The first pitch was a ball and Grantham got set for the next one; he knew it would be somewhere near the plate and he rather expected a hook. Up came the hook and George timed the curve nicely. The ball took a nice ride into the bleachers.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

One of the best battles of the local indoor boxing season, ending in an official draw, is down for a repeat number at the Moose Temple, downtown, tonight. Pal Silvers, veteran middleweight, of New York, and Joe Walters, Negro, of Springfield, O., are the principals.

Pal Silvers

Silvers is a master of ringcraft, tall, rangy and a fine defensive boxer. Walters is a young, hard-punching sensation who has captured the fancy of the Moose fans. He broke in there with two speedy knockout victories and followed them up by really outpunching Silvers in their first clash, a month ago, although all he got for his efforts was a draw. The rematch ought to jam the small arena again.

Two brothers, the Bazzones, of McKeesport, are in the preliminaries, Joey meeting Jack Thompson, of Warren, O., in the second bout, and Tony opposing Carl Montebano, Braddock middleweight, in the opener. Montebano stopped Carl Cesko in the same ring last Friday night. Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, and Lee Peer, former marine, are booked for the six-round semi-final.

Between Rounds

Pete Suskey, of Scranton, and Bucky Lawless, of Syracuse, who meet in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden Monday night, will arrive in town Sunday morning to finish their training on the scene of battle.

Four of the 12 bouts that will make up the amateur card for the benefit of the Fourth Ward Relief Fund, in the Motor Square Garden ring, April 28, have been arranged, as follows: Frank Schrider vs. Bob Lann, Moon Higgins vs. George Luppanacci, Pat Leavy vs. Frank Harp, and Johnny Ungerman vs. Leo Leon.

The amateur bouts at the Keystone A. C. tomorrow night, the final show of the season at the downtown club, will be between teams representing the Al Sands A. C., of Uniontown, and the Schwartz A. C., of McKeesport. Women will be admitted free to the event.

Johnny Datto, Filipino featherweight, barred here for his poor bout against Jackie Rodgers in their third meeting recently, has been matched to box Bushy Grahams in the main bout of a show in Grays' Armory, Cleveland, next Wednesday night.

There is a possibility that Max Schmeling may pitch his training camp for his fight with Young Stribling at Conneaut Lake, Pa., which would give the Pittsburgh fans plenty of opportunity to see him work out. A conference is slated on the matter Monday.

NUSS GIRLS WIN

The Nuss Ladies bowling team of Homestead, defeated the Penn Recreation girls in a bowling match by a score of 1,832 to 1,761. The scores:

Veil, Former Pirate, Dies in Altoona

ALTOONA, April 17.—Frederick W. (Bucky) Veil, 49, who pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates back in 1903, died here yesterday. He was stricken Wednesday with an attack of indigestion.

Veil pitched against the Boston Red Sox in the world series of 1903, but during the following winter suffered an arm injury and was dropped from the Pirate list. Later he played for Altoona in the Williamsport Tri-State League.

Veil is survived by his widow and six children. He had been justice of peace at Cresson since 1915.

FIFTH AVENUE NINE QUITS

Difficulties encountered in obtaining the Soho Playgrounds for practice sessions has forced Fifth Avenue High to withdraw from the Section I baseball race, it was announced today. This action leaves the section with only five teams.

The W. P. I. A. L. baseball campaign will get under way this afternoon with a brace of games listed in Section I and the City senior and junior leagues will continue the tussling which started Tuesday.

In the City League, senior division, in Section I, Connelley takes on Allerdice and Peabody meets Westinghouse. In Section II, Langley meets Carrick, Oliver plays Vocational and Allegheny engages South Hills.

In the junior division, in Section I, Gladstone tackles Baxter and Washington Trade meets Herron Hill. In Section II, Fifth Avenue plays Latimer.

The W. P. I. A. L. engagements feature Dormont and Carnegie at Carnegie and Mt. Lebanon and McKees Rocks at the Rox.

YAROSZ VICTOR OVER RANDALL

Old Man Science received little recognition from either Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, or Tiger Joe Randall, Negro fighter, of Elizabeth, last night in the main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport. For 10 rounds the slugging welterweights went to their tasks with plenty of determination, and while Yarosz was an easy winner at the conclusion of the bout, Randall kept him hustling until the final bell.

Yarosz grabbed off every round with the possible exception of the fourth, in which Randall landed several clean blows. In every other session, Yarosz was master of the situation.

In another slugging bee, Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport, easily won from Lloyd Clements, knockout artist of Swissvale, carrying every one of the six rounds with the exception of the final stanza, which was even. McArthur was the most aggressive and landed the cleaner blows.

Angel Vergione, of Swissvale, bested Jimmy Reilly, of McKeesport, in the second bout of six rounds. Vergione weighed 131½, while Reilly scaled an even 134.

Joey Angelo, of Braddock, received the decision of Referee Red Robinson over Kid Blues, Negro fighter of McKeesport, in the opener, after the judges, Jock Simco and Freddie Lux, had disagreed. Simco, along with Robinson, cast his ballot for Angelo. Blues weighed 134, with Angelo three pounds heavier.

ARMY BOXERS HERE

Harrison also announced that the West Point Cadet boxing team, which is permitted one trip away from the Point a year, has been booked to meet Pitt's ring squad here. The date has not been set, but it was suggested, sotto voce, by some facetious gent that the match be the last of the season, else the Panther scrappers might find it impossible to take on any other foes.

EDGEWOOD GREENS USED

All regular greens will be in use at the Edgewood Country Club tomorrow, it was announced today.

VOTEL LEADERS CHANGED

New leaders appeared today in both the singles and doubles of the annual Votel Brothers' tenpin tournament in East Pittsburgh. Bill Swartz, of Greensburg, swept into first place in the singles with 659, while Kalman and Sonny Just, of East Pittsburgh, paced the doubles field with 1,261. The scores:

Singles—Swartz, 659; Defino, 641; Clavan, 632; Bennett, 624; Schmidt, 618; Marrone, 617; Adolphson, 610; Haverstick, 609; Paulus, 603; Nolte, 600.

Doubles—Kalman and Just, 1261; Albert and Perry, 1200; Bennett and Land, 1198; Grossman and Henry, 1196; Myers and Frank, 1188; Garber and Carroll, 1161; Torrevson and Eulert, 1153; McWilliams and Adolphson, 1151; Parlock and L. A. Muck, 1148; Lehner and Schmidt, 1146.

Alex Fox Offered Grid Job at Penn

Alec Fox, former captain of the University of Pittsburgh football team and now coach at Martins Ferry High School, may accept an invitation to be assistant coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

If Fox accepts he will join another former Panther, Harvey Harman having been appointed head coach. Fox was a guard on the 1928 Pitt team. He came to Pitt from New Castle.

RICH AXMINSTER RUGS

In 9x12 or 8.3x10.6 Sizes

What values! These are not close-out rugs, not drop patterns—not auction rugs, but are new 1931 spring designs, direct from one of the best American mills. Soft, thick, close-woven pile of lovely silky sheen. All are 9x12 or 8.3x10.6 feet; and sacrificed just for one day.

$2 Monthly

Extra Special

Rich, Silk Sheen Domestic Orientals $59

Copies of finest Persian, Kermanshah rugs of priceless beauty; what luxurious colors. But the low price is the greatest surprise.

Here Are 9 Reasons Why "FLEXSTEEL" is Better

1. No webbing to stretch, no cords to break.
2. "Flexsteel" springs rest ON TOP of the frame, on cloth webbing.
3. Open to circulation of air. NO space for moths, dust to collect.
4. No coil springs tied with rope. "Flexsteel" is practically unbreakable.
5. Noiseless because of riveted joints — a single compact spring unit.
6. Will never cause lumpiness. Flat spring surfaces protect upholstering.
7. "Flexsteel" will probably outlast the upholstering and frame itself.
8. Made of highest grade spring steel — elastic limits about 212,000 pounds per square inch.
9. Nothing to wear out or break, thus guaranteeing permanent satisfaction.

Drop-Side Cribs $8.75

SAY... GOOD-BYE!

Quitting The Furniture Business Forever! .....

Ask your neighbor! Talk to anybody who has attended this great sale! They will tell you that in the 59 years Pickering's store has stood at the corner of 10th and Penn, there has never been a sale like this tremendous close-out. No wonder people are coming 100 miles and more to buy at the sale prices! Don't wait! Hurry! When our present stock is turned into cash, the sale will be over. Nothing is reserved! Deeper price-cuts than ever, Saturday—a "good-bye" that Pittsburgh will remember forever.

Our delivery trucks are flying everywhere. But may we ask your indulgence if the bargains you purchased have not yet been delivered.

We have done what ordinarily would be a four or five weeks' business in the first three days of this "Going-Out-Of-Business" Sale. Consequently, our delivery service is swamped. But we are working night and day to catch up and can promise prompt deliveries again.

Entire Remaining Stocks Go At Cost, Less Than Cost, or ½ Former Prices—For Cash

Please Be Patient—

If the doors are locked, please wait outside patiently, as we are only permitting a limited number of people in the store at one time, so that all may be efficiently served without confusion.

We ask your indulgence if we request you to leave by the rear door. Our front doors have been blocked by the tremendous crowds, only permitting entrance through the front doors. Thank You!

NEWS FROM STUDIOS AND GOTHAM'S GAY STREET; THEATER NOTES

Ina Claire, Once Labeled Temperamental, Busy Making Pictures

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.

Not a cloud mars the sky of Ina Claire's screen career. The star whom Hollywood once labeled as temperamental is working harmoniously on "Rebound;" has a five-year United Artists contract in the offing and yesterday signed to make one picture for R-K-O.

Even William Le Baron does not know what this will be, but he has the scenario department busy searching. The plan is for Ina to do the picture before she moves to United Artists.

Ina Claire

Her first vehicle there will be "The Greeks Had a Word for It," or "Three Blondes," as it will be known in the films.

Mrs. Lloyd Bacon is eyeing her director-husband with suspicion. The other day she threatened to have a chauffeur fired because he almost got her killed.

"Aw," said Lloyd, "give him another chance."

LATEST GOSSIP

It takes the combined efforts of everybody at the Fox Studio to persuade Will Rogers to kiss his leading woman . . . Columnist John P. Medbury has 14,000 gags filed away. When he hears a good one, he goes home and speaks it into the dictophone. A stenographer later copies it and adds it to the collection . . . When Mlle. Gabrielle Chanel went back to Paris, she carried two American mannequins to work in her fashion atelier . . . "Mickey Mouse," who long ago won the praise of Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, et al, will go to United Artists on the termination of Walt Disney's releasing contract with Columbia . . . Production on Spanish versions practically had to be suspended at the Fox Studio the day Alfonso abdicated. The excitable Latins just couldn't get their minds on their acting . . . Polly Moran has a new M. G. M. contract to console her for a broken nose and two black eyes . . . I have Vic McLaglen's word for it that he wins the girl for the first time in his new picture, "Two Can Play" . . . Lewis Stone also gets a break in "Always Goodbye."

FANS CRY FOR THEM

Now that Charles Farrell and Virginia Valli are due here on Saturday or Sunday, Fox is preparing to start the long postponed "Merely Mary Ann." While originally intended as a co-starring vehicle for Charlie and Janet Gaynor, this story later was switched to other partners. Exhibitors squawked, so Fox changed back again. Film audiences won't stand for Charlie and Janet being separated. "The Man Who Came Back," which came in for considerable panning by the critics, went out and cleaned up at the box office.

Charles Farrell

GOOD INDIAN

Conrad Nagel, the prize-winning dark horse of the early talkies, still runs a good race with the fans. He will support Ramon Novarro in "Son of the Rajah," which Ernest Vadja is writing for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. One of the most popular child actresses of a few years back plays opposite the Mexican star in this picture. She is Madge Evans, and she returns to the screen, via Broadway and George Kelly's satirical comedy, "Phillip Goes Forth."

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

Truism

There was a time when days were all too slow,
And I could scarcely wait for night to be;
It was a lovely miracle to know
That I would find you waiting just for me.
Small matter what we did—or where we went;
The town was like a gilded fairyland,
And ev'ry lover's nook and corner lent
Its wistful charm at our assured command.

Here is the Spring again—and here am I,
Dull-eyed and listless as the nights speed past.
If April lives anew, I wonder why
Our senseless quarrel cannot die at last;
I know for one that pride holds little charm
When lovers pass my windows, arm-in-arm!

—The Kazanova Kid.

Broadway Squelching

"Hello, you doublecrosser!"

"Gawan—you 20-to-1 shot!"

Observation

Mr. Bert Ennis, who paragraphs for a west coast magazine, tells his subscribers that Times Square's windiest spot is in front of the Paramount Theater.

Obviously, Mr. Ennis never listened to those actors who park all day in front of the Palace.

Merciless Truth

From an anonymous contributor comes the report that it happened at the wedding of Lee Elman, one of Variety's reporters.

Lee repeated after the judge:

"With all my worldly goods I thee endow."

And a flip quipper quipped:

"Gosh, there goes Lee's typewriter."

Columnistic Iconoclasm

"The columnists of the tabloids have made Broadway what it is today, a glamorous fiction of their own creation, but it has not helped the theater in the least, by all the signs of the times.

"This is because the columnists' Broadway is an utterly false, unreal world of their own creation, and not the true picture. In their 'Broadway' the real workers of the theatrical world, the men who have made it and who are carrying on show business are rated as of slight importance in news value, and the racketeer, the men and women of the night life, scandal, crime, and dirt are given the utmost prominence.

"How many respectable patrons of the legitimate theater, the people of means and position who support the legitimate theater, do you think read the stuff these bright and industrious young columnists write every day?

"Mighty few of them, if any. On the other hand the columnists are avidly read by every girl and boy who rides up and down from work in the subway. . ."

—From the N. Y. Review.

This is very amusing. The combined circulation of the New York tabs totals over two million. Considerably more than the combined circulation of the N. Y. Review and the Social Register.

Say! Since when are subway riders classed as "not respectable?"

By Way of Report

The dramatic critics were getting a dose of their own carbolic in the Astor Hotel Hunting Room. One of the producers maintained that critics should be college trained—pointing out some local critics who weren't.

Pish, tush. George Bernard Shaw and H. L. Mencken weren't collitch trained. And William Hazlitt, greatest of all literary and dramatic critics, left public school when he was 17.

Hazlitt's lectures and essays on Shakespeare, on the old English dramatists and their plays, are classics of English style studied in schools and universities by lovers of English beautiful and unafraid.

As dramatic critic of the London Times and other newspapers he set the standard of the art. Every scrap he wrote is dug out of those ancient files of the early Nineteenth Century and reprinted.

A new volume was recently on the presses. And this after 100 years or more!

Nifty

Percy Crosby, who made "Skippy" famous, spent a lot of coin some time ago for full-page newspaper advertisements in which he stated that Capone was overrated.

And a wit observes:

"Always Belittin'."

Deadly Testimony

Columnists who include Scottish jokes, puns, quips and gags in their pillars will tell you that for every Scottish seasoned paragraph published the next morning's mail will bring a score of letters from "indignant" and sensitive Scotsmen and women who argue that Scots are not as they are columned.

Newspapers, however, carried a "filler" dated April 9 from Glasgow. It read:

"The smallest school in the world, located in the Ayrshire district, and with only one pupil, has been closed for reasons of economy."

"Man of the World" brings William Powell in what will be one of the year's acting triumphs. From the outset, the picture catches and holds the attention, and it is so well acted and directed, that it becomes one of the rarest of miracles, a motion picture narrative that is different. And what a smart ending for one of Powell's smartest pictures.

MARY ASTOR, OLAND IN COMING PICTURES

"Behind Office Doors," heralded as a high powered romance of a secretary and her millionaire boss, comes to the Davis screen Saturday and to the Enright today. Mary Astor, Ricardo Cortez and Robert Ames head the cast.

Warner Oland plays the title role in "Charlie Chan Carries On," picture coming to the Warner Monday. It was adapted to the screen from Earl Derr Biggers' novel of the same name.

The Harris, beginning tomorrow, will offer Charlie Murray and George Sidney in their newest comedy, "Caught Cheating."

"Rhapsody In Black," which brings Ethel Waters to the Alvin stage next week as a star, is the blackberries—we hope—even though the star is a blues singer of the first water. Spirituals will be sung by Cecil Mack's choir. Seat salesmanship is now being demonstrated in the box office.

"What's Up," opening Monday night in the Nixon, will be the twenty-fourth annual production of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club. Its story is about an English lord who finances a Hollywood movie production. That ought to make it twice as good as if it were about a movie alone or a lord alone. But who ever saw a lord alone?

SAN FRANCISCO. —(AP.)—Resignation of Wade Killifer, veteran baseball player, as president and manager of the Mission Coast League baseball club, due to illness, was announced today by J. R. Bearwald, acting president. Bearwald has been elected president.

MONTEREY, Cal.—(AP.)—Suspension of Primo Carnera in California will stand, Bob Edgren of the California Athletic Commission declared, despite the giant Italian heavyweight's reinstatement by the New York Boxing Commission.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP.)—Notre Dame opened its baseball season yesterday with an 8-to-7 victory over Wisconsin, 1930 Big Ten champion. Lisicki, Notre Dame's pitching ace, was driven from action in the fourth inning, but Pall, who replaced him, held the Badgers scoreless the rest of the way.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Members of the Navy varsity crew are in New York today and tomorrow the Middies will open the collegiate rowing season in a brush with the Columbia oarsmen on the Harlem River.

HELENA, Mont.—(AP.)—William B. Jones, head freshman coach at the University of Notre Dame for the last two years, has been chosen head coach and physical director for Mt. St. Charles College here.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Clair F. (Biz) Bee, director of athletics at Rider College, Trenton, N. J., for several years, has been named to the same post at Long Island University by the committee on athletics.

MONTGOMERY, W. Va.—(AP.)—Russ Parsons, of Charleston, has been appointed assistant to Ken Shroyer, athletic coach at New River State. Parsons succeeds Bill Calvert, who recently resigned to take a coaching position at the Cabin Creek District High School.

Foch Marshals His Last Reserves to Halt Foe's Drive

pursuing his advance across country the enemy, on the twenty-ninth, resumed his attack even more violently than during the previous days. On that day, his center directed a powerful thrust toward Oulchy-le-Chateau, Fere-en-Tardenois, Ville-en-Tardenois.

Enemy Forges Ahead

Encountering nothing but feeble French units which had already suffered heavily and were powerless to check him, he advanced rapidly on a front of from 15 to 20 miles, and, in the evening, reached the heights commanding the northern bank of the Marne between Chateau-Thierry and Dormans.

Similarly, his right made a vigorous effort in the region of Soissons; but here he encountered a much more solid resistance. He succeeded, nevertheless, in forcing back the French to the west of Soissons and the high ground south of the town.

On their left, the German attacks were much less strongly organized. Profiting, however, by the advance effected in the direction of the Marne, they forced the Allied troops to retire towards the main highway from Rheims to Ville-en-Tardenois.

This ground was yielded along the whole of the line. The divisions sent by the 6th Army melted away as fast as they were flung into the battle, and this army, consequently, remained in such a disquieting state of inferiority that Gen. Petain began to wonder if he would succeed in achieving the results he aimed at, namely, to hold on to the Marne, the Montagne de Rheims and the high ground south of Soissons.

At mid-day on the 29th, in face of the ever-increasing development of the German offensive, he requested me to put the French 10th Army at his disposal and to arrange for the British and Belgians to relieve the army detachment of the north.

I was unable to comply entirely with this request. Notwithstanding the magnitude of the attack south of the Aisne, the enemy still had sufficient troops available (30 fresh divisions in reserve) for another offensive in the Somme area and in the north.

Draw on Reserves

Finally, I warned Sir Douglas Haig that the Tenth French Army might be called upon to leave the British zone. At the same time I notified him that, should the enemy bring all his available forces against the French front, I might have to call on the British general reserves which the Field-Marshal had just constituted.

Meanwhile, in order to provide the Northern Group of Armies with the necessary divisions, General Petain had been obliged to draw on the Group of Reserve Armies. In spite of the danger of such an expedient, he had ordered General Fayolle to place seven or eight divisions in reserve.

The latter could do this only by denuding his front and depriving himself of his own reserves; in a word, by weakening that particularly sensitive point, the junction between the British and French armies.

To remedy this source of weakness as far as possible, I confided to Field Marshal Haig the duty of supporting the right of the British 4th Army south of the Somme, and of ensuring its junction with the French 1st Army.

It can thus be seen how strained was the situation and how the lack of effectives, already described, was making itself cruelly felt.

On May 30, moreover, the German attacks continued with the same violence. Their main effort was still being aimed toward the center; on the one hand, in the direction of the Marne, which they reached along the whole of the front from Chateau-Thierry to Dormans; on the other, in the direction of the Ourcq and the forest of Villers-Cotterets, where the French 6th Army marked a serious retreat.

Petain Seeks Americans

Similarly, north of Soissons the Germans made progress, forcing the French back to the Nouvron plateau.

The enemy's field of action appeared to be limited for the moment to the ground between Dormans on the Marne and Noyon on the Oise. But on this front, more than 62 miles long, the battle raged furiously.

The German Supreme Command now put in its reserve... Six new divisions from the Crown Prince of Bavaria's group of armies were identified on the 30th, and our air force reported heavy German columns moving west in the general direction of Paris.

Therefore, it was in this direction that Gen. Petain after firmly organizing the defense of the southern bank of the Marne, decided to direct all his efforts. To further them, I ordered the French 10th Army with its four divisions to be moved at once from the British zone towards the Marne.

This move was rendered all the more imperative in view of the numerous and detailed reports which reached French General Headquarters, foreshadowing an extension of the German attack to the west of the Oise, from Noyon to Montdidier.

There remained no doubt that the Supreme Command intended to open up the road to Paris at all costs.

In fact, on May 31, there had been desperate fighting between the Marne and the Oise. The French troops still too few in numbers, retreated for a considerable distance in the Ourcq Valley, were driven back to the edge of the Villers-Cotterets Forest, while north of Soissons they were obliged to abandon the Nouvron plateau.

Gen. Petain now urgently requested that there be placed at his disposal some of the divisions belonging to the Army Detachment of the North, and some of the American divisions undergoing training in the British zone.

Efficiency Essential

He also asked that a few of the available British divisions be moved to the rear of the group of Reserve Armies; but immediate satisfaction could not be given to this request since there remained the possibility of a German attack on the British front.

The reported presence on the Marne of several units belonging to the Crown Prince of Bavaria's group of armies was not sufficient excuse for rejecting this hypothesis.

Moreover, the immediate addition of the French 10th Army and of two more trained American divisions (3rd and 5th) to the northern group of armies, added to the divisions which Gen. Petain had withdrawn from the reserve and from the eastern group of armies, enabled the situation in my opinion to be restored; provided always that a clear line of conduct was laid down for each and all; that corresponding orders be executed with the greatest energy.

In my view, this was the predominating factor in the situation and this alone would enable the crisis to be conjured. I stated it plainly to Gen. Petain and to Gen. Duchesne at Trilport, on the afternoon of the 31st.

The same day, the 31st, Field Marshal Haig came to see me at Sarcus. I spoke to him regarding the possible employment in French sectors of the American divisions undergoing training with the British army, regarding possible withdrawal of two divisions from the army detachment of the north, and the help which the British army might be called upon to furnish in the event of a powerful offensive against the French front; hence the preparations which should now be made for sending this help if it became necessary.

Morale Lowered

On June 1, the enemy continued his attacks without a pause and made further important progress, both between the Marne and the Ourcq and towards the forest of Villers-Cotterets, whose eastern edges he reached.

General Petain considered that urgent measures were more and more necessary in view of the gravity of the situation. He wrote to me again, reiterated the difficulty he was experiencing in sustaining the battle, and renewed his requests of the previous day regarding the American and British divisions.

He forwarded with this letter a report from General de Castelnau, informing him that, if the Germans attacked in force on the front of the Eastern Group of Armies, at this moment denuded of all reserves, he would have no other course open to him but to "retire as rapidly as possible the divisions which were not attacked, regroup them, and maneuver to contain the enemy while waiting for better times."

All this clearly showed a want of confidence, such as I had called attention to, especially during my talk at Trilport, on May 31—the same symptoms I had already observed during the preceding weeks, and under similar circumstances, among some of the British. It once more became necessary for me to put a stimulant into our energies.

Decide on Americans

On June 2, after an interview with Gen. Petain, at Pomponne, I left the following note, which summarized our conversation:

1. The line of conduct to be followed by the French command is to stop the enemy's advance on Paris at all costs, especially in the region north of the Marne.

2. The means consists in a foot by foot defense of the territory in this direction, pursued with the utmost energy.

3. To accomplish this, it is essential that orders be drawn up presenting exactly what the troops must do, and see that these orders are strictly carried out, by removing any commanding officer who shows signs of weakness.

And, in order to restore confidence, I added:

4. All the Allied troops are oriented in the same direction and they will be put into the battle as resources in transportation become available.

Moreover, I took important steps to carry out this promise.

In agreement with Gen. Pershing, it was decided that five American divisions, then in training with the British Army, should be sent to the French front to relieve French units in quiet sectors, thus making the latter available for the battle.

In announcing these decisions, I once more emphasized the necessity of giving organization to the battle and of making an immediate appeal to "the energy, activity and resolution of all commanders."

Moreover, the arrival of large French reinforcements, a judicious redistribution of our command on the field of battle, added to the adversary's fatigue, tended more and more to stabilize the situation between the Oise and the Marne.

As early as June 2 and 3 the Germans had been advancing only with difficulty south of Soissons, and on June 4, upon encountering a solid front, they ceased their attacks.

Another battle was being prepared west of the Oise, between Noyon and Montdidier.

STOCK MARKET PRICES DRIFT DOWNWARD

Efforts to Rally Shares Fail as Street Gropes In Fog of Pessimism

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP.)—Wall street still groped in a fog of pessimism today.

For the fourth successive session share prices drifted lower. The decline has not had an important interruption in four weeks, and while the feeling persists in brokerage circles that one of those explosive technical rebounds that normally punctuate declining markets must appear soon, notable signs of such a development fail to appear. An effort was made to rally the list in the early trading, but the upturn was short lived and was quickly lost.

U. S. Steel sank slightly below yesterday's minimum to record a new bottom since 1927.

Trading continued at a listless pace. Fear that the market may be getting oversold restrained ambitious bearish ventures at this juncture, while nothing developed in the industrial or trade situation to inspire any notable efforts to advance the list. Pessimism has reached such extremes that executives are finding it necessary to spike adverse rumors regarding dividends. The last two were heads of the National Lead and Freeport Texas.

The weekly mercantile reivews reported generally quieter conditions. The Annalist's quarterly review of business said conditions which surround the current mild recession from the spring peak seem to promise very moderate activity until the autumn stimulus is felt in late summer. The Annalist's wholesale commodity index receded another point.

Further unsettlement in commodity prices has added a new element of uncertainty. In nonferrous metals, zinc receded further to a new low since 1901. Wheat prices, however, are firmer on reports of excessive dryness in the spring crop area.

The money market remains fairly firm at current low levels, largely attributable to government withdrawals of funds on deposit with banks. Call money was firm at the renewal rate of 1½ per cent. The weekly condition statement of the Federal Reserve system, however, showed member bank borrowings the lowest since 1917, and gold stock continues to mount to new high levels.

Westinghouse Gets Two Large Orders

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has received from Public Service Electric and Gas Company of New Jersey an order for a 75,000 kilowatt, 60-cycle, single-cylinder steam turbine generator unit. In addition Public Service recently ordered from Westinghouse an 18,000 kilowatt turbine. The value of the two orders is approximately $1,250,000.

Venezuelan Crude Output Declines

NEW YORK, April 17.—Production of crude oil in Venezuela in March averaged 331,698 barrels daily, against 338,798 barrels in February and 384,526 in March, 1930.

Total production for March of 10,282,727 barrels was the lowest for any month, with the exception of February this year, since September, 1928, when output totaled 7,503 barrels.

Hazeltine Granted Radio Injunction

NEW YORK, April 17.—Hazeltine Corporation has been granted a perpetual injunction restraining Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company from infringing the latter circuit neutralization patent, an accounting for damages involves about 2,000,000 Atwater Kent receivers.

Iron Ore Prices To Be Maintained

CLEVELAND, April 17.—Lake Superior iron ore prices will remain unchanged from last year, according to a number of large houses. These firms report that a substantial tonnage already has been sold at prices obtained in the previous season.

Says Americans Too Pessimistic

NEW YORK, April 17.—President Ecker, of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, says American people are unduly pessimistic of business conditions by about six months in the same manner that they were unwarrantably optimistic during six months preceding the stock market collapse.

Stock Membership Sells for $275,000

NEW YORK, April 17.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $275,000. This is a decrease of $25,000 from the last previous sale.

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, April 17.—Following the meeting of directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, no announcement was made regarding the re-discount rate which is 2 per cent.

Rubber Market.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Rubber futures opened easy: May, 6.40; July, 6.56; September, 6.70. New contracts—May, 6.42; July, 6.61; September, 6.80.

Old-Fashioned 'Gold Boom' Forecast, With Pitfalls For Speculators

By B. C. FORBES

AN OLD-TIMER in Wall street, who has been interested in gold stocks, supplies the following for readers of this column:

Mr. Forbes

"A regular old-fashioned gold boom has been gradually gaining momentum in the security markets.

"Wall street is rapidly reaching the boiling stage in the renewed excitement over gold-mining stocks. Canada already has attained the boiling stage, with rampant speculation in practically all gold-mining shares.

"One gold stock on the New York Stock Exchange has risen almost 300 per cent from its lowest price of 1930. On other exchanges, where gold-mining shares are more numerous, advances of 100 per cent or more in price have been very common.

"Thus far, the general public has become involved only in a small way. But all signs point to rabid participation unless the teachings of the past are heeded.

"SPONSORS FOR the present gold-stock boom proclaim the experience of past, that such stocks rise in the 'final stage of bear markets.' They also point to the gold shortage throughout the world.

"In respect to the latter, incidentally, it is estimated that possibly $1,000,000,000 economy in the need for gold has been effected merely through the decline of commodity prices.

"BUT, GOLD stocks have a lure greater perhaps than any other single class of security. So great a public speculation apparently is anticipated—or will be invited—that at least half a dozen Canadian brokerage houses have been rumored of late to be planning offices in New York. Hundreds of gold-mining stocks are listed on the Canadian exchanges.

"IT IS TO be expected, of course, that the stock-jobbers, the gentry who utilize such periods of public excitement to peddle worthless securities, will be actively on the job. Already there are distinct signs of renewed life among such circles."

CHAPTER VIII.

"Mousetrap" Finkel, a little man, looking enough like the rodent family to warrant his nickname, shivered in an ecstacy of fear.

"Glad to see you, boys—always glad to see you—" he muttered uneasily, as he seated his visitors. The waiter brought beer—for all but Scorpio, who called for milk. "And not skimmed, you greaseball." Finkel hovered over the table like a chattering monkey. Franks was smiling as he raised the glass to his lips.

"Not bad. But you're getting a truck of good beer tonight, Finkel. It's at your back door now. Cost you a grand."

"But I haven't got a grand, Mr. Johnny Franks.

"Get it!"

"And I just got in a truck load from Colimo."

"Get the grand," coldly from Franks. "After this you'll buy your beer from us."

Finkel moaned and protested. He murmured that he'd "look in his cash register." He scurried to his office behind the kitchen, where he rang Colimo on the phone.

"Joe!" he whispered. "Johnny Franks and his mob is here. Shaking me down for a truck load of beer."

"Stall him along—we'll be over," was the answer.

Colimo, in the quiet, charming apartment over his big restaurant, dropped the telephone, and with a sigh returned to the piano.

Gang Fears Colimo

Joe Colimo was the "Big Shot" of gangland in the city, and that Franks should have the temerity to "muscle in" seemed to irritate, rather than really alarm him. He pressed a button in his desk, and four men entered, led by a slim, dark Italian, in the buttonhole of whose well-tailored suit was a fresh gardenia. Mozzo always wore one. Hence, in the gang world, he was known as "Gardenia."

Colimo dropped onto the piano bench and his fingers found the strange, melancholy chords as he talked quietly—and smiled. When Joe Colimo smiled, even his gang was afraid of him.

"Franks and his mob are at Finkel's, muscling in. They have their rod men there and are dumping a truck of beer on Finkel."

"They got their nerve."

Ivan, the younger brother, joined the group.

"Look here, Joe," he pleaded, "let me go along. I'm going to be in this business with you, and I might as well learn the ropes. You take chances—why shouldn't I?"

Colimo, whose fingers were still gliding over the keys of the piano, shook his head.

"No, Ivan," he decided. "Tell Eddie Kluse to take six men and go down there. But—you stay here!"

"Aw, Joe, you still think I'm wearing diapers."

Colimo's Brother Killed

"I'm crazy about that kid." Joe Colimo's eyes had followed Ivan to the door. "When he's out of college, I'm going to send him to a law school."

"Speaking of lawyers, that's a clever mouthpiece of Johnny Franks'—that guy Newton. He gets them sprung after every pinch—sometimes I don't see how. I have a hunch we ought to get him away—have him with us. They tell me he's even organizing a political machine out there in Centro—they figure on electing their own officials, for protection."

"Yes—I used to know Newton well," Colimo's smile deepened.

"But we ought to get him with us now," persisted Gardenia.

"No—can't do it. I tried," answered Colimo.

"Well, better have him bumped off then."

Colimo considered a moment. "No," he remarked thoughtfully. "It would make a big row, because the papers all know him. And—I think booze will finish him quick enough anyhow. But we have to show this Franks' mob they'd better keep out of our territory."

Johnny Franks, sitting with his gang in Finkel's, began to stir uneasily.

"Taking that bird a long time to find out what's in his cash register—" he muttered. "I wonder if he phoned Colimo—"

The answer came before he finished the question. The door opened, and in stalked Eddie Kluse, followed by six burly gangsters.

Behind them came Ivan Colimo, a grin on his handsome face.

He had disobeyed his brother and followed the mob.

"Muscling in, hey?" demanded Kluse, approaching Franks' table belligerently. The men eyed each other and behind them the gang waited, warily.

Ivan, still grinning, nonchalantly moved over to the player piano, and dropped in a nickel. A discordant "rag" issued from the instrument.

Suddenly the lights in the place went out.

Shots flashed in the darkness.

Only the little red light in the player piano remained. Then glass shattered.

Bullets ripped through the instrument. The red light disappeared. A choking cry of pain came from Ivan.

There was a rush of feet—the sound of an automobile starting—and the Franks' gang was gone. The lights went on once more, and Kluse bent over a body, beside the mangled piano.

"My God! After 'em, boys!" he yelled. "They've croaked Ivan!"

DAILY TRUE STORY — Cold-Blooded

Attractive Girl Surprised By Professor's Act

"Not all professors are absent-minded," Martha Cawley remarked.

"No," her chum, Laura Kennelly, answered, rather tartly, "some are cold-blooded."

Martha smiled.

Despite her friendship with Laura, Martha was honest enough to admit to herself that Laura had but one ambition, and that was to make this handsome young professor, Horace Pendleton, fall in love with her.

"I don't think Prof. Pendleton is cold-blooded. He seems to be very humane. He is extremely kind and patient and decidedly sympathetic—"

"Oh, I don't mean that he's cruel. I mean that he doesn't possess a heart, he doesn't take the slightest interest in women—he's passionless, love-proof—no fire in his blood."

"Good diagram, Laura, but what brought it on?"

"Nothing, just observing things," Laura fibbed.

The truth was that Laura had been exerting every one of her many arts to interest Prof. Pendleton, even to practically throwing herself into his arms.

Laura's Pride Hurt

He had not responded.

For three summers Prof. Pendleton had lived at his wealthy aunt's fine country home at Birch Ridge.

There was quite a colony located at the lake at the foot of the ridge, artists, writers and others who might be classed as more or less "intellectuals."

And each summer Martha and Laura had become more friendly with Pendleton.

Martha did miniatures well enough to make an enjoyable and profitable living. She had built a little bungalow at the lake. She had been chummy with Laura almost since girlhood. Laura merely dabbled in things. She didn't have to succeed. She had a generous life income and she liked to hang on the fringe of a charming group of workers like Martha, writers, artists and others of that ilk.

Laura was attractive, really prettier than Martha in a rather queenly style of beauty.

Martha knew Laura thoroughly. She felt quite sure that Laura wasn't really madly in love with the professor. Her pride was hurt. Heretofore she had been able to make almost any young man come at her beck and call. She had received a great many proposals, and did not boast of them.

The first time Laura saw young Professor Horace Pendleton she had liked his looks. He certainly did not look pedantic or academic. He looked like a mature athlete who had recently finished his college course and gone into business—bonds or some such thing.

Laura, upon being introduced by Mrs. Garvey, Pendleton's aunt, at once started to be "interesting" to him, and when Laura Kennelly started to be interesting to a young man she succeeded—up to this time.

Pendleton was not interested. To him Laura was not interesting.

Martha discovered at the close of this second summer that she was getting deeply interested in Prof. Pendleton.

She thought a great deal about him through the winter. She even sent him a little holiday card.

And when they were all at this colony for the third season Martha knew well enough that she was in love with Prof. Horace Pendleton.

She wouldn't admit it to Laura, naturally, nor did she give any sign of her alarm when Laura vowed that she was going to devote the entire summer and all her wiles to arousing in Pendleton a realization of the tender passion.

Arrives With Picture

This summer the professor, having admired some of Martha's miniatures, told her that he wanted very much a miniature of his mother.

"I am coming along here at 9 tomorrow, Miss Cawley," he said, "on my way to the upper pond for some fishing. I will bring a photograph of my mother and if I can get you to do a miniature of her I will have her come down to my aunt's place for a while and she will sit for you."

The next day at 9 he brought the photograph, thanked Martha briefly when she said she would do a miniature, and went his way with merely a formal nod and "Good morning, Miss Kennelly" to Laura.

This was why Martha remarked that not all professors were absent-minded. He came on the minute and brought the photograph.

Mrs. Pendleton came after a while. Martha rode up to the big house with Pendleton and was introduced. She liked his mother. They discussed miniatures and Martha told them that it would be easier for her to sit up there. Out on the terrace under the wistaria she would feel more comfortable and at home.

Pendleton drove Martha back.

Praised by Mother

"Every man's mother is beautiful, Mr. Pendleton, to her son, if he's a real man—I know how beautiful she is to you—but really she is a beautiful old lady to me. I feel that I am going to do a satisfactory miniature of her."

"My mother is beautiful—you said it so cleverly, Miss Cawley, and so sincerely. Is your mother living?"

She shook her head and glanced away.

He did the proper thing, said nothing at all.

Mrs. Pendleton was delightful. She talked a great deal about her "Horace." She did not say that he was the smartest boy in the world or the best, and Martha commented on this to Pendleton when he drove her back home.

"Mother doesn't exaggerate," he told her.

"She said the finest thing any mother could say or any son could hope to have said about him—she said you had never given her a tear and were as good a son as any woman deserved."

He looked at Martha quickly.

"She never said that before, to my knowledge. Mother is rather undemonstrative—like myself."

"It is better to lean that way than the other," and Martha laughed gaily. Just to be with him and talk with him made her feel gay.

Tells of Experiences

The miniature progressed.

Laura made a lot of fun of Martha for using up her vacation time with work.

"I know he looks at you as a sort of machine, a painting machine—he always comes down for his swim and doesn't hang around any," Laura observed.

"Why should he?"

Laura had no answer for that.

But one afternoon, when the miniature was nearly finished, Mrs. Pendleton couldn't sit. She wasn't well enough. Pendleton wasn't worried. His mother had her illnesses now and then, he explained.

They sat and talked a great deal. Pendleton told about his travels, about the many strange people he had seen. It was all a part of his study of antropology.

"The Eskimos think we are a silly lot, to kiss," he said, and he related the showing of some moving pictures aboard ship to them on one of his Arctic trips.

"They rub noses," he said.

"How silly," Martha cried.

"It seems to me to be more sensible, more hygienic"—he leaned over to Martha—"permit me to show you, will you, Miss Cawley?"

Martha nodded and smiled.

He started to show her.

It didn't work—he kissed her!

"I couldn't help it," he said, still holding her in his arms.

"I hoped you wouldn't try—I—"

He kissed her again and one cannot finish a sentence when being kissed.

"I wanted to do this long ago. I even confessed it to mother and after she got to know you she told me she believed you would—er—wouldn't object," he explained.

He drove her home finally.

Laura Kennelly actually fell out of the porch chair, she was so surprised when she saw Prof. Horace Pendleton help Martha out of his car at the bungalow gate and then embrace and kiss her.

WARNING NO. 2

Note—This department recently printed a verse hinting that sloppy guys who sob when they hear a cello make the kind of husbands who sock their wives. Today Minniesinger Davis agrees and goes further—

Ah, yes, my friend, that's sad but true,
And don't forget the neighbor who
Drops in to chat and borrow bread,
And puts your old dog on the head;
But Rover growls, instinctively
Preferring better company—
And later, lured by sly deceit,

Where, sniffing blissfully for cats,
He gets a swift kick in the slats.

Dear Madame Bella:—

I have often heard my uncle, the late J. Afghanistan Bancock, speak of a native "Kaboc" or devil dancer, whom he had met in the jungle wastes of Haroo-Karui, in the fall of 1867. She (the devil dancer of "Kaboc") was called Bell-Bell, a loose translation of which means "Hot-Patootie."

Meaning no offense, I would like to ask where you spent the summer and fall of '67.

Ans.—I well remember Afghanistan and the fall of '67. I was an innocent demonstrator for the Faster Sewing Machine Company. I packed in with your uncle—he was the mule. You say the natives called me "Bell-Bell." I'd like to tell you what they called your uncle—but postal regulations won't permit it.

Sunday Sports Legal?

Judge Keller Says Amateur Games Are If They Do Not Disturb Worship or Peace in Neighborhood.

Judge W. H. Keller, of the Superior Court, in an address here, expressed his opinion that the blue law (act of 1794) is sufficiently elastic to permit Sunday golf or a quiet game of baseball. The jurist, in part, said:

"This old act is not one-half so blue, not one-half so rigorous and not one-half so forbidding as many think. There is nothing in the act to prohibit Sunday golf or a quiet game of baseball played by your boys, if they do not interfere with divine worship or the peace and good order of the neighborhood. Many necessary activities are permitted. Overstrict enforcement of the law sometimes does more harm than good, and the courts have clearly recognized this. Things that were not necessities in 1794 are necessities now. As people grow and advance, the law grows with them.

Judge Keller, one can readily see, views an old law with a properly modern eye, which is encouraging to those who believe the act is most restrictive. These can see no elasticity whatever in it, and many will believe that the quality Judge Keller attributes to the blue law is not inherent in it, but lies more in the interpretation of it in courts. In that there is no assurance that all would be as tolerant and liberal as Judge Keller.

The law itself provides that "if any person shall do or perform any worldly employment or business whatsoever on the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday (works of necessity and charity only excepted), shall use or practice any unlawful game, hunting, shooting, sport or diversion whatsover on the same day, and be convicted thereof," etc., with statement of the penalty.

There is nothing in the above that makes exception, as Judge Keller does, about golf and boys' baseball—"if they do not interfere with divine worship or the peace and good order of the neighborhood."

So it must be that only the interpretation of such a liberal jurist as Judge Keller would make these sports legally permissible on Sunday, and that only under a technical interpretation of the exact meaning of the words—"practice any unlawful game." Of course neither golf nor baseball are unlawful games and if that fact lets the bars down to them on Sunday, the question naturally arises—why does not the interpretation apply with equal force to professional baseball?

The answer to that probably is that professional baseball is not interpreted to be a lawful game but a "worldly employment or business," and hence not entitled to the exception that possibly could be applied to non-professional sports by a liberal judge. Yet to the patrons of the game it is merely recreation, prized by them as much as the recreation participated in directly by players of baseball and golf. It also shows the unfairness of enforcement of law by interpretation.

Anyway, why should law that so affects the lives of our people be indefinite? In reality, it is not. It is most definite and most rigorous insofar as its wording is concerned. That the courts have become more liberal than the law itself, it seems to us, is a most potent reason for making a change desirable and necessary.

The people will honor Judge Keller for his esteemed and valuable interpretation of the law, but one will remember that he might be put to a great deal of annoyance, should he attempt to follow the implication of the Judge's words, be arrested and fined, then appeal and finally get the matter before a jurist as open-minded as Judge Keller is, so that his rights could be legally declared in a court of standing.

Better Business Ahead

Dr. Julius Klein Says Nation Is on Path to Trade Recovery.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, says that the nation is definitely on its way back to healthy business conditions, but he cautioned against building hopes on anything except a gradual increase in activity.

This statement from such a skilled student of commercial affairs is distinctly encouraging. It reflects the fact that business statistics in March gave definite evidence of recovery in several important industries.

During the month more steel was bought than in February; more automobiles were made; tire output climbed; electric power consumption gained and building construction was greater in many parts of the country.

The progress toward recovery may be slow, however, and there may be frequent interruptions. It is to be hoped that the slight lull in steel mill activity reported during the past two weeks is only a temporary condition and does not indicate that the recovery in business is to be deferred for any long period.

A Use for Whiskers

England Discovers One.

At last a use has been found for whiskers. Several large hotels in London have ordered their waiters to grow them. It is the only way, they say, that they can distinguish the waiters from the guests.

The decision was made as a last resort. For years the hotel managements have been perplexed by the problem. They have tried dressing waiters in knee breeches. The effect, however, was too theatrical. Then they put flowers in their buttonholes, but several of England's leading statesmen and members of the nobility and gentry wear them too. Thus embarrassments arose.

Side whiskers, of the type known here as mutton chop, banker or burnside are apparently the answer to the problem. And the rest of the world will heave a sigh of relief that a solution has been discovered. It was a momentous question, now happily answered. Yet it seems strange that confusion arose in the first place. Usually, if a man looks like a waiter he is a patron. And if he looks like a patron, he is a waiter. That is always a safe guide—in this country, anyway. But perhaps England is different.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.

Europe's Attic

By Nelson Harding

Relegated to the attic
Are the quaint old-fashioned pieces
Of that furniture no longer
Wanted in a modern household.

This is now the nation's throne room
Where outmoded things are resting
Where antiques are in the kingdom
Of the mice and dust and cobwebs.

Not a Howling Beauty

History Often Exaggerates.

"If the nose of Cleopatra had been shorter the face of the earth would have been changed." So says Pascal. The nose might have been shortened, without hurting it, but what real difference would that have made? She was not loved for her nose.

If her pocketbook, her supply of gold had been slimmer, that WOULD have made a difference.

THE REAL CLEOPATRA, RATHER PLAIN.

Shakespeare thought, and the world has believed, that Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, mother of Caesar's little son Caesarion, Mark Antony's affinity, and world trouble-maker, was an extraordinary beauty.

You were told that, for love of her extraordinary charms, Mark Antony "madly flung a world away."

But from Ferrero, the distinguished Italian historian, you learn that Mark Antony did nothing of the kind.

Mark Antony was fighting Caesar for control of Rome; needed money to keep up his armies, and GOLD money.

The greatest gold supply in the world at that time belonged to Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt. Mark Antony went after Cleopatra, to get the gold.

But it ended badly. He had to kill himself, and so did Cleopatra. According to legend she allowed an asp, poisonous serpent, to sting her to death.

Ferrero tells, coldly, that the lady was plain, and the picture above, which is authentic, shows what she looked like. To call her beautiful you would have to use your imagination, and she would have to have A GREAT DEAL OF GOLD.

Descended from Alexander's great general, Ptolemy, the lady had various blood mixtures. She married one of her own brothers, in accordance with Egyptian custom.

She went to visit Caesar, having herself rolled up in a rug to make sure she would get in, and before she made a fool of Mark Antony. She is supposed to have worn the rug only, made the visit in her "teens," and Caesar fell.

They are all dead now, and we must have only kind feelings about them. But this lady would certainly have created no sensation in Hollywood.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 17.—Thoughts while strolling: Nobody has needlessly swum anything for some time. That purplish haze over Jersey at sundown. The molten silver of the Hudson. Side-wheelers chugging to Albany. The plinkety-plank of string orchestras. A hail of cinders when a train rushes by.

Riverside drive is not the same without those statues in front of Amelia Bingham's. The two marble fronted mansions of Egyptian cigaret millionaires. Twilight snugglers on the stone wall skirting the Hudson. Training ship sailors strolling with pick-ups. Smothery giggles.

The whirligig of lights at Palisades Park. Where Joseph Schenck got his start. The lonely roadside photographer. That medical center's ticket of spires and the old C. G. K. Billings estate. The locale of many Vina Delmar stories — Inwood. Ten-a-month garages.

Upper Broadway's glitter. Radios squawking from every window. Movies featuring try-out turns that will reach the Palace later if they click. Oily haired sheiks in the butter and egg stores. Groceries decorated with squares of red-lettered prices. The debutantes are going to the Roosevelt Grill for tea dancing.

The Ansonia sliced up with rows of small shops. The Old Colonial theater dark. Once vaudeville's high spot uptown. Daddy Browning's huge real estate sign shifting into three colors. The spurt of life around Columbus Circle. If it isn't John McGraw, it's his double.

That dark, glowering blotch of Fifty-third street running east and west from Broadway. And the Broadway Theater, with the Empire, the only theaters left on the White Way. Blue jowled gentlemen studying the racing form. Jeanette Hackett. Paul Specht, a Sinking Springs (Pa.) boy, who made good in the city.

The movie-of-yourself, photomaton and usherless quarter-in-the-slot theaters. Scarcely a building in the Broadway 40's that stood 25 years ago. What will it be like 25 years hence? And I hope I will be here to tell you. Do you mind?

* * *

P. G. Wodehouse recently dedicated a book to his little daughter Leonora. The dedication runs: "To my dear daughter, without whose constant help and encouragement this book would have been finished in half the time."

Cafes fashioned like Pullman cars have never taken on although a half dozen have been tried out. But a new one is announced for Madison avenue. It will seat 76 and be just too perfectly Pierre for anything. The sort of place where one goes deliberately and then feels it is not the money but the principle.

A guild of confidence men in New York are known as "Prominent People Racketeers." They specialize in tricking newly rich whose vanities are easily touched.

Overheard atop of Fifth avenue bus: "She's taking a new fangled treatment where they lock her up in a dark room with a lot of queer smells."

On West Fifty-third street last evening was a ladder over the sidewalk. It was interesting to watch almost everybody step into the gutter and walk around it. All except a rather hefty lady who approached it with a gleam, grabbed hold and laid it on the sidewalk. And walked angrily on. Amid much handclapping. Fun in the city, no end.

For many years I have in a sort of secretive way wanted to meet some lady who bore the name of Topsy. I visualized such a creature as frantically hoydenish—the fluffy sort who would drink champagne at 3 in the afternoon and fairly bustle with sophistication. Today an artist called. With him was a prim lady he introduced as his secretary—Miss Topsy. I rather expected the room suddenly to fill with plebian revelry, confetti and perhaps horn blowing. Instead she proved a sad eyed lady with a complexion suggesting a smear of vanila blanc mange who gave the dogs a timid pat and then asked where she might wash her hands.

Inspired doubtless by Miss Topsy's gravity when Verne Porter dropped in later talk turned to the bleakness of existence. It came to us in our lamentations that 2:30 in the afternoon was life's barrenest moment. And suddenly discovering it was just 2:30 we became so touched that we parted blinking back scalding tears.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Now, a Youth of Babylon approached me, saying:

"Tell me, O Woman of Wisdom, wherefore have all the kisses of women become unto me as one kiss—and that one deadly? For the fairest of lips have become as ashes of roses, and the most come-hither smile hath no power to move me.

* * *

"Verily, verily, one damsel differeth from another, only in the flavor of her lipstick. And the-kiss-with-a-thrill is no more!"

And, I counseled him saying:

"My Son, be not without reason! For, behold, a kiss is the wine of love, today, yesterday and forever!

* * *

"But, alas, even WINE, ceaseth to be a stimulant, when it is diluted with water and partaken of as a daily diet. Yes, verily, even a potent drug loseth its magic when it becometh a habit.

"And were radium as abundant as sand and orchids as common as dandelions, WHO would covet them or find them desirable?

* * *

"Go to! There be many varieties of kisses. The kiss that stimulateth the pulse and the kiss that wearieth the spirit, the kiss of love and the kiss of experiment, the kiss of friendship, the kiss of curiosity, the kiss of adventure and the kiss of duty.

"But the deadliest of all kisses is the kiss of HABIT!

"Then, I charge thee, if thou wouldst find flavor in a kiss, be not lavish of thy kisses, but frugal and discriminating withal; and waste not thy caresses upon the fair and the unfair, alike.

"Do damsels pursue thee and seek to kiss thee against they will? Suffer them not to entice thee, but resist them with all thy strength and with all thy wit and with all thy diplomacy. Yes, be courteous, but impregnable! For even a wild woman respecteth a modest man's reticence and admireth his restraint.

"Let not flappers prevail over thee, nor grass-widows persuade thee; for the first are bold, and the second wily. And what chance hath a weak and tender man against their cunning? Yet, all their pettings lead but to boredom and the kiss of deadliness!

* * *

"Go to. Of kissing and the giving of kisses, there is too MUCH. And a little total abstinence refresheth the spirit and reviveth the zest."

Science Cannot Replace Religion

By Archibald Henderson

Nowadays someone is always warning us against something. Beware of this, that or the other! Art is too realistic, we are told; sex is being overplayed. Or philosophy has lost its hold upon the world. Or religion no longer means anything. Even science does not escape the prevalent mania for denigration. To be hard-boiled is to be modern—and superior. We are daily warned of the dangers of credulity.

Bernard Shaw makes bitter assaults upon the doctors, excoriates the vivisectors, and exposes vaccination as a superstition and a fetish. Edison makes light of current methods of education, and dwells upon the uselessness of much that we study in our schools, colleges and universities. Einstein inspires suspicion and doubt of the absolute, and reduces the world to a system of relativity.

Not long before his death Field Marshal Earl Haig, a conservative and not a radical, warned the youth of England against the danger which lies in making science into a sort of deity. Avoid making a pseudo-religion out of science and a pseudo-science out of religion. Credulity is dangerous. Don't make the mistake of believing in the impossible.

There is a searching of minds and a searching of hearts regarding both science and religion. If religion is failing us, shall we not look then to science to bring us out of this slough of despond? Perhaps science, the reliable, the truth incarnate, may vamp up a new religion for us and bring back our old confidence and certitude.

It can scarcely be doubted that science is being called upon to perform the impossible, to work miracles. Our scepticism, our persistent practice of debunking, has resulted in exposing much imposture and producing vacua in many regions. Unfortunately, as E. T. Bell points out in Debunking Science, the result has been that science suddenly expanded and filled the hole.

This is surely not a healthy state of affairs. If religion weakens or fails, let us say for the sake of argument, surely it is unduly credulous to believe that science can do for the race what religion has failed to do. Science has nothing to do with either morality or ethics. The scientist discovers a new high explosive or a new poison gas; but he does not say what is to be done with these dangerous new discoveries. Let us not be so credulous as to believe that, for all its marvelous accomplishments, science is omnipotent and can take the place of philosophy and religion.

Isn't It So?

Rules and models destroy genius and art.

The man who is in the mud likes to pull another into it.

A woman who depends only upon her looks had better—look out.

It's the girl with too many strings to her beau who is apt to get all tangled up.

One test of tact is an ability to laugh at a story and pretend you never heard it before.

It's a fact that two can live more cheaply than one if the old man's the one they live on.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Lucille looks at me with contempt.

She looks at me with contempt because I work 10 hours a day . . . because I don't go to parties . . . because I stick at the same job, year after year, even though I sometimes get mad at my boss and my boss sometimes gets mad at me.

Lucille doesn't believe in sticking to things or standing things. She is a Bright Young Thing of 23. She made a great record in college . . . was editor of the college paper and wrote all sorts of thrilling, radical stuff. Everyone said that Lucille had a Great Future before her. Lucille, herself, took it for granted.

While she was in college, Lucille collected the idea that if you Knew Enough Things and were Smart Enough you had that world by the tail. Just Knowing Things and Being Smart—that was the campus code. It was also the code of all the Bright Young Things outside the campus. Now get this straight—it was a real code. It wasn't based on flippancy or rebellion or young conceit. Lucille's generation really believe they have the dope on How to Live Life. They honestly think that Knowing Things and Being Smart are the makings of success. And there was no denying that Lucille Knew Things and was Plenty Smart.

So Lucille graduated and Became a Writer. To be sure, the writing wasn't much. She "did clubs" on one of our smaller papers, and for exactly three months it was a Big Bang. Then Lucille realized that if she Went On Like That She Would Ruin Her Creative Ability. It simply wasn't possible for a Creative Artist to keep regular office hours and do the same old thing at the same old time, day after day. You couldn't express yourself under those conditions. You became a robot. Only slaves lived like that. And, besides, it wasn't necessary. You didn't have to endure that sort of thing unless you wanted to endure it. Smart people with spunk refused to be "part of the machine." They got out—and succeeded twice as fast.

So Lucille, being smart and having spunk, quit that job and hasn't taken any other since. That was two years ago. Now she is living with her folks. She doesn't think much of her folks. She says the home atmosphere is deadly, and she's going to get out as soon as she is independent. But, of course, she's a little slow in becoming independent. She has only sold two stories in two years. She got $35 for the best one. But Lucille says she doesn't care about money. She insists that money isn't the point with Creative Artists. They Must Live.

So, whenever Lucille feels like Living, which is about 16 hours per day, she goes right out and does it. This she calls Expressing Herself. She's sure that, when she gets around to it, it will make Wonderful Writing Material. In the meantime, it's a little hard on Dad, who has to pay the bills. But Dad doesn't count. He's just another of those 10-hours-a-day workers, with slave complexes. And he probably wouldn't know how to live even if he got a chance.

This is why Lucille looks at me with contempt. This is why many of the Younger Generation look at the Older Generation with contempt. They are sure that it is possible to succeed without all this stifling monotony and discipline. "NIX ON DISCIPLINE!" is their slogan—and they mean it. And they point to us as Horrible Examples of Wasted Lives.

Well, maybe they're right. BUT I HAVE A HUNCH THAT MOST OF THEM ARE DUE FOR A BIG SURPRISE.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Hospital Room!

There are secrets here,
If the walls could speak,
Which would give me clues
To the truths I seek.

Here has pain sojourned
Many a weary day
When the wings of hope
Fluttered far away.

Doubt has often dwelt
In this sun-lit place;
On its bare, white floor
Men have heard Fear pace.

But today, a change
In the small, clean room;
With life's purest fires
Now the four walls bloom.

Here a mother lies
With her face like morn,
And against her breast
Sleeps a babe, new-born.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How often you have wished for an executive job!

You are tired of the physical work you must put into your present job.

Yet you never feel that you are doing anything unless you are active physically.

You have opposing sides to your nature.

You want to be the person who plans, but you won't sit still and think.

You must keep your hands and feet moving and you want to move about.

And now you are objecting to a position that requires action.

You cannot be a good executive till you have trained yourself to think.

You must master your mental forces.

Some persons who dictate to a stenographer walk constantly as they talk because they can't seem to think straight without walking.

Little tricks like this indicate your mentality very clearly.

Learn to control action as well as thoughts.

Make one lie down when the other is awake.

Until you can do this you will not make your mark as an executive.

If there must be physical action to your work remain where that is required.
